Copes Help Prepare For National Holstein Convention

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

GRANTHAM (Cumberland Co.) — John and Helen Cope have been members of the Pennsylvania and National Holstein associations since the mid-1950s.

Next month, they will be the official hosts when thousands of their fellow association members come to Pittsburgh for the 110th annual National Holstein Association Convention.

This is the first time that Pennsylvania has served as the convention site since 1976, and the Copes have put plenty of work into making sure everyone learns a lot while having a good time.

John Cope, who is semi-retired from the Ashcombe's dairy operation in York County, said he and his wife have been involved in planning for the convention for the past four years.

The Copes, who are co-chairpersons of the convention, have been working with 18 planning committees that have a total of about 230 members.

John Cope said he and Helen became chairpersons of the event after they were asked to take the job by the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

John has been a member of the national association's board of directors for 13 years and has

Pa. Guernsey Association Holds Awards Banquet

1995 Pa. Guernsey Queen

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — The Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association recently held its convention April 21-22 with an awards banquet at the Arena Restaurant in Bedford, a breakfast queen coronation, and the annual Blue Halter Calf Sale.

The 1995 state Guernsey Queen is Melissa Morrow, of Tyrone, who was crowned by Beth Anne Clark, outgoing queen during a morning event during the second day of the convention.

The contestants were introduced during the awards banquet the evening prior.

During the awards banquet, Snyder-Homestead Guernseys, in New Enterprise, received multiple honors.

The breed association also recognized the recipients of All Pennsylvania awards, based on the results of showing an animal throughout the year, according to age class.

Officers of the association include Berneta Gable, of Snyder-Homestead Guernseys, president;

Ridge Appoints Deputy Ag Secretaries

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius on Wednesday announced Ridge's appointment of three deputy secretaries for the Agriculture Department.

"I am delighted to welcome these three well-qualified experienced individuals. They will work with me in leadership positions within the department to increase the visibility of the Keystone state's number one industry," Brosius said.

"Gov. Ridge recognizes the importance of increasing the profitability of our farms and agribusiness to maintain a position of strength, and our new deputies are committed to being a part of that effort."

Ridge appointed Walter Peechatka, executive deputy secretary; Russell C. Redding, deputy secretary for marketing, promotion and program services; and Christian R. Herr, deputy secretary for regulatory programs.

Peechatka, formerly deputy secretary for regulatory programs and director of the Bureau of Plant

Dairy Recipe Contest, Families Part Of Lancaster Farming's June Dairy Month Celebration

Lancaster Farming is holding a Cow Mania Drawing. To be eligible to win one of the collectible cow items offered, send a recipe using at least one dairy product as a sizeable ingredient.

The recipe may be for an appetizer, dip, soup, bread, main dish, vegetable, dessert, beverage, snack or salad. It must include at least one of the following ingredients: milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, ice cream, cottage cheese, ricotta cheese, cream cheese, or any hard or soft cheese.

Do not send recipes using margarine or non-dairy substitutes.

Clearly print or type your recipe. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use.

Be sure to include your name, full address, and phone number on the recipe. Please include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, we'd like a picture of you or your family to include with the recipe when it is printed during June Dairy Month. Photos will be returned if you mark your name and address on the back of the photo.

This is a popular annual event for our readers who not only enjoy the recipes but also reading tidbits of information about the person who submits the recipe.

Send your recipe, accompanying information, and photo to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Cow Mania Drawing, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

Only one recipe per family. Send it immediately as the deadline for entries to reach us is June 1.

Opportunities On Increase For Poultry Grads

JUDITH PATTON
Union Co. Correspondent

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — At the fifth annual Penn State Poultry Science Club Awards Banquet last week, club members, parents, faculty, and friends recognized the year's achievements and listened to words of wisdom from Paul Hann, president of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

Since graduating in ag education from Penn State, Hann has been a salesman for Purina Mills. He has attained Top Salesman of the Year status several times and has been president of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Marketing Association.

Citing an increase in opportunities in the future for agriculture graduates, Hann told students they need to adapt to changes in the field and to use their college education to maximize their experiences. Hard work and common sense are two keys to success, he said, along with the ability to work with people, to listen to others, to work at what you love to do, and to apply information in books to real life.

Hann's advice to students for making their lives matter was to "care for people, risk more than others think is safe, dream more than others think is practical, and expect more than others think is possible." Accepting responsibility for mistakes and faults and correcting them when possible is also

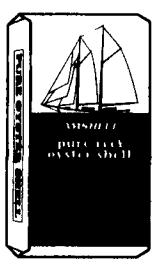
TIPS TO IMPROVE EGGSHELL QUALITY...

Dr Milton Scott
Nutritional Consultant

"Look for insults"

A transparent "Electronic Egg" that lights on impacts that might crack or break an egg is a useful tool. Run it through the entire collection and processing system to locate points that are providing more than their share of insults.

Sometimes cleaning or adjustment will eliminate or alleviate a trouble spot. But there will always be insults. Oyster shell is extra insurance that you'll have strong eggshells to help minimize the results of insults.



For details on the "Electronic Egg" and the use of oyster shells, contact The Fox Co., PO Box 708, Newfield, NJ 08344. FAX 609/697-1692, Phone 800/257-7022.

National Egg Market

ATLANTA, GA

MAY 03, 1995

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged to lower in the Northeast and Mid-west, and elsewhere prices were unchanged. The market tone was barely steady to weak. Demand into retail channels was unaggressive, and generally no better than moderate unless features were in progress or planned. Supplies of the large sizes were adequate to long, and surplus offerings usually traded at discounts; medium supplies were generally adequate. Breaking stock supplies were at least adequate for the light to moderate demand, and the undertone was no better than steady, and many buyers bid lower prices. Live hen offerings remained at least adequate.

BULK IN A BAG

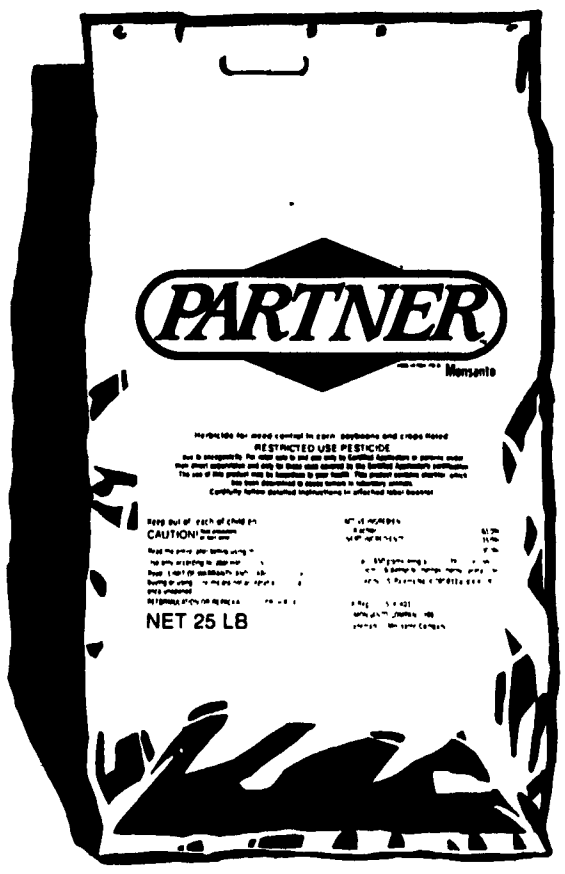
the performance of encapsulation.
The convenience of a dry.
At A Price Comparable To Other Bulk Herbicides



Timed-release Partner® is agriculture's first dry encapsulated herbicide. It provides season-long grass control. It goes into solution quickly and the easy-handling 25 lb. bag can cover up to 8 acres. Plus, there are no messy jug disposal problems to worry about either. Any way you look at it, Partner is the easier way to control weeds.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Tuesday May 03, 1995

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
Daily National Grain Summary

Wheat bids continued higher due to ongoing rain delayed planting in the Northern Plains states. Corn and bean traders backed off, however, in a corrective manuver due to ideas recent gains have been overdone and drier weather is in forecasts for Midwest areas by the weekend. Wheat 1 to 5 cents higher. Corn 3 to 5 cents lower. Sorghum 4 to 6 cents lower. Soybeans 3 to 9 cents lower. Wheat bids continued to receive support from rainfall in the Plains states and the delays in spring wheat seeding. Some weakness was noted, however, as export demand remains very slow this week and lower corn and bean bids knocked some strength out of wheat. Corn and bean bids declined as traders corrected recent upturns. Clearing weather has been forecast for the Midwest areas by this weekend and farmers are anxious to return to fields. However, many areas are very wet may take a while to dry enough to plant. Higher bids over the past couple of days have boosted farmer selling and weakened bids. Very good export demand for corn and beans this week, limited the declines.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

MAY 8 - 14, 1995

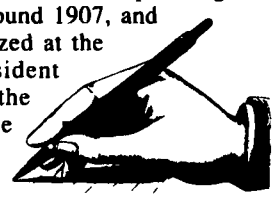
MOTHER'S DAY LETTERS

Hilaria, an ancient spring festival to honor the mother goddess, Cybele, may have been the precusor to Mother's Day. Medieval England celebrated Mothering Sunday on the fourth Sunday of Lent, when apprentices got the day off to visit their mothers, often bringing an almond-flavored fruitcake. In the U.S., several late-19th century attempts to honor motherhood failed, until Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia began a letterwriting campaign, around 1907, and got Mother's Day recognized at the state level. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson issued the national proclamation. See what a letter can do?



A bustling mother makes a slothful daughter.

— Latin proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ If soot falls on the carpet, sprinkle it first with salt. Then it can be brushed up without leaving a black stain.

GREAT GRANDMOTHER'S SPONGE CAKE

2 cups sugar, divided
4 eggs
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup hot milk
4 tablespoons melted butter

In a large bowl, beat together 1 cup sugar and 2 eggs until fluffy. Add remaining sugar and eggs, beating constantly. Sift together flour and baking powder three times, and gradually add to mixture. Add vanilla and salt. Stir in hot milk and melted butter. Pour into greased and floured 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 350° F for 40 to 45 minutes. Cool on a rack.

Makes about 12 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Saint Pancras (May 12) does not pass without frost.

In the middle of May comes the tail of winter.

A cold May is kindly and fills the barn finely.

The full Moon eats clouds.

Near full Moon, a misty sunrise bodes fair weather and cloudless skies.

OPINION

Keep Us Out Of Foreign Hock

About 25 percent of the value of our farm products comes from exports, more than $45 billion this year. Until somebody figures out how to get American consumers to willingly spend more money for their food, expanding export markets are our best opportunity to produce most efficiently, effectively, and profitably.

Dean Klechner, president, American Farm Bureau, says increased standards of living around the world are changing our markets and the demand for our products. The sale of bulk commodities is declining somewhat in value and market share. Foreign competition plays a large role in this decline. On the good side, we see mushrooming foreign demand for our fresh fruits, nuts, and processed foods.

Last year, we exported $98 million worth of frozen french fries to Japan, for example. We don't know of a single frozen french fry grower. We grow potatoes. Other American workers truck, process, market, distribute, advertise, and do all the other steps needed to get an American potato into a Japanese wok. One of every six American workers already depends on agriculture. Increasing exports will make an even greater contribution.

President Bill Clinton is also aware of the contribution farmers make to the export situation. Speaking at the national rural conference at Iowa State University in Ames last week, President Clinton said, "We have a $20 billion surplus in agricultural trade. We've got a big trade deficit in everything else."

Being in debt to other nations provides the greatest weakness in our economic system. Farmers and related agribusinesses certainly do their part to help keep us out of foreign hock.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Attend Clean And Green Meetings

Reassessment notices will be in the mail.

One important option for Lancaster County farmers is Act 319, or Clean and Green.

To help farmers better understand Act 319, Lancaster County Cooperative Extension has planned two more meetings on Act 319. The first one will be at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 9 at the Hoffman Building at the Solanco Fairgrounds, Quarryville. The other meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, May 15 at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

I will be presenting the program at both meetings. We will be discussing why Act 319 was enacted, the appraisal process in Lancaster County, Clean and Green values, and how farmers may enroll.

For one 91-acre farm in the county, Clean and Green may save the farmer more than $5,500 in taxes in 1996. In addition, by enrolling in Clean and Green, this farmer's taxes would be about $100 higher in 1996 compared to 1995.

Also, other organizations are planning meetings on Act 319 and scheduling dropoff points where notary publics will be available and applications will be accepted.

Remember, June 1, 1995 is the deadline for filing applications for the 1996 tax year.

To Prepare For Skunks

Sooner or latter your pet will have a run-in with a skunk and bring back an odor that will make him very unpopular.

Paul Krebaum, a chemist, has used an alkaline hydrogen peroxide compound to remove hydrogen sulfide from waste gas streams in his laboratory. This compound also destroys a class of chemicals called thiols, which are the major constituents of skunk spray.

One evening, a neighbor's cat had an encounter with a skunk and was exiled from the house. He tried the usual remedies (tomato juice, etc.) without success.

Krebaum suggested they bathe the cat in a modified version of the laboratory reagent. It worked, and the cat was allowed back into the house.

Here is the formula for pets: one quart of 3 percent hydrogen peroxide (from a drug store), ¼ cup baking soda (sodium bicarbonate), and one teaspoon liquid soap. Thoroughly bathe the animal, working the soapy solution well into the fur. Follow the bath with a tap water rinse.

This remedy may also work for cleaning the front bumper of your car should you hit a skunk.

To Control Flies

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, the three keys to fly control on dairy farms are sanitation, sanitation, and sanitation.

Without good manure and feed handling practices, neither chemical nor biological control methods will work. Integrated fly control offers the most effective strategy and less insecticide use.

Farmers often overlook feed-based breeding sites. Cleaning up after silo filling and spilled feed is just as important as regular cleaning of manure.

Big round bale feeding areas are major breeding areas for flies. Change the site with each bale and clean up and remove residue from the previous bale.

House flies and stable flies are the major fly pests on dairy farms. House fly is a serious nuisance threat, especially with neighbors. Stable flies look a lot like house flies, but they bite. House flies breed in manure, decaying silage, feed, bedding and other organic matter.

Moisture is required for fly breeding. Stable flies choose many of the same breeding areas as house flies but will not breed in straight manure. They prefer wet straw or bedding with manure, spilled feeds, silage, green chop, decaying hay, or other vegetation.

Flies have become resistant to most chemicals registered for use on dairy farms. A regimen that includes careful manure handling and sanitation, parasite releases, and pyrethrum sprays can reduce fly problems.

GETTING WHAT YOU DESERVE
May 7, 1995

Background Scripture
I Corinthians 9
Devotional Reading:
Galatians 5:13-26

An elementary school boy was showing his report card to his parents, who were upset because he had received a "D" in "conduct." "Yeah," he acknowledged, "that's my worst subject!"

We are fortunate that, finished with school, we are seldom, if ever, graded on conduct. Today two of our "worst subjects" are commitment and self-discipline. It is resistance to commitment that undermines all kinds of relationships — personal, professional, and occupational. It is resistance to self-discipline that underlies so many failures and keeps us from fulfilling our potential.

Over the years we've had a few friends whose predictable response to any invitation was generally, "I'll have to see and let you know." It seemed they wanted to wait and see if something better came along. That's also the difference between living together and marriage — reluctant to commit themselves, people want to keep their options open and avoid responsibility.

WHAT IT TAKES

At the conclusion of one of Van Cliburn's concerts, someone is reported to have said to him, "I'd give everything if I could play like that!" Replied the pianist, "Yes that's about what it takes — everything!" Maybe that's why people so admire entertainment, artistic and athletic stars. We share their aspirations, but not their perspirations. Like them, we want fame and fortune; unlike them, many of us are unwilling to pay the price.

In today's world, people seem so much more intent on getting what is coming to them and are obsessed with their rights. The problem is that when we concentrate solely on our rights and what we deserve, we usually see nothing or no one else. And that is one of the most fatal of human conditions.

Paul outlines and specifies what he deserves as an apostle. On this basis he protests, "Do we not have the right to our food and drink? Do we not have the right to be accompanied by a wife, as the other apostles and the brothers of the Lord and Cephas?" (9:5).

MOST IMPORTANT

But then, having established his rights as an apostle, Paul goes on to say, "Nevertheless we have not made use of this right, but we endure everything rather than put an obstacle in the way of the gospel of Christ" (9:12). Paul carefully protects his rights as an apostle, but he holds something else much more important: the gospel of Christ.

Some of the most agreeable experiences in my life have been those occasions — all too few probably — when I have stepped aside from my rights and prerogatives and given way to someone or something else. There is deep satisfaction in knowing that some higher good is being served. Personal rights are important, but the gospel is more important.

Maybe the key is to be found at the bottom line. The highest good is not in getting what we deserve, but in getting something more. We may stand on our rights and get nothing more. Using the analogy of the athlete, Paul says, "they do it to receive a perishable wreath, but we an imperishable" (9:25). Wreaths, no matter how pretty, are perishable rewards. Getting what is coming to us is also a perishable reward. To get the imperishable kind, we may have to be willing to forgo demanding what we deserve. For true rewards have more to do with God's grace than what is ours by right.

Oklahoma National Stockyards Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to Monday last week: Feeder and few stocker steers over 600 lbs weak to 2.00 lower; lighter weight steers 3.00-5.00 lower. Feeder and stocker heifers steady. Demand good. Trade turned active in early afternoon as orders increased for feeder cattle. Bulk supply was feeder cattle off graze-out wheat. Conditions similar to last week with average to full weigh-ups and heavy flesh. Quality of cattle plain to average, end attractive and considerably less desirable for buyers than last week. Liberal supply of Brahma cross cattle back in the consist. Slaughter cows 1.00-3.00 lower. Slaughter bulls 1.00-2.00 lower. Demand fair to moderate for cows and bulls. Total of 557 cows and bulls sold, including 30 percent replacements. Most replacements consisted of thin pairs off graze-out wheat. Receipts this week 18,820; last week 9,114; last year 9,334. Supply consisted of 87 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 10 percent calves and short yearlings under 600 lbs; 3 percent cows and bulls. YOU CAN DEPEND ON US

Introducing Kubota's new line of B-Series tractors! Reliable, efficient, compact tractors – designed to "Be There" with power and versatility when you need it most.

Equipped with our new E-TVCS low emission, "Low Noise" diesel engine, these 14-17 PTO HP B-Series set a new engineering standard for quiet, smooth operation. Their state of the art design ensures that the new B's are friendly to the environment, while enclosed mufflers that increase visibility and decrease noise result in added operator comfort. And, you can depend on the B-Series' optional hydrostatic transmission and Bi-Speed, – features that allow you single-pedal control of tractor speed, and fast, smooth turns when you're in a tight spot.

Rely on a new B-Series in 2 or 4-wheel drive, with standard hydrostatic transmission on the B2400, standard gear or hydrostatic transmission on the B1700 and B2100. And, you can be confident that separate and simultaneous rear and mid PTO's will give you maximum productivity with a variety of implements.

For a rugged, user friendly tractor, depend on the new Kubota B-Series.

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers

Purina Mills To Build New Feed Plant

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Purina Mills, Inc. will build a new feed plant in the Chambersburg, Pennsylvania-Hagerstown, Maryland area. The plant will serve the growing markets for dairy, hog, horse and poultry feeds in Maryland, Pennsylvania, northern Virginia and West Virginia.

The new facility will produce up to 130,000 tons of bulk feeds per year and feature state-of-the-art equipment to produce a full product line, says Doyle Martin, regional Vice President. "We are nearing capacity at the plants that serve this important area—Harrisburg and Lancaster, Pennsylvania. The Chambersburg-Hagerstown area is in a rapidly growing agricultural area with access to excellent rail and truck transportation. This new plant will give us the additional capacity we need to supply the area with the most advanced dairy, hog, horse and poultry feeds, and allow us to expand our growth of other lines at Harrisburg and Lancaster by reducing capacity restrictions," Martin says.

Construction will begin as soon as Purina Mills completes final negotiations for land and obtains necessary permits. The facility should begin operations in the fall of 1996.

Purina Mills is the largest supplier of animal feeds in the United States. The company recently announced that it would build a new feed plant in Statesville, North Carolina. Its headquarters is in St. Louis, Missouri.

SRBC To Consider Final Regulations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—The Susquehanna River Basin Commission will meet at 9 a.m. on May 11, at The Inn at Turkey Hill, Bloomsburg.

Action items listed on the meeting agenda include the following:

1. Possible adoption of a final rulemaking action on the Omnibus Package of Regulatory Revisions that were first proposed in May 1994. Many changes have been made in the original proposal as a result of comments received at nine public hearings;

2. Action on seven project review applications;

3. Consideration and possible adoption of a policy for SRBC project approvals vis-a-vis other signatory approvals;

4. Consideration and possible adoption of a policy on the use of and the Commission's Water Management Fund;

5. Adoption of FY-96 budget revisions;

6. Adoption of the FY-97 budget;

7. Ratification of certain contracts involving water quality sampling in the Juniata and Lower Susquehanna subbasins, the SRBC Water Forum, and the Organization Review Study; and

8. Approval of in-lieu-of tax contributions to the local tax jurisdictions of Harrisburg, Pa.

SRBC staff also will make a presentation on the prevailing hydrologic conditions in the basin and present highlights of the staff report.

The 25th anniversary spotlight will highlight the Commission's historical involvement in water quality management and include an award presentation to a group from the Bloomsburg area that has been involved in monitoring the water quality of the river.

A separate news release will be issued detailing the contents of the spotlight presentation. The 25th anniversary observance will continue through the spring of 1996.

Ruth Ann John, of Waynesborog, vice president; Elsie Wolff, of Quarryville, secretary; and Jim Totter of Trotacres Farm, in Enon Valley, business manager.

Aaron Gable, son of Berneta and Brad Gable, was presented with the association's George W. Snyder Award, and the Sewickley Trophy, for his success in showing a Guernsey to place as champion of the youth division show at the 1995 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

In addition, the farm received the John Brachman Award for showing the grand champion Guernsey of the 1995 Farm Show.

In production awards, Trotacre Farm was honored for having the highest-average production herd for milk, milkfat and protein, and the top individual cow for milk and protein production.

The high-producing Trotacre herd consists of 52 cows averaging 17,535 pounds of milk, 797 pounds of fat, and 602 pounds of protein.

The farm's high producing cow was Trotacre Fayette Loretta, with 28,376 pounds of milk, 1,110 pounds fat, and 909 pounds protein.

Rutter Brothers, of York, was honored for having the highest milkfat-producing cow among the association's membership. Rutter Brothers Future's Lively made 21,212 pounds of milk, 1,120 pounds of milkfat, and 681 pounds of protein.

served as that group's president, vice president and treasurer.

The Copes, who have three sons and a daughter, said they needed a four-year head start to get ready for the convention because a lot of work is necessary to make sure everything is right for the approximately 2,000 people who are expected to attend the event.

The convention, which will be held from June 25-28 will be based at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in Pittsburgh.

Of the people expected to attend, 500 to 600 are to be Junior Holstein Association members who will have their own convention alongside the adult event.

The business segment of the National Holstein Convention is to be conducted by 197 association delegates, each of whom represents 150 active members of the association, which itself represents 50,000 dairy farmers across the nation.

"At one time we had 230 to 240 delegates, but we now have fewer dairy farmers," John Cope said.

Convention activities will begin with a pre-convention tour that will include Hershey, Lancaster, Amish country, the Gettysburg Battlefield and famous Holsteins at Em-Tran.

The convention itself will feature farm tours in Somerset County, a golf tournament at a Pittsburgh area country club, various tours around the city and a "Taste of Pennsylvania" steak cook-out to be sponsored by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association at the Point State Park.

Another highlight should be the national sale that is to feature 80 live head and 50 of the country's best genetics. Also, there is to be a special guest speaker, Dr. Kevin Leman, the author of the book, "The Birthing Order."

Creative association members and members of their families will be able to enter an art photography and quilt contest. Some of the contest entries are to be auctioned off during the convention banquet.

During the entire convention, there will be a dairy bar and 50 commercial exhibits running continually in the convention center.

One of the most important events scheduled for the convention is the election of the national association's officers. Members will choose four directors, a vice president, and a president.

Many of the people expected at the convention are the Copes' neighbors. John Cope said that the Pennsylvania contingent of delegates is one of the three largest. The other two states with the largest numbers of delegates are New York and Wisconsin, he said.

This year's event is the third national convention the Holstein Association has held in this state. In addition to the 1976 convention, Pennsylvania also served as host for the 1955 get-together.

Texas is to be the site for next year's convention, Michigan is scheduled to have it in 1997, Kentucky will be the site in 1998, Idaho will be host in 1999, and Ohio has been accepted as the spot in the year 2000.

Pa.DHIA Summary Board Report

DAVE SLUSSER
Pa.DHIA Manager

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Pa.DHIA Board met April 25 and 26 in State College. President Frank Orner called the meeting to order, and Secretary Lane Sollenberger called the roll with all 18 directors present.

Penn State Report

Larry Specht, extension dairyman, introduced Dr. Dan Hagen, interim head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State University.

Hagen reported on the changes being made in his department.

Financial Reports

Ted Brown, director of finance and personnel, gave the financial reports for January and February.

Staff Reports

Dixie Burris, director of member relations and the laboratory, reported on the advertising program, the extension dairy agents meeting, news articles, a veterinarian and nutritionist seminar, the Cooperative Directors School, and the Young Couples Cooperative Conference.

Dixie noted the upcoming national quality control certification in the lab.

Jim Boyer, with the Pa. Dairy Records Processing Center (DRPC), said that the DRPC Advisory Committee is looking into ways of unbundling the heifer management program, and to make it more attractive to members.

Jim also reported on the veterinarian and nutritionist seminar, the Herd Summary I seminar with technicians, and the national DRPC workshop.

On field operations, Dean Amick reported on the regional managers' bimonthly meetings with technicians, the spring conferences, the positive attitude of technicians, and the Westfalia training seminar.

Amick said we are changing the name of the Superior Technician Award to the Herb Gilmore Superior Technician Award.

He also said that National Holstien approved one innovative program for DHIR herds and that is one weight, one sample, for 3X herds.

Committee Reports

Norm Hershey said the Finance Committee reviewed the financial reports for January and February, and the audited financial report for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1994. The review was done with C.J. Wagner, the board auditor, and Ted Brown, director of finance and personnel.

From the DRPC Committee, Don Duncan summarized the DRPC Adivsory Committee recommendations on the following subjects: adding a relative value ranking for cows; the USDA error report; the heifer program; Herd Summaries I & II; and veterinarian reports.

From the Policy Committee, three motions were made and passed to change the bylaws that effect the makeup of the Executive Committee, the term limit of the president, and the voting rights of the immediate past president.

As a result, a board member-at-large was added to the Executive Committee.

Board member attending the National DHIA convention reported on the program.

Chester County Merger

The Chester County DHIA Board of Directors voted to recommend a merger with Pa.DHIA to its members. A membership vote has been scheduled for May 18. The merger agreement was approved by the Pa.DHIA board.

Pa.DHIA Contributions

Ted Brown, as a result of a request made by the board, presented the board with a list of contributions Pa.DHIA made last fiscal year.

The board recommended that management evaluate the program for next year's budget.

Annual Meeting

Dixie Burris reported on the attendance at the annual meeting, held March 10. Overall, the questionnaire that the delegates returned was very positive.

PDA Ear Tags

Dave Slusser reported that the Pa.Department of Agriculture responded well to the resolution passed at the annual meeting concerning state ear tags. The number of tags will be increased, and we are to report quality problems as they arise.

Other Business

In other business, Don Duncan was nominated as a candidate to the Uniform Collection Procedures Committee, and Frank Orner was nominated as a candidate to the Legal Procedures Committee of National DHIA.

The national president will pick the committees from a list of nominations made by affiliates.

Board Reorganized

The board of directors reorganized, and elected officers for the year.

Lane Sollenberger, of District 9, Franklin County, was named president. William K. Jackson, of District 3, Fayette County, is vice president. Neal McCulloch, of District 10, Cumberland County, is secretary. Dale Hoover, of District 15, Lebanon County, is treasurer.

John Wilcox, of District 13, Bradford County, was named executive committee member-at-large, while Norman Hershey, District 18, Lancaster County was elected chairman of the Pa.DHIA Retirement Committee.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Warm Weather Arrives, So Master Gardeners 'Turn Up' A New Idea Garden

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — As Poet Wendell Berry wrote, "The grower of trees, the gardener, the man born to farming, whose hands reach into the ground and sprout, to him the soil is a divine drug. He enters into death yearly, and comes back rejoicing. . . ."

Twelve Master Gardeners know what it is like to come back rejoicing — that is, the day the Idea Garden gets planted at the Farm and Home Center. On Wednesday, donning coveralls, garden gloves and sun hats, gardeners were busy turning up topsoil and lowering in flower seedlings, covering them over with moist earth and bark mulch.

"We were a little concerned after yesterday's rains," said Hans Lienhard, chairperson of the Idea Garden Committee. But the clouds cleared and the sun spilled out just in time as gardeners arrived at the Farm and Home Center early Wednesday morning — Leinhard said as early as 6:30 a.m.

The good news was that the ground was already tilled and mulched beforehand. The mulch provides a good soil cover, retains moisture, improves soil condition, and keeps the weeds down. Lienhard said about two inches of the pine bark mulch covers the beds, planted with about 1,800 seedlings obtained from a local nursery.

Only annuals are used in the planting, a total of 39 flats with 48 plants per flat. Planted were begonias, dalias, ageratum, alyssum, dianthus, lobelia, marigolds (yellow, luca, and bicolor), petunias (white, lilac, orchid, and plum), Dusty Millers, salvia (red, white, and blue), snap dragons (red and yellow), and verbena (white and blue). Also planted were bright red geraniums.

At the planting of the idea garden, Tim Elkner, Lancaster County's new horticulture agent, spoke with the Master Gardeners. Elkner said he was looking forward to several days of orientation to the Lancaster program and his new job with Extension.

Master Gardener Program Accepts Applications

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension is accepting applications for the 1995 Master Gardener Program.

This is a training program for volunteers designed to provide experience in the knowledge and skills of gardening for those who sign up. In exchange for 30 hours of indoor and outdoor instruction, candidates agree to complete 50 hours of volunteer service to Penn State Cooperative Extension during 1996.

Weekly classes will be held from Aug. 30 to early December. The program is being offered in Lancaster and Berks counties. There is a program fee of $30 to cover costs of training manual and materials.

Applications are being accepted through June 2. For more information and an application form, contact the Lancater County Extension Office at (717) 394-6851.

Region III PASA Meeting Set

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—A group is forming in the region comprised of Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, York, Lancaster, and Lebanon counties to exchange ideas on sustainable food production techniques as an outgrowth of the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA).

Farmers or people interested in sustainable agriculture from these areas are invited to attend the Region III meeting on May 8, from 7-9 p.m. at the York County 4-H Center at Bare.

This will be the second meeting of the group, with the topic focusing on marketing your farm product. Larry Yeager, Penn State Extension agent, will lead the discussion.

Future meetings will include on-farm meetings and cover topics ranging from management intensive grazing to organic vegetable production.

The York County 4-H Center is located on Stover's Town Road off of Route 116 near Spring Grove. For further information please contact Lee Bentz at (717) 772-5204.

Meat Processors, Others Have Until June 5 To Testify

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — A special public hearing on proposed federal regulations for the meat slaughtering and processing industry was held last week at the Berks Campus of Pennsylvania State University, near Reading.

The meeting was a coordinated effort between U.S. Rep. Tim Holden, of St. Clair, Clyde Myers with the sponsoring Berks County Penn State Extension Service, Dr. William Henning, Penn State extension meat specialist, and William Smith, the acting assistant deputy administrator for the USDA Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) Inspection Management Program.

Although the meeting was announced as an informational meeting, it was really the last formal public hearing on a set of regulations proposed by the FSIS that would create a mandatory operational control and testing program for each slaughtering and meat processing operation.

The proposal is that every commercial slaughterer and meat processor adopt "science-based process control systems, called Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP)," according to a USDA press release that was part of a background package of information distributed at the hearing.

The regulations were proposed when published in the Feb. 3, 1995 issue of the Federal Register. About six public hearings were held across the country, and comments can still be made until June 5, by mailing them to: Diane Moore, Docket Clerk, Room 3171 South Building, Food Safety and Inspection Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington DC 20250.

Those attending last week's meeting/hearing were slaughterers and processors from a wide region of southern, central and eastern Pennsylania and New Jersey, according to those testifying. About 30 people in all attended the meeting, held in the auditorium of the Berks Campus Perkins Student Center from 2 p.m. to past the 4 p.m. scheduled ending.

A private meeting was held earlier in the day between Rep. Holden and those who received a special invitation to attend. That meeting was held to discuss some of the details of the proposal and what problems might be associated with the proposed regulations.

The regulations, in brief, would require slaughterers and meat processors to address seven major principles in setting up an operational control system.

Those seven principles were created by the National Advisory Committee on Microbiological Criteria for Foods, according to a USDA published report.

They are: 1.Conduct a hazard analysis; 2.identify the critical control points in the process; 3.establish critical limits for preventive measures associated with each identified critical control point; 4.establish critical control point monitoring requirements; 5.establish corrective action; 6.establish effective recordkeeping procedures; and 7.establish procedures for verifying that the HACCP system is working correctly.

In effect, the attempt by those proposing regulations is that all commercial butchering operations and any groundmeat producing

Snyder County Auction To Open

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

PORT TREVORTON (Snyder Co.) — Vegetable growers in the central part of Pennsylvania have something to smile about — there's a produce auction about to open nearby.

The Snyder County Produce Outlet is located two miles south of Port Treverton on Rt. 11/15, and 35 miles north of Harrisburg. The outlet will open on Thursday, June 1 and resume on Monday, June 5, at noon. Days will be added as needed.

The first sales will include bedding plant and vegetable sales.

The auction is managed by Roger A. Lauver, Selingsgrove, auctioneer. The outlet has signed up 75 growers, about 80 percent of which are located within five miles of the auction, according to Eathan Martin, auction assistant.

"We've been in the wholesale produce business since 1983," said Martin. "We began with about three growers and built on from there."

Martin said that the wholesaling business grew to the point that enough growers were interested in the idea of the auction.

The auction will operate two days a week in June and move to four days mid- to late-season. Initially, the auction will conduct bedding plant sales and provide produce from Eastern Shore farmers and other southern produce.

Approximately 50 buyers are signed up for the auction, representing grocery stores to restaurants. The auction charges a commission of 9 percent. Checks will be sent out to growers on a two-week basis.

Many buyers are from central Pennsylvania, New York, and western parts of Pennsylvania.

The building for the auction, located right off of Rt. 11/15, measures about 8,000 square feet and has room for loading from many size vehicles. According to Martin, an additional 4,000 square feet is planned with 100 foot more of dock space.

According to Roger A. Lauver, auctioneer, "I am looking forward to it all and plan on working full-time at the facilities in season. I worked with produce and greenhouses part-time and always enjoyed it."

For more information about the auction and to register to buy or sell, contact the Snyder County Produce Outlet, P.O. Box 96, Port Trevorton, PA 17864, (717) 374-0284.

Deputy Ag Secretaries

Industry with the department, graduated with a bachelor's degree in forestry from the Pennsylvania State University. He began his career with the department as a program specialist after serving with the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters.

Peechatka served 11 years as director of the Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation for the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources.

From 1982-1987, Peechatka was executive vice president of the Soil and Water Conservation Society of America, and then served as director of the Bureau of Plant Industry at the State Agriculture Department from 1987-1991.

While Peechatka served as deputy secretary for the regulatory programs, he managed all consumer protection regulatory programs within the department, supervised the seven regional offices and six bureaus.

As executive deputy secretary, Peechatka's responsibilities will include managing the day-to-day operations of the department's central office and the seven regional offices.

Peechatka said, "I look forward to working with Secretary Brosius to carry out Gov. Ridge's agriculture goals by ensuring that the day-to-day affairs function smoothly. We want to provide the highest level of service to those in Pennsylvania agriculture."

Redding most recently served as agriculture policy advisor/executive assistant to former U.S. Sen. Harris Wofford.

A native of Adams County, Redding holds both the Keystone Farmer and the American Farmer degrees, and served as vice president for the former Future Farmers of America, now FFA. He has served as coordinator of FFA activities in Pennsylvania.

A graduate of The Pennsylvania State University with a bachelor's degree in agriculture education, Redding served two years as outreach coordinator and agricultural specialist for the Bureau of Worker and Community Right to Know with the state Department of Labor and Industry.

Redding, along with his wife Nina, operated a 40-cow dairy herd from 1984-1987, and he has also served as a farm consultant for Ralston Purina, Lehman's Feeds' York Springs, and director of member information for New York Dairy Herd Improvement Cooperative.

Redding's new responsibilities will include supervising the marketing and agricultural development programs, the Farmland Preservation program, Government Donated Foods, Farm Show and the Racing Commissions.

"Agriculture is our strength," Redding said. "We have farmers committed to providing the highest quality products and processing these, adding value, and consumers who appreciate the importance of both.

"My top priority is to use these strengths to develop new markets and strengthen existing ones. None of this is possible without farmers and farmland, so preserving Pennsylvania farmland—our most valuable resource—is essential."

Herr, formerly director of the Bureau of Agricultural Development, is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State University with a bachelor's degree in agriculture education.

He was responsible for coordinating and developing agricultural economic development initiatives within the department and with other state agencies and agribusiness.

Herr worked closely with the food and agricultural processing sector, facilitating funding for many expansion projects.

Herr was raised on the family's Lancaster County livestock farm and was an active member of the FFA and 4-H programs.

His new duties will include overseeing the regulatory functions of the department, including the Bureaus of Animal Industry, Plant Industry, Food Safety, Dog Law, Veterinary and Diagnostic Laboratories, and Rides and Measurement Standards.

"It will be a challenge to balance the regulatory functions of the department, which protect the consumer, with the needs of producers and processors," Herr said.

"I look forward to working with Secretary Brosius to further Gov. Ridge's commitment to use education as a primary tool in compliance, and to take a pragmatic, fair approach to the regulatory process.

"Much of my family is involved in production agriculture and I recognize the necessity of having reasonable guidelines."

Meat Processors

facility would have to set up a documented, recorded quality control processing system on top of current operations, use antimicrobial treatments, and test one animal per species out of each lot, each day.

They would also have to ensure that at least one employee per was trained on the system.

According to USDA information, in general terms, the entire operation would be mapped out into segments. Each segment would be analyzed for possible risks of contamination to meat and a standard operation procedure (SOP) would be drawn up to prevent contamination.

Those areas where the greatest danger of microbial infestation could occur would be identified as critical control points and a checklist would have to be drawn up so that a worker would have to sign-off on a document indicating that proper procedures were followed.

Those documents would have to be kept on file.

For example, in a slaughtering line, by the time a carcass ends up ready for a semi-final operation, it would already be accompanied by a piece of paper whereby employees would have to mark and sign that certain procedures were performed.

These checks are proposed to ensure that any problems can be traced back to a specific cause.

Also, with the testing of one animal per species per lot per day, commercial slaughterers would have to test for the bacteria Salmonella.

This particular species of bacteria was selected because it does cause food poisoning with symptoms comparable to the flu, and likewise has been attributed as being the cause of death in weak individuals, mainly the very young or very old.

A number of deadly bacteria have been showing up in recent years that cause more severe symptoms and possible death. Some of the toxins aren't neutralized by cooking at the same temperatures as with Salmonella, according to Smith.

The testing of one animal per species per day would mean that, as an example, if there were 1 pig, two steer, and six chickens to be slaughtered, then a test would have to be performed on the pig, a steer and a chicken.

It doesn't matter how many animals per species are to be slaughtered, the proposal is that testing be done, even if there is only one animal representing a species, or 10,000.

According to the USDA report, "Implementation would be phased in, based on the type of production process. It is proposed that implementation for processes associated with the greatest public health risk would begin 12 months after publication of the final rule.

"Implementation would be complete 36 months after publication of the final rule.

"Small establishments, which FSIS is proposing to define as those with an annual production valued at, or below $2.5 million, would be permitted 36 months from the date of publication of the final rule to start their HACCP plans, regardless of the processes they carry out."

The USDA has estimated that to implement the proposed regulations would cost the meat and poulty industry $733.5 million over three years for a potential public benefit, via reduced health and associated costs of up to $3.7 billion.

down, but more animals were consigned to the 16th annual Blue Halter Calf and Added Consignments Sale, held April 22 at the Bedford Fairgrounds in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association annual awards banquet.

The sale offered more consignments in addition to the calves.

The total on 23 head sold as the Blue Halter Calf Sale was $25,925, for an average of $1,127.17. The seven head included in the "added consigments" sold for a total of $10,025, for an average of $1,432.14.

The highest selling animal was a senior calf consigned by Spring Walk Farm, of Big Prarie, Ohio, and purchased for $2,600 by Troy Hill of Sandy Lake.

The second highest selling animal was also a senior calf, this one consigned by Harold Pyle, of Malvern, which was purchased by an unamed Kentuckian through Pa. Guernsey Association business manager Jim Trotter.

The Guernsey Gold Heifer Sale began in 1986 as a small sale of select open heifers for junior members. Fifteen percent of the sale gross is to be set aside for the production contest.

All purchasers must be between ages 9 and 19 as of Jan. 1 prior to the sale, and only one may be purchased per consigment year. Heifers sold in 1995 are to then compete in the 1998 production contest.

Hiller Receives Award

Gordon Hiller, president, Pennsylvania State Grange, was recently given the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources' Outstanding Work Unit award. This award is given to individuals whose cooperative performance resulted in outstanding achievement. Hiller was honored for his work on the Agricultural Advisory Board in 1994 when he served as the chairman. The board provides technical advice and recommendations to DER regarding agricultural issues. In addition to Hiller, Richard VanNoy, a mamber of the Troy Grange #182 in Bradford County, and Dean Auchenbach were also cited with the work unit award.

76 Cow Total Ventilation System - Denver, PA

Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!

At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering. Acme products feature such things as:

- Galvanized Construction
- Wide Cambered Propeller
- Rivited Blades
- Unique Captured Bearings
- Vertical Support Frame
- Screens Pre-cut
- Totally Enclosed Motors
- Optional Discharge Diffuser Cone

New President Gives Thoughts On Vision For Pa. DHIA

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

FAYETTEVILLE (Franklin Co.) — The new Pennsylvania DHIA president brings both heritage and vision to his roll in the state's largest milk records and testing organization. Lane Sollenberger remembers that when he was a boy, the milk tester came and stayed on the farm overnight and ate meals with the family.

"I can still hear that centrifuge spinning and see him pulling the samples out," Sollenberger said. "The tester would handwrite all the figures in the books. We still have them. Our herd has been on test since 1948. When the tester left, we had everything left on the farm.

"Then we went in a different direction and sent everything away so there was nothing left at the farm on test day. Now we find ourselves coming full circle to where again more and more of the records are completed in the computer and left on the farm."

The vision comes from his personal passion to communicate to the 50 percent of dairymen in the state that do not test.

"We now have so many programs that can be tailored to so many different farming operations that I believe every dairy farmer can benefit from PA DHIA's services," Sollenberger said. "And for people outside our normal territory who have an interest in our services, I don't think we stand second to anyone.

"Some people, even some people in our organization, think maybe we are less than first class. And this isn't so. We are a top rated lab. And we are a top rated DRCP. When National DHIA finally gets around to publishing the scores the way we need them to be published in a competitive environment, we'll see who is producing top-notch services. Then it will be in writing that we are a first class operation."

Sollenberger has been successful with his 170 head of registered Holstein milk cows that average 19,500 pounds of milk. Individual records currently go up to nearly 30,000 pounds. One-hundred thirty head of young stock are being raised as replacements. The herd is housed in free stalls and milked in a double eight herringbone parlor. Since January the herd has been milked 3x and Sollenberger has seen great improvement in udder health. But the labor intensive way to handle the herd calls for a good labor force.

Lane and Judy Sollenberger, right, are pictured with their family at the time Brent, No. 7, was a member of the winning national Little League team when they played in Washington, Pennsylvania, last summer. Brian is in back, Kayla is in front.

Lane Sollenberger's 100 year-old barn has the Christian communion symbols incorporated into the brickwork. Because the barn is quite visable from Route 30, visitors often stop to chat and take pictures of the barn.

The new president thinks farming has come full circle too. When he was young, his uncles and neighbors got together in harvest and planting to help each other. Then the time came when each farmer bought a full line of equipment and did all the work individually. Now because of high farm machinery costs, Sollenberger believes neighbors are again sharing pieces of equipment among their farming operations. In addition, custom operators are coming back to take up some of the work, especially in application of chemicals where new labor laws place detailed restrictions on these operations.

In the financial areas of farming, Sollenberger thinks you need some outside help to develop realistic cash flow expectations and input costs. "I think you use your strengths and hire to compensate for your weaknesses," Sollenberger said. "If you like the cows and do crops because they are there to do, you better get some help with them. In addition, you need to have a strong financial plan in place and know what it takes to run the size business you have."

Sollenberger is the fourth generation family member on the farm. Both the house and the brick barn, located right along Route 30, are more than 100 years-old. Ties to the farm and the dairy cows are strong. But ties to his church and family are stronger.

As a young man, Sollenberger gave two years of voluntary service under a church program in Africa. There he worked, building a dam to serve the people of the area. When the chief engineer died in the middle of the project, Sollengerger provided the leadership to complete the project. At home he teaches a class and has held many offices in his church.

When he and his wife Judy were first married, they lived across the road for five years while Lane and his father were in partnership. Later Lane and Judy took over and moved to the farm house. And along the way the fifth generation of Sollenbergers on the farm have arrived. Brian is 18; Brent is 15, and Kayla is 12. This younger generation gives the family involvement in senior high, junior high, and the middle school system at Chambersburg. All are active in sports, so the family has a lot of activities outside of farming to keep them busy.

Brent was a member of the PONY little league team that was first in the nation and second internationally, losing only to the team from Taipei in Washington, Pennsylvania, last summer. As you might expect, Lane has been involved in the little league organization as president and has been a coach for nine years. He helped coach Brent's national winning team. And of course the whole family was involved.

"If my wife and I have a choice to do something else or something with the family, we come down on the side of the family every time," Lane said. "If a man can't be involved with his family, he isn't of much value as a leader in the community either."

And it's this family approach that Lane says the new general manager, Dave Slusser, has brought to Pennsylvania DHIA.

"One of the things I look at with some pride is the opportunity I had to serve on the search committee for a new general manager," Lane said. "We saw the need to have a manager who was membership oriented and who was going to hear the needs of the members. Our problem was that we didn't have time to train anyone. We had to bring someone in who had instant creditability in the farm community. We found that in Dave Slusser.

"Dave is spending 50 percent of his time on the road with members. His heart is there, and this has been a real benefit. Another thing I appreciate about Dave is that he has created a family atmosphere at Pa DHIA.

"Every family, if they are honest, sometimes talks straight to one another. They sometimes criticize each other. But ultimately, they are working for one goal. We are able to work things through at Pa DHIA, and after everything is on the table, we walk out of the room with just as good a relationship as when we went in.

"In the past, there was division in the organization that segmented regions into "my" area and "your" area. Now we talk of "our." "We" need to move together. We have stopped using the "personal" pronowns and started to be a team.

"With any organization of this size, you have different divisions and different people working in different areas. There are going to be problems. But Dave has worked hard to pull things together."

When the organization was developing a centralization program, many people expressed fear that the communication and input from the grassroots would be lost. But with the mechansim in place to bring resolutions from the local district to the annual meeting, grassroots ideas are being heard better than ever. Even more important is a sensitive board and a sensitive management that have made the ideas from the grassroots come to the attention of the state organization without going through the resolution process.

In addition, the DRCP committee and the technician improvement committee have helped bring communication between members and the board; members and management, and between members and employees. The business community has also been drawn into a support position in the organization.

Sollenberger said that one of his concerns was in the area of DRCP services that are done by large non-farm businesses. These businesses may become unresponsive to members and may not, down the road, provide the quality records needed by the bull studs and by USDA.

"I hope we maintain a choice between the university-type DRCP, the business-type DRCP, and the farmer-run DRCP," Sollenberger said. "I hope we are careful how quickly we jump into something that takes away these choices."

In the open competition that has developed through National DHIA's new "no boarder" policy for regional organizations, Sollenberger believes that where one organization penetrates another's business, these organizations are going to take a look at what they can afford to do and not do.

"I believe the competition has forced organizations to talk to each other and find out where they can work together," Sollenberger said. "Farmers don't have the option to fight among themselves. If our organizations fight among themselves, the farmer is going to be hurt. In all the talks we have, the bottom line must be to ask what will be the result of this action to the farmers we serve. If that is not the bottom line, then I'm not sure what it is.

"Of course, we can't just meet the needs of the present. We must be able to see in the future. But as fast as technology is moving this industry, I'm not sure how far we really can see into the future. But this should not prevent us from trying.

"In the end, people make the difference. We have good people heading our departments at Pa DHIA. I would like to see us maintain the quality of people we have. From the technician on the farm to the general manager, ultimately the organization is people."

Ardrossan Herd Sold

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The world-known Ardrossan Ayrshires will be leaving Pennsylvania to travel to Colorado, following the death of Ardrossan owner, Hope Scott, in January.

Dr. Charles Hanson and his son Eric Hanson have purchased the entire herd, approximately 280 animals, including about 150 head of milking and dry cows.

"We were planning on adding to our herd when Eric was ready to develop an operation in Pueblo," said Hanson. "The opportunity to buy this large a number of cows of this caliber was very good timing. Everything sort of fell into place."

The Hansons plan to move the animals gradually, moving cows as they dry up, and bred heifers as they approach calving dates. They intend to ship one load a month from April to September, with all remaining animals coming in September. The Hansons also intend to have an entirely new facility by the first of November, located 10 miles east of Pueblo.

"We look forward to the challenges and opportunities of carrying the breed forward," said Hanson of what has been ranked as one of the top producing herds in the nation for many years.

"The herd has tremendous genetic potential, and they have demonstrated their ability to produce. We look forward to continuing to develop the genetic pool, and enhancing it to create environment and circumstances to allow expression of that genetic potential."

The Hansons have worked with Ayrshires for about 17 years.

"We think that they can be competitive with the Holsteins, which we have experience with," he said. "We feel that the Ayrshires with the right genetics and the right production pedigree can be very competitive on a commercial basis."

The Hansons also commented that they intend to continue the Ardrossan tradition of placing some of their genetics in national and club sales, to continue the legacy of the original Ardrossan animals.

LEBANON® EXTRA

Granulated Starter Fertilizer

"THERE'S MORE TO IT THAN JUST NPK"

For over 47 years, farmers throughout the Mid-Atlantic Area from New York to Virginia have produced millions of dollars of crops using Lebanon Extra fertilizer.

Lebanon Extra is an ammoniated, homogenous. granular NPK fertilizer. With the increased emphasis on using less and precise applications of plant food, Lebanon Extra provides the nutrient sources that you can depend on, and not just NPK but also secondary and six micro-nutrients. The nutrient integrity of Lebanon Extra is superior to bulk blend fertilizer products. When using row applications or banding accurate amounts of plant food it can be important to use a safe, quality, uniform grade product. If you are using a blend with MAP compare the value of Lebanon Extra.

Clean And Green, Assessments Topic Of Lancaster County Meetings

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — About 8,700 individual farm property owners in Lancaster County face court-ordered reassessment, and the difference will show up in next year's tax bill.

As a result, several county organizations have set up a series of educational and sign-up meetings within the next several weeks.

The purpose of the educational meetings, according to tax experts who spoke with Lancaster Farming, is to inform the taxpayers about what to expect as a result of the countywide reassessments and how to make it easier, if requested, for landowners to appeal.

Landowners with more than 10 acres of land, or those generating more than $2,000 per year per acre of sales from use of the agricultural land, qualify for Clean and Green, according to Leo C. Grasser, director of assessments for the county. The assessment forms, along with the Clean and Green application forms and a worksheet, will be mailed to landowners by Tuesday, May 9, according to Grasser. Deadline for Clean and Green application is June 1.

"Of the 75,000 farms in the state that have signed up under Clean and Green, we've never had anybody come back and say that Clean and Green was not a good program," said Dr. Robert Barr, president of the Fair Tax Institute, Middletown.

Barr, who will be speaking at 17 seminars in the county sponsored by the Lancaster County Farm Bureau, emphasized that the program works to save taxes for landowners.

According to Grasser, for the 1996 tax year, land with Class 1 soils will be taxed at $1,220 per acre under Clean and Green. Under fair market value, land with Class 1 soils will be taxed anywhere from $4,000-$6,000 and even higher, depending on location, buildings, and other factors.

Dr. Robert S. Barr, who will be speaking in the upcoming weeks at the many different Lancaster County school districts, emphasized that the meetings are free and open to the public. The seminars, running two hours each day, will provide all county taxpayers, including homeowners, commercial industrial owners, and farmers, with the facts about reassessment and how to gather evidence for appeal.

For too long, property owners relied on the county or local school district to make the decisions for them, and landowners went along with the decision, according to Barr. But Barr said that the days are coming when property owners "must take charge of managing their real estate taxes.

"I will tell them what they need to know to manage their real estate taxes," said Barr.

According to the county farm bureau, within the next week, the Lancaster County commissioners will be mailing about 167,000 notices of new assessments in the county. Of that, approximately 9,500 are farmers and forest owners, according to Grasser. This completes the final phase of the three-year court-ordered reassessment project.

Following is list of educational seminars scheduled by the Lancaster County Farm Bureau. Landowners should try to schedule a meeting that is within their school district.

For more information about the educational meetings, contact Dr. Robert S. Barr, Fair Tax Institute, 1801 Oberlin Rd., Suite 200, Middletown, PA 17057-2953, (717) 985-0300.

Also, the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry Agriculture Committee is working with several townships to coordinate a series of Clean and Green enrollment dropoff locations throughout the county in the next several weeks. At the locations, personnel will be available to answer questions. Also, landowners can drop off their Clean and Green enrollment forms (the forms are also available at the locations). Following is a list of the dropoff locations sponsored by the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce:

Don't Just Burn Your Weeds, Kill Your Weeds.

In No-Till, don't settle for rapid burndown ... kill weeds, roots and all, with Roundup herbicide.

Quick acting burndown products don't always kill the roots of weeds. This can result in rapid weed regrowth.

Roundup controls weeds, roots and all, to provide a complete kill of problem weeds.

Testimony given during the hearing seemed to focus on several key points, perhaps the most commonly held among the slaughterers, butcherers and processors being that meat is not, nor was ever intended to be eaten raw, despite some exotic dishes that don't require cooking the meat, such as seviche, or sushi.

It seemed, from testimony, that those who provide raw meat products are trying to understand why they are being singled out for an incident — the Washington State Jack-In-The-Box undercooked meat incident — that was clearly the fault of a food handler, not the raw food provider.

Even though subsequent testing revealed that the bacteria in the meat in that incident was a rare deadly form of a common, generally non-harmful bacteria, that would have been renedered safe to consume had the meat been properly cooked.

Although USDA officials said that eventually they want to implement some regulations upon those who transport meat products, restaurants and food handlers, they said that these proposed regulations were the first stage.

USDA officials said they are also seeking "guidance" for possible regulations at the farm or any stage prior to slaughter.

Several who gave testimony predicted that if the regulations go through as proposed, many, if not most of small butchering or meat processing shops will be forced out of business. The additional costs and documentation requirements could well break the overhead of small "mom and pop" operations, in terms of both money and time, it was said by several.

In fact, Clyde Myers said he called for the meeting and offered to sponsor it because of the effect the regulations could have on producers in the area as well as the slaughterers, butchers and meat processors.

Every little shop from a small kolbosi-making business in Frackville to Hatfield Quality Meats would have to adopt the proposed regulations and pay the extra overhead.

The proposed regulations would most likely cause much more concern and relative cost to a small local business than to Hatfield, which is one of only a few very large processors in the state, according to testimony.

While the price of hogs in the state is fairly well controlled by a few processors, and more and more producers are under contract to produce hogs specifically for those processors, the small producer and the small butcher shop are already being squeezed out of business. That's fact.

The implementation of these regulations, with a heavier relative cost to the small business could pressure them out of business, as was testified.

Smith responded that the proposed regulations don't mention cost, or hiring microbiologists or installing on-site laboratories to conduct the tests for less cost.

The proposed regulations basically outline the results wanted, not how the individual processors achieve those results. Smith said it is part of a new initiative on the part of USDA to get away from setting specific standards of operation to setting goals and allowing the regulated to come up with ways to achieve the goals.

According to Smith, "For every (business affected) there will be a separate plan."

Testimony ranged.

Myron Stoltzfus of Stoltzfus Meats Inc., in Intercourse, said that the additional regulations would be a good way to rid the country of small business and thus make USDA's overall job easier, because there would be only a few to regulate and inspect.

He also asked why the regulations were being directed at this particular segment of the food industry since most of the problem is with handlers and consumers. He said that statistics from the Center for Disease Control showed that only 3 percent of foodborne illnesses are attributable to meat packing plants.

In addition to some other points of apparent bias toward the slaughtering and meat processing industry, he said that, "HACCP plans give the appreance that this will solve the problem. It won't. It does nothing but politicize the issue."

Futhermore, Stoltzfus said that the way this proposal is presented makes it difficult for the industry to object to anything, "After all, don't we all want clean food?"

Other speakers testified:

- Since the reason for the regulations is public safety, it should be put into perspective. As a whole, alcohol related deaths on the highways far exceed death related to problems with food.
- This should be analyzed through the use of a cost-risk benefit analysis.
- Several people testified it would put them out of business and that the total cost burden for implementing testing of meat for bacteria should not be borne by the individual butcher shops.
- One man testified that, as a small business, he quit using USDA inspectors and continues to retail and now makes more money than ever, and has not ever had a complaint about people getting sick from eating meat purchased there.
- The definition of a small business as those that have less than $2.5 million in annual sales is ridiculous. That should be reevaluated and the impact to actual "small" businesses reassessed.
- The USDA FSIS is an agency that does not know the industry. It really doesn't understand our business.
- I hear how much this is going to cost, and how it's going to mean having safe food, but I don't hear how you get there. In other words, without education of the consumer and handler, without emphasis to cook the meat properly, how is the public going to be any safer?
- This will put more people out of business than small meat processing/slaughtering operations. It will also take away the market for small livestock producers, decrease competition, enable large processors to monopolize meat markets and control prices, and destroy equipment dealerships and other support businesses.
- The meat supplier to the Jack-In-The-Box received meat from a variety of sources. To this day, from where that contaminated meat came is not known.

ABA Awards Scholarship

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The Ayrshire Breeders' Association awards a scholarship annually to a graduating high school senior who is planning to further their education by majoring in agriculture.

In June, Jennifer Scoon will be named the recipient of this scholarship at the national convention in Eau Claire, Wis. Jennifer, and her parents, Charles and Janet Scoon, operate Scoon Dairy Farm, Downing, Missouri.

Jennifer has been active as a junior member of the association for nine years. She has also been a member of the Missouri Junior Ayrshire Club, serving as secretary. Scoon has shown her cattle at the local, state and national levels, winning many awards. She has held many offices in her local 4-H club, and FFA chapter, and has received the Missouri Star Area Farmer Award.

Jennifer said she plans to attend Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville, Missouri, and major in dairy science.

A committee of three judges reviewed the scholarship applications this past spring. Judges were leading dairy people from Illinois, Virginia and Oklahoma.

The Ayrshire Breeders' Association wishes Jennifer the best of luck in her future years in college.

Ed Hoffman, winner of the high grade point average for a nonpoultry science major award.

"C'mon giirrlls! Time to get it in gear!"

A few of our dairy herd girls are actually already "in gear." Low gear.

They wait patiently on the far side of the gate that closes off the rear entrance to the dairy barn, basking in the sunshine and flipping their tails at a few early season flies.

Bonnie will be first in line, waiting to push her way around the gate the moment it begins to swing open for the cows to enter and find their stalls for afternoon milking. Three-year-old Bonnie has more the personality of a beagle than a bovine, a cuddly lap-pet if she didn't weigh 1,200 pounds.

Close behind will be aging Amy, the lone remaining animal in the herd from the kids' 4-H showing years. Typical of 4-H cow pets, Amy is likewise gentle, patient, and unflappable.

And behind them will come Pansy, another matron of the herd who ambles her way to the most distant corner of the barn and nibbles at some neighbors' feed before settling down in her own spot. Pansy has one maddening quirk. Her sharp-shooter tail rarely misses hitting the target of your face.

But while these three are usually operting in low gear by the time we head out to put the herd in for the afternoon, the rest of the cows will still be in neutral. Motionless, save for the cud-chewing jaws and twitching tails, they lounge around the exercise lot and enjoy the edge-of-woods shade.

At the first call, a quarter or so of the herd will slowly rise to their feet, stretch with arching backs and begin the plodding gait toward the barn. On rare days, the entire herd will rise and come at the call. More often, a handful of the cows will simply pretend not to notice nor see the herder headed out in their direction. Only when the herder has come within 20 feet or so of their resting spots will the slowpokes reluctantly make the effort to rise.

"Me? You want me?" they seem to ask with puzzled expressions. As if we didn't do this every single day of the year.

Gina brought up the tail end of the trek to the barn a few days ago, as I rounded up the girls one warm, sunny afternoon. "Tail end" is probably a poor choice of terms to use on Gina. She was born with only a stubby, half-length tail, with the traditional switch on it. During summertime, when the bugs get the most pesty, we always feel sorry for Gina with her mini-sized flyswatter.

Often the tail-ender will be Margaret, a tall, black heifer with a tendency to "do her own thing." While all the other cows are filling into the barn around the half-opened gate, Maragaret will meander off in the opposite direction toward the bunk feeder. That entails making a separate side-trip to round her up, usually on an afternoon when you've gotten a late start anyway.

One recent evening after milking, I walked back into the barn to come face-to-face with Margaret, wandering around, sampling feed, having slipped out of her tie string. Slowly, I walked Margaret back to her stall; instead of stepping in, she just kept going. I gave up and walked out until other help was available; we could have gone back and forth for an hour.

Leave Grass Clippings On Lawn

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Leaving grass clippings on the lawn will not harm your turf — in fact, it may be beneficial, says a Penn State turfgrass expert.

"It's estimated that 20 percent of what goes into landfills is yard debris such as leaves, hedge prunings and grass clippings," says Dr. Peter Landschoot, Penn State assistant professor of turfgrass science. "Recycling grass clippings not only is civic-minded, but it also can be beneficial to the lawn and saves the work involved in bagging.

"If you leave the clippings on the lawn, you can reduce fertilizer needs by as much as one-third. When turf is mowed on a regular basis, clippings break down easily, returning nitrogen and other nutrients to the soil.

"Some people are concerned that returning clippings to the lawn may result in thatch accumulation," says Landschoot. "But because the clippings decompose rapidly, they do not contribute to thatch."

For clippings to break down rapidly, the lawn must be mowed frequently enough so that large amounts of leaf residue don't remain on the surface of the turf. "Weekly mowing often isn't frequent enough, especially during the peak period of leaf growth in spring," he says. Excessive accumulations of clippings remain on the surface for long periods and can smother the grass.

"When you're mowing, you shouldn't take off more than one-third of the leaf blade at one time. Otherwise, you may scalp the grass and make it more vulnerable to stress."

If no herbicides have been applied to the grass, homeowners can rake the dried clippings and use them as mulch around trees, shrubs or flowers, says Landschoot.

Lawn mower manufacturers now offer mulching mowers that keep the clippings circulating under the mower deck, chopping the grass blades into finer pieces. "This hastens the decomposition of the clippings and reduces the amount of residue left on the lawn," says Landschoot.

"However, you don't have to buy a mulching mower to recycle clippings. Ordinary lawn mowers also will provide good results."

Grass clippings also can be composted. "If you combine clippings with tree leaves, the two sources of yard waste will complement one another in the composting process," Landschoot says.

Oley Valley Farm: Where Life Is Simpler And Lovelier

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

OLEY (Berks Co.) — Six years ago, David and Lorin Tuttle had never heard of Oley Valley. But the minute they drove down the lane to the 1769 stone home surrounded by acres of rolling farmland and hills of scattered woodland, they fell in love with the area.

"It was like a whole new world in the middle of nowhere," Dave said.

Vacationers at their Little House Bed and Breakfast, a renovated spring house, feel that same sense of awe at the pristine beauty of the Tuttle's 125-acre farmstead.

Tall catalpa (bean) trees stand like sentinels guarding the stone 18th century home, which was built by a Quaker farmer. The area is known for its many surviving pre-revolutionary houses and the entire Oley Township has been placed on the National Register of Historic Districts.

"We were Long Island duck farmers," Dave said as he explained how and why they relocated to the Oley Valley.

When Dave and Lorin were growing up, Long Island was mostly inhabited by folks that could trace their roots back to the Mayflower and to England. Like the Amish and Mennonites, the Long Island families were proud that they could trace family interrelational ties for generations. As the island became a popular vacation spot for the well-to-do, land prices climbed. There was no where to expand Dave's family's duck farm with it's processing plant.

For several years, Dave and the family co-op contracted farmers in Lancaster County to raise ducks. Every week, Dave flew to Lancaster airport to bring baby ducks to local farmers and to take about 125,000 back for slaughtering.

In 1987, the co-op wearied of the restrictions placed on them from the population growth.

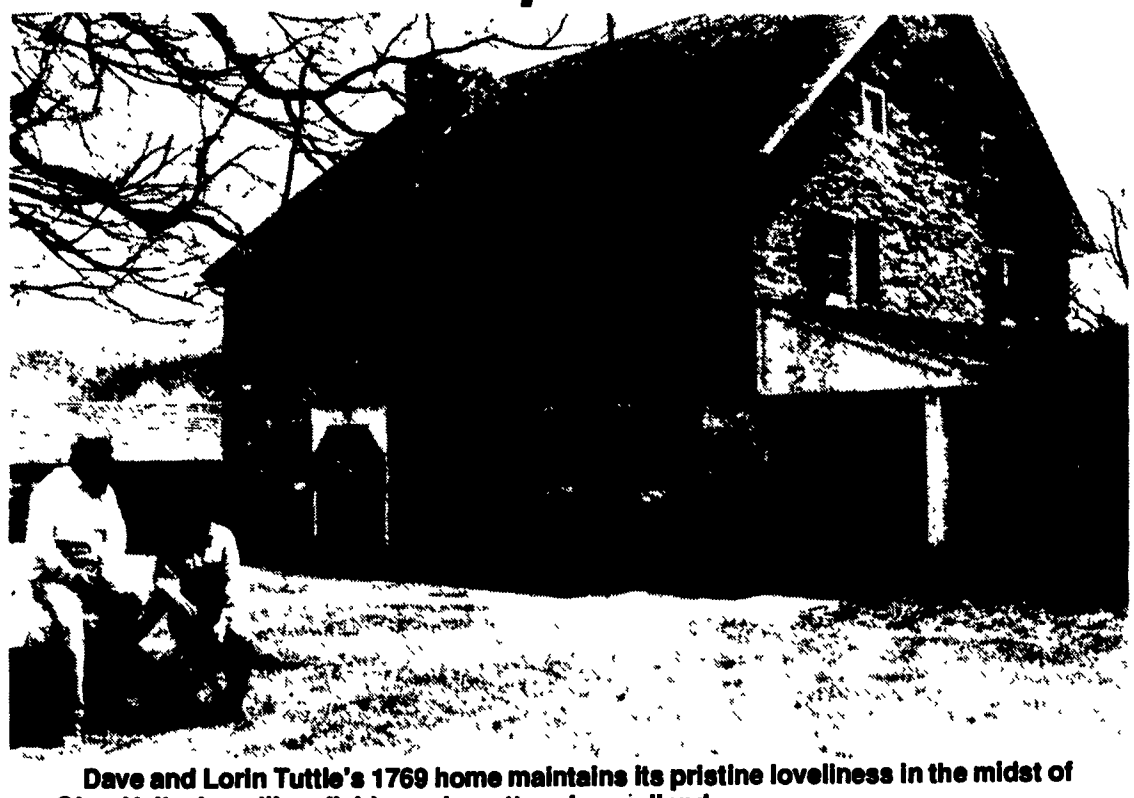
"The neighbors in the resort areas would send their maids to complain that a duck feather or that straw floated into their swimming pool," Dave said of the frustration of dealing with a changing environment.

When reassestment trippled the taxes on the co-ops' properties and processing plant, the company decided to dissolve.

The Tuttles wanted to escape to a quieter place, and decided upon Lancaster County until they saw an ad for an Oley Valley farm while reading the Lancaster Farming.

That was the first time the Tuttle's learned that Oley Valley existed. The farm property had been rented out for 15 years and the place was overgrown in poison and briers.

"The inside walls were painted a Pepto Bismol pink," Dave said. "It took a lot of work, most of what we did ourselves."



Dave and Lorin Tuttle's 1769 home maintains its pristine loveliness in the midst of Oley Valley's rolling fields and scattered woodland.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

The Tuttles restored the property for several years before moving into it.

"We were so excited about moving," Lorin said. "But after we moved, reality hit. We lost our identity. We were no longer duck farmers well-known by everyone in the area, but totally anonymous."

But the Tuttle's are both friendly, outgoing people who seem to be more Pennsylvania Dutch in origin than stereo-typed New Yorkers. They soon established friendships with church and community, and for them and their three children, Betsy, 14; Warner, 12, and Sarah, 9, the area is an answer to their dreams.

Lorin said that she had always admired quilts, but knew little about them. After purchasing her first quilt, she bought a pricing guide and was soon learning all she could about quilts through books and a friend who is a dealer.

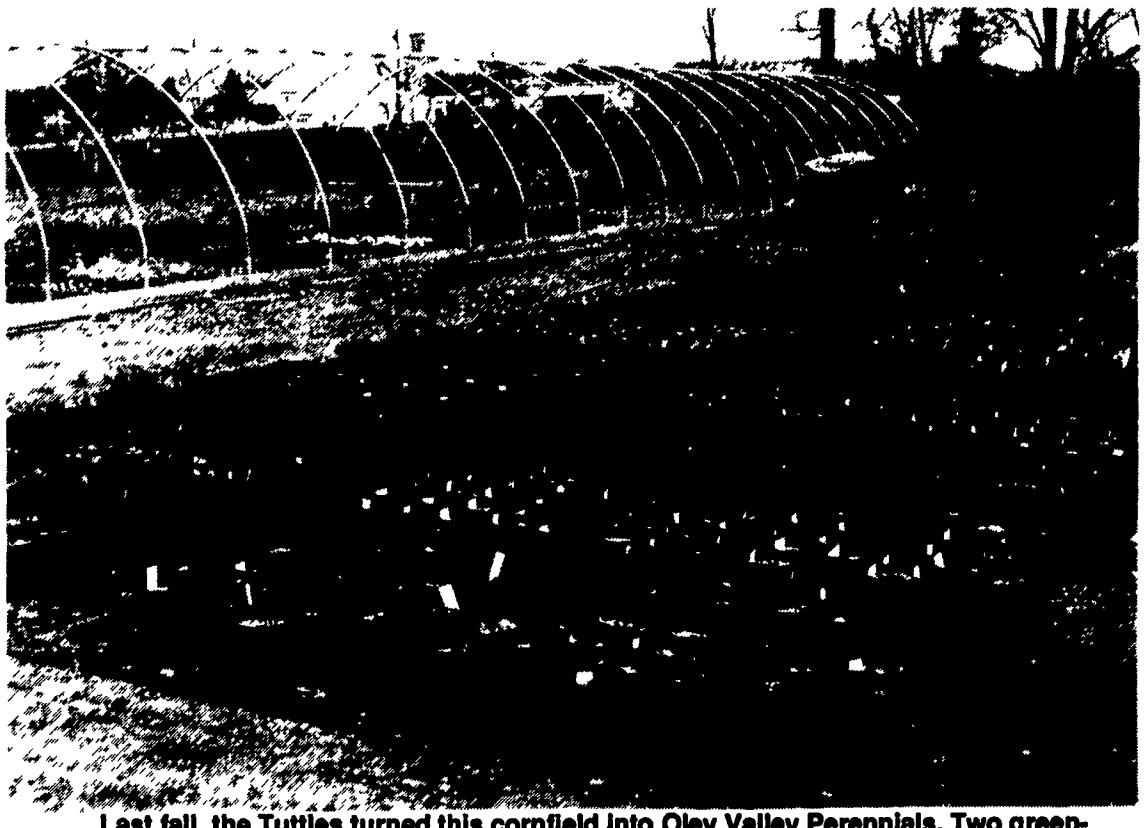
It's old quilts, not new ones, that capture the couple's attention. They now have about 150 quilts that are featured in several historic quilt books and used in exhibits in Japan and other faraway places. They also lecture on quilts for historic and auctioneering societies.

After attending many auctions to purchase quilts, their interest was wetted in collecting homemade type sewing boxes, quilt stamps, spool shelves, tape measures, pin cushions, and other related antiques.

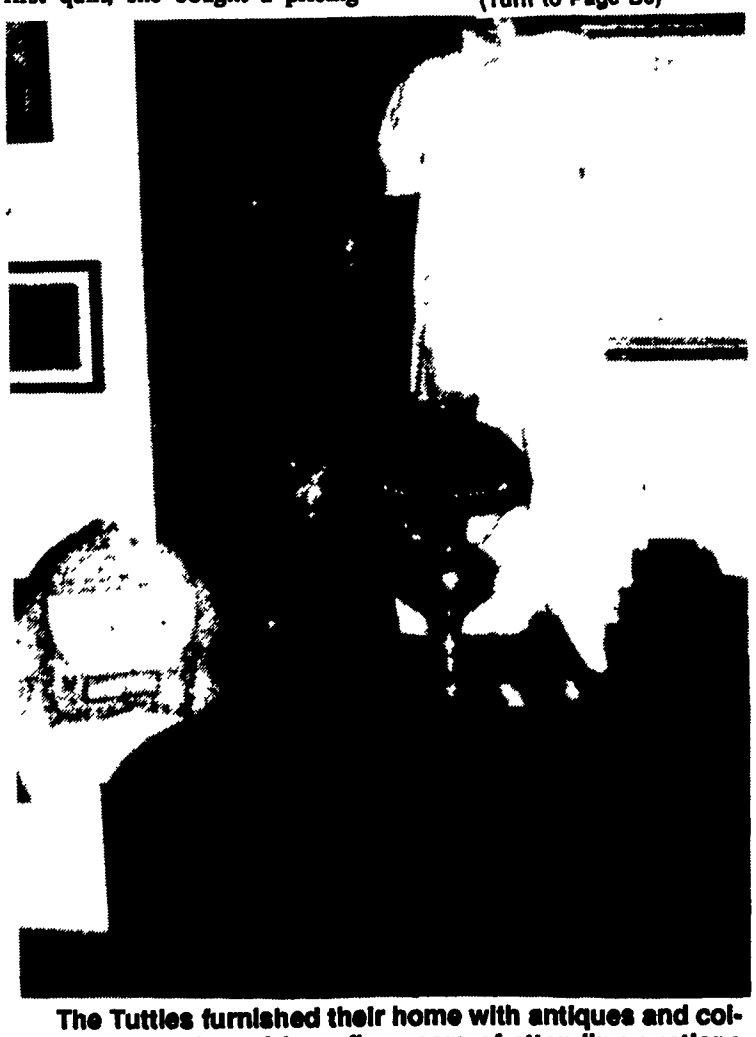
The couple's home is filled with antiques — not passed down through the family — but from

(Turn to Page B5)

Although she mostly collects quilts, Lorin is a proficient quilter. Much of the Tuttle's quilt collection has been featured in quilt books and is often shipped to Japan for quilt exhibits.



Last fall, the Tuttles turned this cornfield into Oley Valley Perennials. Two greenhouses have been erected and a third one is in the plans. Lorin and the children grow 80 varieties of perennials to sell to wholesalers and landscape garden centers. "But we won't turn away any customer," Lorin said.



The Tuttles furnished their home with antiques and collectibles purchased from five years of attending auctions every Saturday. Lorin said that her husband is trying to teach her to buy one good thing at a sale instead of purchasing box lots of junk to sort through.

attending auctions every Saturday for five years.

"My husband is trying to teach me to buy one good item at a sale instead of purchasing box lots to sort through," Lorin said.

After restoring the farmstead, the Tuttles intended to retire on the farm and concentrate on their quilt collection. Instead, Dave takes care of the daily chores associated with raising 2,200 pigs owned by a neighboring farmer and cash crops 124 acres of soybeans and corn.

Last year, in answer to Lorin's dreams, Dave turned a cornfield into a greenhouse business called Oley Valley Perennials.

"It's to keep the kids and me busy," said Lorin, who thrives on growing healthy perennials. So far, she has 80 varieties.

The isolated farm is no place for a retail business so the plants are wholesaled to growers and landscapers.

Another side business is the bed and breakfast they established in the farmstead's springhouse.

Covered with briers and weeds growing inside that reached to the roof, the burned shell of a stone springhouse captured the Tuttle's imagination from the first day they saw it.

"Amazingly the ground stone floor was plumb after 200 years," Dave said.

It's hard to envision the delightful Little House was once as dilapidated and ugly as the photographs show. The lower level with its stone floor provides a kitchen with an open hearth dining room. Dave used what he calls Amish roughbox lumber for the wide board floors. The main level is the living area has a corner fireplace and is furnished with antiques from the area. Narrow stairs lead to a cozy bedroom in the eaves. While lying in the bed, vacationers can see miles of tilled fields and valleys of woodland.

For information about the Little House Bed & Breakfast of Oley Valley, write to David and Lorin Tuttle at 675 Covered Bridge Rd., Boyertown, PA 19512 or phone (610) 689-4814.

The main level of the Little House Bed & Breakfast is the living area with wide board floors, open beam ceiling and fireplace. The lower level provides a complete kitchen with room for dining in front of the open hearth. Climb the narrow stairs to a cozy loft bedroom that overlooks miles of rolling valleys.

The middle building is the Little House Bed And Breakfast for vacationers who want quiet isolation. The building was completely overrun by weeds inside the shell when the Tuttles purchased the property. They installed modern conveniences to tastefully blend with the early American decor and furnished antiques.

Jazz It Up With Tropical Fruits

In the past, seasons were defined by the fruit appearing at the supermarket, but now, fresh fruits appear year-round. The sources often vary from week to week, but the taste is similar regardless of where it was grown.

Prices do vary, but for those who love fruit — it's well worth the extra cost to enjoy year-round good taste.

Fresh tropical fruits taste great alone — but when combined with other foods — the varied tastes are limitless.

LEMON JELL-O SALAD

6-ounces lemon Jell-O
2 cups boiling water
½ cup small marshmallows
20-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup cold water
2 bananas

Topping:

1 cup reserved pineapple juice
2 tablespoons flour
1 egg
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
1 package Dream Whip
½ cup chopped nuts or cheddar cheese (optional)

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Melt marshmallows in boiling mixture. Add pineapple and 1 cup cold water. Slice 2 bananas on bottom of 9x13-inch pan, pour liquid in and refrigerate to set. In saucepan, mix flour and sugar. Add butter, pineapple juice, and egg. Cook until thickened. Cool. Fold in whipped topping and spread over gelatin mixture. Sprinkle with nuts or cheddar cheese. Yields: 12 servings.

TROPICAL PUDDING

3 eggs, beaten well
3 tablespoons flour
¾ cup sugar
Juice from 1 can pineapples
1 cup water

Cook in a double boiler until thick. Cool. Mix in cubed pineapples, bananas, marshmallows, and nuts. If desired, add whipped cream.

PINEAPPLE BLITZ TORTE

Meringue:

3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
½ cup sliced almonds

Cake:

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1¾ cup sifted cake flour
2¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
Pineapple cream filling
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

For meringue, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition until all sugar is dissolved and whites are stiff and glossy. Set aside.

For cake, butter two 9-inch round cake pans. Line bottoms with waxed paper, butter paper. Cream butter. Combine 1 cup sugar, flour, baking powder and salt. Add to butter along with milk and vanilla; mix until dry ingredients are moistened. Beat 2 minutes on low speed of mixer. Add eggs and beat one additional minute. Spread in prepared pans. Spread half of meringue over batter in each pan being careful to keep meringue 1½ -inches from sides of pan. Sprinkle almonds over meringue. Bake in preheated oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool in pans on rack 15 minutes. Turn out on rack and remove waxed paper. Turn meringue side up again. Cool. Fill with pineapple cream filling and frost sides with whipped cream.

Pineapple Cream Filling:

8¼ ounces crushed pineapple, chilled
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon rum extract

Drain pineapple, reserving ¼ cup juice. Set aside pineapple. Sprinkle gelatin over juice to soften; heat over low heat, stirring constantly until gelatin is dissolved. Cool to room temperature. Whip cream in chilled bowl with chilled beaters until stiff peaks form, scraping bowl occasionally. Fold in sugar, rum extract, reserved pineapple and gelatin mixture.

Pineapples are refreshing in many different dishes.

CREAMY LEMON COCONUT PIE

Crust:

¾ cup toasted flaked coconut
¾ cup graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup butter, melted

To toast coconut, spread coconut in shallow baking pan. Place in preheated 350 degree oven. Bake until lightly browned, about 10 minutes, stirring frequently or until browned as desired.

Filling:

2 cups cottage cheese
1¼ cups milk, divided
2 packages (3¾ -ounces each) lemon instant pudding
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel (optional)
¼ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup toasted flaked coconut

For crust, combine ¾ cup coconut, graham cracker crumbs, and melted butter. Press evenly onto bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Chill.

For filling, place cottage cheese and ¼ cup milk in work bowl of food processor; process until smooth. Prepare pudding, mix according to package directions using 1½ cups milk. Stir in cottage cheese mixture; add lemon peel, if desired. Pour mixture into prepared crust. Top with sour cream; sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup coconut. Chill. Several hours.

Family Living Focus

by Lancaster Co.
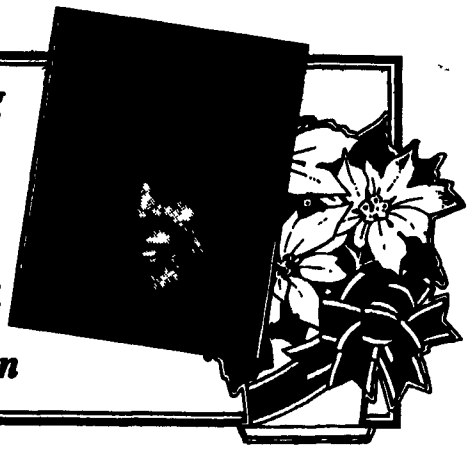
Extension Agent

Debbie Naumann



Ben Franklin in his profound wisdom, warned us years ago against the dangers of squandering our valuable time. Today, many of you may be laughing as you ponder the idea of having even the slightest bit of time left to squander!

There can be no dispute of the fact that we all have 24 hours a day and 168 hours each week to do with what we choose. It is within this time frame that we have the opportunity to plan the many activities of our life — eating, sleeping, working, enjoying family and friends. Unfortunately for many of us caught up in today's fast-paced lifestyles, family fun time seems to be getting cut shorter and shorter.

If finding time for family fun is becoming increasingly difficult for you, it's time to start assessing where you are in life and where you want to be — time to set priorities and find a balance of activities that fits your own values and needs — time to find the TIME for family fun!

The first step begins when you take a good look at the activites that fill your daily hours. An exercise as simple as charting on paper how you spent your last 24 hours may help reveal to you the time that you devoted to various activities. Did you find your day filled with work responsibilities, household chores, committee meetings and activities done for others? Was there time devoted to rest and relaxation, exercise, personal hobbies and family fun time? If you discover that many of your days are filled with activities that aren't personally satisfying or enjoyable, it's time to reevaluate your priorities and to set new goals for making the most of your time.

What are those things that really matter to you and other members of your family? Make a "Joy List" of all of those activities that your family members enjoy doing together. Your list may include activities such as taking a walk in the neighborhood, playing board games, watching movies and eating popcorn, camping, or sharing stories before bedtime. It may even include everyday tasks such as washing the car together, cooking dinner, or cleaning. By identifying those activities that truly give your family joy, you can begin to make them priority in your daily schedules.

Maybe there are some activities that fill your daily hours that you can omit in place of more enjoyable family activities. For example, I often find myself spending the entire first hour that I arrive home from work engaging in tasks that I really hate. On some evenings I will find myself washing the dirty dinner dishes, emptying the trash, opening the bills that just arrived in the mail, putting a load of laundry in the washer, and even cleaning out the toaster — these activities do not give me great joy! Instead I am learning to allow myself the pleasure of taking my shoes off, sitting down for a leisurely dinner with my husband, and playing with my six-month-old daughter who seems to be growing right before my eyes. Are similar "urgent" yet unimportant activities causing you to miss out on the things that really matter most?

Family meetings can provide all family members with the opportunity to plan for family fun activjties. Families can use this regularly scheduled meeting time to plan for family fun and recreation, to recognize good things happening in the family, and to encourage listening among family members. "Dates" can be arranged for family members to go out for dinner together, to attend a sporting event, or to enjoy a family picnic. Family members can write lists of those activities that they would like to do as a family, and a "family calendar" may be developed and placed in a visible location for all family members to see. Such meetings can help all family members to recognize the importance of family fun time, to be a part of the family fun planning process, and to look forward to future activities together.

There is a wonderful quote by an author named Alice Skelsey that has really helped me to recognize the difference between those activities that matter most and those that will not make a big difference in my life. She writes, "As you perform the tightrope artistry of time management, you learn to let go...the least essential while holding form to the important - recognizing that the important often masquerades in the simplest dress." I learned the true meaning of this quote the other day as I was performing the seemingly ordinary task of changing my daughter's diaper. As she beamed up at me with a smile so wide and a look so trustful and endearing, I knew that we had stumbled upon one of those truly special family moments - an ordinary task had turned into a moment to cherish.

Dietary Guidelines Different For Kids

Grain foods, low in fat and high in carbohydrates, are an essential part of your children's diets. In fact, they need 6-11 servings daily to provide the long-term energy they need to get through the day. But how do you get children to eat food that's good for them?

It's simple: the key to coaxing children into eating right is to make it fun. Put a different spin on cereals, pasta, breads and crackers and your kids will eat them up. Here are just a few ideas to get you started. Soon even your pickiest eaters will become grain food junkies:

- Pasta with a twist: Put some pizzazz in your pasta by trying new shapes, colors and flavors. Serve with a tangy, low-fat tomato-based sauce for a hot and healthful dish.
- Crunch and munch yogurt: Sprinkle fruit-flavored yogurt with a cereal topping for a sweet and crunchy treat for breakfast or dessert.
- Hansel and Gretel trail mix: Add your favorite dry cereal to a ready-made trail mix. Not only will you save money, but you also cut down on fat and calories.
- Cracker stacks: Set out some low-fat spreads and let your kids build triple-decker cracker-stacks for a nutritious after-school snack.
- Ship-shape sandwiches: Spark younger children's attention by using cookie cutters to make fun-shaped sandwiches. Keep plenty of low-fat fillings on hand and let them make their own creations. Sneak in additional nutrients by giving them cut up vegetables to use as decorations.
- Pick up on Pita: Instead of serving high-fat chips, slice pita bread into wedges and serve with a healthful dip such as salsa. Toast the pita first and you have a chip-like snack your kids will love.

FRESH PINEAPPLE-MACADAMIA UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

Topping:
- ¼ cup butter, melted
- ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- ½ cup toasted, chopped macadamia nuts
- 7 fresh pineapple rings, cut ¼-inch thick

Cake:
- 1¼ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup milk
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. For topping, pour melted butter into 9-inch round cake pan. Sprinkle with brown sugar and nuts. Place one pineapple ring in center of pan over nuts. Cut remaining pineapple rings in half and arrange in circular pattern. Set aside.

For cake, in large mixing bowl, combine dry ingredients; mix well. Add milk, butter, egg and vanilla. Blend at low speed until dry ingredients are moistened; beat 2 minutes at medium speed, scraping sides of bowl occasionally.

Pour batter evenly over pineapple. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 2 minutes. To remove, run knife around edges of pan. Invert onto serving plate; remove pan. Serve warm or at room temperature. Garnish with fresh mixed berries and whipped cream if desired.

Pecans may be substituted for macadamia nuts, if desired.

Canned pineapple rings, drained and patted dry, may be substituted for fresh pineapple.

FRESH BANANA COOLER

- 2 medium-sized bananas, sliced
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 cups cold milk
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger, if desired banana slices

Place bananas, honey, and a small amount of milk in blender container; cover. Puree until almost smooth. Add remaining milk, ice cream and ginger. Blend until smooth and frothy; about 1 minute. Serve immediately in tall chilled glasses garnished with a banana slice. Makes 4½ cups.

QUESTION — Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, would like a recipe for cranberry candy, which is made with canned cranberry sauce, red Jell-O, and chopped nuts. It's poured into a pan to chill, cut into bars and rolled in granulated sugar. It's a very pretty, bright red with a sparkle from the sugar.

QUESTION — Janet Rutz, Carlisle, would like recipes to use dried cranberry beans.

QUESTION — Frank T. Cat of Millerstown, would like a recipe for English toffee cookies like those sold by Weis Markets. The cookies are great tasting and don't crumble for children.

QUESTION — Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, would like a recipe for clear cranberry jelly that can be molded in shapes.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.Va., would like a recipe for pancake syrup that is light in calories.

ANSWER — Alice Yoder, Lewistown, wanted a recipe for vanilla whoopie pies. Thanks to Shirley Runk, Fern Schlegel, Dalmatia; Anna Joyce Martin, East Earl; Jean Redmond, Mohnton; Linda Groff, Ephrata; and many other for sending recipes.

Vanilla Whoopie Pies

- ½ cup butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
- 4 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat together butter and sugar. Add beaten eggs. Sift together dry ingredients. Add alternately with buttermilk or sour milk. Add vanilla. Chill overnight or several hours. Drop on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350-375 degrees just until edges start to brown.

Filling:

Beat together:
- 4 egg whites
- 4 cups confectioners' sugar

Add:
- 4 teaspoons vanilla
- ½ cup flour
- ½ cup milk

Beat together, then add:
- 4 cups confectioners' sugar
- 3 cups white shortening

Beat well. Spread on cookie. Top with another cookie.

A reader writes that vanilla whoopie pies can be made by taking a white cake mix; mix as instructed and add one cup flour. Also, applesauce may be substituted for the same amount of oil for fat-free cakes or whoopie pies.

ANSWER — Roland Kamoda, Monongahela, wanted a recipe for chicken and biscuits. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Chicken With Dumplings

Cover a plump chicken with water. Add:
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook chicken in boiling water until tender. Prepare dumpling dough.

Dumplings:
- 2 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Milk

Combine flour, salt, and baking powder. Cut in shortening. Add milk until a thick drop batter is obtained. Drop by teaspoonful into boiling broth. Cover, boil 12 minutes. Serve at once.

PINEAPPLE COCONUT CHEESECAKE

- 32-ounces vanilla flavored low-fat yogurt
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon rum extract (optional)
- ½ teaspoon pineapple flavoring
- ½ teaspoon coconut flavoring
- 20 ounces crushed pineapple packed in own juice, well-drained
- ½ cup shredded coconut
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten

Day before: Drain yogurt to make yogurt cheese.

The next day: preheat oven to 325 degrees. Spray an 8-inch pie pan or 7-inch springform pan with nonstick coating. Drain pineapple.

Place yogurt cheese in a medium-size bowl. Add sugar, cornstarch, flavorings, coconut and pineapple. Stir gently to blend with a fork. Stir in eggs.

Pour mixture into prepared pan. Smooth the top.

Bake until center is set, about 25-30 minutes for pie pan or 55-60 for springform pan.

Cool slightly on a wire rack. Refrigerate until chilled.

- 8-ounces crushed pineapple, drained, reserving juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 6-ounces unsweetened pineapple juice
- ¾ cup sugar

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Add remaining ingredients, except pineapple juice and sugar, mixing well. Spread batter into 8x8x2-inch baking dish. Microwave reserved pineapple juice and canned pineapple juice, in a 4-cup measure, uncovered, on full power until boiling; about 5 minutes. Stir in sugar. Pour hot liquid over cake batter. Microwave uncovered on full powder, turning a half a turn every 3 minutes, until wooden pick inserted in cake comes out clean, about 12 minutes. Serve warm or cold.

ANSWER — Brenda Seidel, Elliottsburg, wanted a recipe for French Apple Pie, which has raisins and is topped with icing. Thanks to Stan Kitchen, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

French Apple Pie

Pastry:
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Fill an unbaked pie shell with sliced apples. Combine the butter, sugar, flour, and spices; blend with pastry blender. Pat on top of apples and bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Lower oven temperature to 350 degrees and bake for about 40 minutes more.

Deep-dish apple pie with raisins. Peel, core, and slice five large McIntosh apples and arrange in well-buttered baking dish. Mix together and pour the following on top of the apples:
¾ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons tapioca
½ cup raisins

Pour one-half cup water over-all and dot generously with butter. Prepare pastry, using:
1 cup flour
⅓ cup shortening
Pinch salt
Enough water to make a soft dough

Roll out about ¼ -inch thick. Brush with cream. Sprinkle with sugar and prick with fork. Lay on top of apples. Bake in 400-degree oven for 40 minutes. Serve with cream.

Huff And Puff Activities For Fun In The Wind

Now, that warm weather is here, you'll want to spend lots of time outdoors. Did you know that wind can provide you with hours of fun?

Here are some activities from the "Huff and Puff's Hat Relay," a Totline Teaching Tale by Jean Warren.

The series features a different book each month. The story in this book is a delightful tale about Huff and Puff, two lighthearted clouds with a flair for comedy, who watch the wind blow. From the fire station to the circus to the marketplace, hats are blowing all over town, and Huff and Puff are enjoying the spectacle.

The second part of the book has 16 pages of songs and activities relating to hats and wind. The book is intended to be a read-aloud story for children 2 to 6 years old and an easy-reader for children 6 to 8 years old.

The glossy colorful paperback book is available for $5.95 from Warren Publishing House, Inc., P.O. Box 2250, Everett, WA 98203 or call (206) 353-3100.

(Turn to Page B11)

YOU WILL NEED

- construction paper
- scissors
- hole punch
- brass paper fastener
- tape
- drinking straw

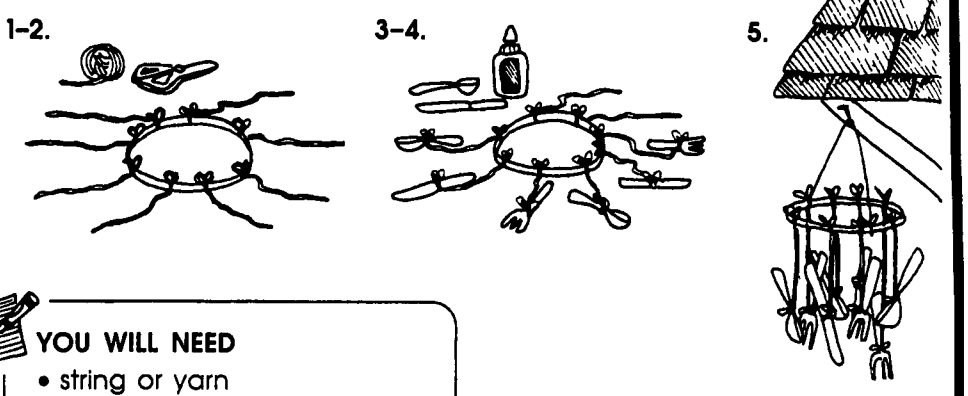
1. Cut a large square out of construction paper
2. Make four cuts in the square, as shown in picture number 1–2 above.
3. Punch four holes in the square, as shown in picture number 3 above. Then punch a hole in the middle of the square
4. Bring the four holes to the center of the square
5. Push a brass paper fastener through the holes to secure the corners.
6. Tape a drinking straw to the prongs of the brass paper fastener. You may need to loosen the brass paper fastener so that your pinwheel will twirl when you blow on it.

FOR MORE FUN

- Before making any cuts, decorate your square of construction paper. You will need to decorate both the front and back of the square

SILVERWARE CHIME

Make this chime and listen to it jingle in the wind!



YOU WILL NEED

- string or yarn
- medium-sized embroidery hoop
- glue
- 8 pieces of silverware (different types and sizes will work)

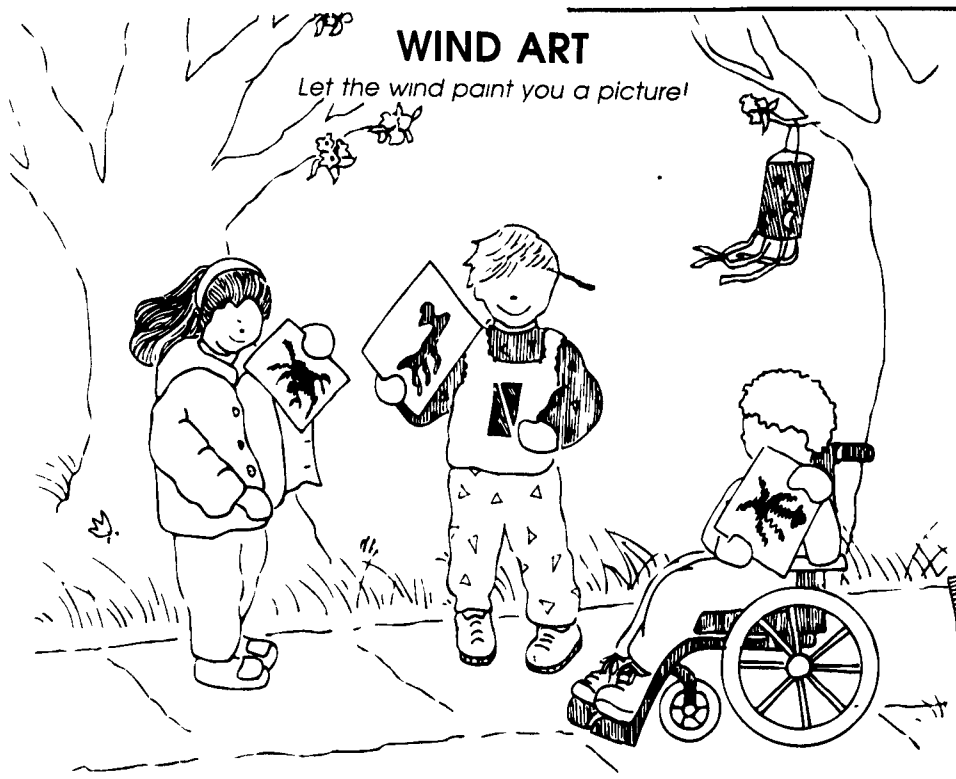
1. Cut string or yarn into 8 pieces, each 6 inches long.
2. Tie one end of each of the pieces of string around a medium-sized embroidery hoop.
3. Glue the strings in place onto the hoop, leaving an equal space between each piece
4. Let the glue dry, then tie the other end of each piece of string to a piece of silverware
5. To make a hanger for your Silverware Chime, tie two long pieces of string or yarn to the embroidery hoop as shown in the picture above.
6. Hang your Silverware Chime outside and let it blow and chime in the wind.

FOR MORE FUN

- Hang your Silverware Chime inside and tap the silverware with a metal object (such as a table knife).
- Instead of silverware, tie the ends of the pieces of string to 2 ½-inch-long nails.

WIND ART

Let the wind paint you a picture!



YOU WILL NEED

- liquid paint
- paper

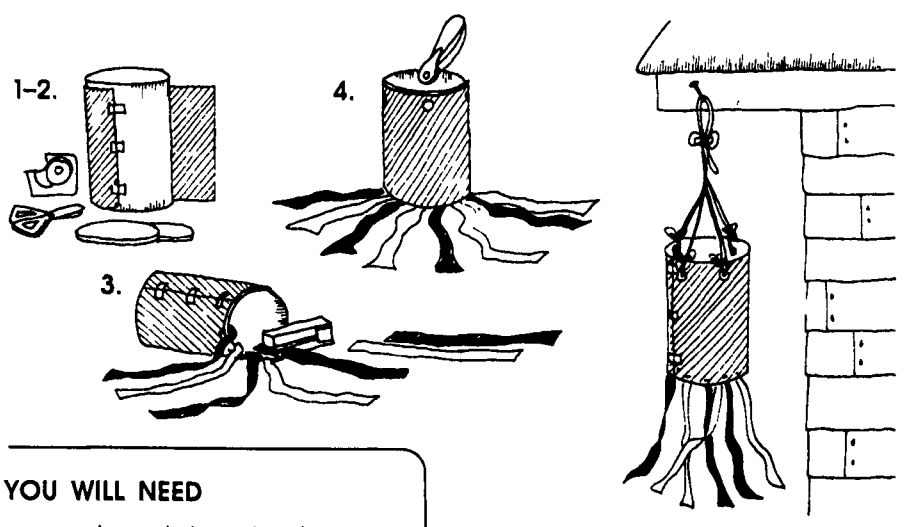
1. Drizzle a little paint on a piece of paper
2. Take the paper outside on a windy day and hold it up in the air
3. Let the wind blow the paint into designs

FOR MORE FUN

- Instead of letting the wind make designs, blow on the paint yourself. Use a straw, or hold your piece of paper in front of a fan

WINDSOCK

Hang your own windsock outside to blow in the wind!



YOU WILL NEED

- round container (such as a round oatmeal box)
- construction paper
- crepe paper
- stapler
- hole punch
- yarn

1. Remove the top and bottom from a round container.
2. Cover the container with construction paper.
3. Staple strips of crepe paper to the bottom inside edge of the container.
4. Punch four evenly-spaced holes in the top edge of the container.
5. Tie a piece of yarn to each hole, and tie the four loose ends together to make a hanger for your Windsock.

FOR MORE FUN

- After covering the container with construction paper, decorate it with felt-tip markers, paint, rubber stamps, or stickers.

Huff And Puff Activities

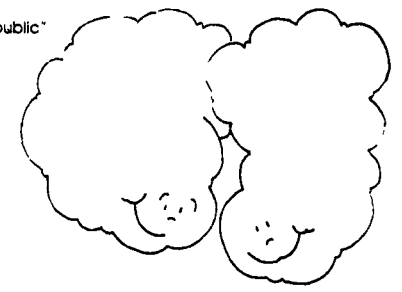
The Hat Relay

Sung to "The Battle Hymn of the Republic"



Huff and Puff loved watching
As the wind went out to play
Huff and Puff loved watching
All the kites dip and sway
Huff and Puff loved watching
All the hats blow away
It was the hat relay!

Hats hats here and there,
Hats, hats everywhere
Huff and Puff sat all day
And watched the hat relay

Huff and Puff loved watching
All the paper start to blow
Huff and Puff loved watching
All the trees bending low
Huff and Puff loved watching
All the flags wave hello
It was the hat relay!

Hats hats here and there
Hats hats everywhere
Huff and Puff sat all day
And watched the hat relay

Sung to: "The Mulberry Bush"

I see the wind when the leaves dance by,
I see the wind when the clothes wave "Hi!"
I see the wind when the trees bend low,
I see the wind when the flags all blow.

I see the wind when the kites fly high,
I see the wind when the clouds float by.
I see the wind when it blows my hair,
I see the wind 'most everywhere!

Hats

Sung to: "Skip to My Lou"

Hats on people in the sun,
Hats on people on the run.
Hats on people in a band,
Hats on people on the sand.

Hats on people every day,
Hats on people when they play.
Hats on people at the fair,
Hats on people everywhere.

Now that Mel Wenger has sold his farm supply store and his farm, he puts his energies into helping nonprofit organizations such as Kraybill Mennonite School. He solicits businesses to donate Winross trucks and toy tractors to be sold at the school's annual benefit auction.

Agribusinesses Donate To School's Benefit Auction

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — When it comes to helping the community, agribusinesses often generously donate items, money, and talent.

Some of this generosity surfaced recently in preparation for the annual Kraybill Mennonite School Auction when Landis Brothers Inc., a John Deere dealer, and Mel Wenger, a retired farmer and agribusiness owner, pledged donations to the school's Winross truck auction.

The Winross truck sale is part of the annual benefit auction to be held on the schoolgrounds on May 12-13 at 598 Kraybill Church Road, Mount Joy.

For many years Wenger has been in charge of contacting businesses to donate Winross trucks and toy tractors for the auction.

The monies earned at the auction provide funds for the ongoing costs of the school.

Wenger and his wife Marian have four sons that attended the school. Now five of his 11 grandchildren are students at the school.

"I believe in providing good teachers and a good education with a Christian emphasis," Wenger said of his interest in the school.

In 1951, Wenger had purchased a 95-acre dairy farm in Mount Joy. After 15 years, he sold the herd but retained the cropland while concentrating on managing his farm supply and animal health store, called M.W. AgriServices. About three years ago, Wenger sold his farm to a son and his business to another agri-service business.

For many years, Wenger had donated shovels, forks, brooms, scrapers, boots, and numerous other items of interest to farmers to Kraybill's Benefit Auction.

Then "Winross fever" swept the agriculture community. The trucks brought high prices at auctions.

Wenger saw the interest in Winross trucks was a way to help the school make some profit.

Through trial and error, Wenger has learned that Winross trucks bring a much higher price if the quantity is limited.

He had 800 trucks made with his company logo.

"If I had it to do over, I wouldn't have made so many," Wenger said. "They sold but at lower prices. Florin Feeds made only 125 trucks. The demand is so intense that prices for one of those is $1,000."

A brand new Winross truck with two tractors will be available for the first time at the Kraybill School Benefit Auction.

Phil Wimer, one of three owners for Landis Brothers, said that his company has been donating toys to the auction since 1988. This year, the business is donating a prototype of their soon to be released Winross flatbed hauling two tractors — a 1928 Model D and a 1995 model 7800 cab tractor.

(Turn to Page B15)

Phil Wimer shows off the prototype of Landis Brothers' soon-to-be-released Winross flatbed hauling two tractors — a 1928 Model D and a 1995 model 7800 cab tractor. This prototype is the only one available and will go the highest bidder at the Kraybill Mennonite School Benefit Auction on May 12.

Super Cupboards Break Chain Of Dependency

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "Giving a bag of food is only a bandage to cover up a bigger problem," said Heather Wilson, director of Social Services for the Salvation Army.

Wilson was discussing the frustration she and many social service workers feel as they try to differentiate between the needy and those who abuse the welfare system.

Now she is estatic that she has found a way to help people break the chain of dependency.

With the help of Brenda Stallman, Expanded Food Nutrition Education Program with Lancaster County Extension, Wilson has implemented a program called Super Cupboard.

"I believe in being a good steward of the food that is given to us to distribute to the needy," Wilson said.

"When I first began working here, I thought there were only one or two food banks in the area. But I found out that there are 20 food banks. I was appalled to find people abusing the system by making their rounds to all the food banks. Some continually needed to rely on food banks because they ran out of funds at the end of the month.

Her efforts to consolidate food banks so that the system could not be abused became a territorial issue. Organizations that receive state and federal monies cannot put stipulations on food handouts.

"But," said Wilson, "since the Salvation Army relies completely on donations, we can request that a food recipient attend the Super Cupboard classes in exchange for food.

"Super Cupboard enables recipients to learn how to plan and cook so they don't need to go hungry at the end of the month."

The Super Cupboard concept teaches users basic nutrition and skills for planning, buying, and preparing nutritious meals on a limited budget.

A six-week program held at the Salvation Army in Lancaster and taught by extension personnel is in session now.

"Many have never been taught how to cook or eat properly. If they did not see their mother do anything but open cans, they continue the cycle," she said. "In the classes, they learn to compare the price of opening a can of spaghetti that costs $4.95 with homemade spaghetti that costs $1.

"We have a duty to change people's lives, not just hand out food," Wilson said.

At the end of the day-long sessions, the participants are given all the ingredients and recipes needed to take home and prepare the same meal that they made in class.

"Repeating the food preparation in their home reinforces skills that they have learned in class," Wilson said.

Heather Wilson, social services director for Salvation Army, kneels to ask the children how they are enjoying the food prepared by Super Cupboard participants.

After Chris George teaches nutrition, participants prepare a meal. At the end of the day, they receive a food package and recipes to prepare the same meal at home. Repeating the food preparation in their home reinforces skills that they have learned in class. The program's goal is to enable participants to break the cycle of dependency and move toward self-reliance.

A nutrition lesson is taught each morning for one hour and a life-skills program is planned for one hour each afternoon during the 6-week session.

"You can't take care of your family if you are sick," Chris George, a nutrition education adviser for the extension, told class members while emphasizing the need to eat healthy foods.

She explained the need to plan meals, write a grocery list, and stick to it.

"Stores want to entice buyers," she said as she explained how grocery money can quickly disappear if shoppers practice impulse buying.

Many class members said they threw leftover food away. George taught them how to store food properly to maintain flavor and how to incorporate leftovers into other meals.

After each teaching session, class members prepare the day's menu. They eat the food and serve it to their children who are being cared for during the classes at the Salvation Army.

"I never thought my children would eat the food, but they love it," a participant said of foods such as quiche and a carrot salad.

During the sessions, participants often ask questions or comment on the teacher's instruction.

The camaraderie enables them to glimpse a different lifestyle, one that shows them how to cope with problems.

One participant asked how she could get her kids to eat food she had prepared.

Brenda Stallman, an EFNEP advisor, suggested that she allow the child to choose what he would like to eat with the understanding that he would help make it and clean up afterward. The next week, the participant reported that the method had ideal results and has helped eased her workload.

Although this is the first session at the Lancaster location, the Salvation Army in York has been holding Super Cupboard classes for several years.

Wilson said that they find the program really works. Those who attend are open and teachable. Recipients are enthusiastic about the program and many become child-care providers, junior advisors, or mentors for other Super Cupboards scheduled.

The classes are held twice weekly from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Classes are most functional with 10 or less persons.

Many Super Cupboards involve help from public, private, and church organizations.

Wilson estimates that it cost about $75 a person for the six-week class. Some food donations are from the food banks with the remainder funded by the Salvation Army.

Wilson would like persons with extra garden produce to donate the food to the Super Cupboard program.

"We are open until 5:30 every evening if someone wants to drop it off or we will gladly pick up the produce if desired," Wilson said.

A guide on how to develop and organize a Super Cupboard is available from the Pennsylvania Coalition on Food and Nutrition (PCFN), 208 N. Third St., Suite 200, Harrisburg, PA 17101 or call (717) 233-6705 and ask for Tina Pherribo.

CHICKEN ALA KING

1 large chicken breast, cooked with seasonings
1 rib celery
1 small onion
Salt and pepper, if desired
1 box frozen peas, cooked and drained
1 small can mushrooms, drained
1½ cups Magic Mix
2 cups broth and seasonings
1 boullion cube

In a saucepan, combine cooked chicken, cut into small pieces, cooked and drained peans, and mushrooms.

In another saucepan, cook:
Magic mix*
Broth with seasonings

Cook the Magic mix and broth over medium heat, stirring constantly until it comes to a boil. Add this to the other ingredients and serve over biscuits, waffles or toast points.

MAGIC MIX*

4 cups instant nonfat dry milk powder
1 cup flour OR ½ cup cornstarch
1 cup margarine

Combine dry milk, flour or cornstarch, and margarine in a large bowl. Use two knives to cut margarine into small bits. Continue to cut margarine into dry ingredients until mixture resembles cornmeal. Keep mix in tightly covered container in refrigerator.

MAGIC SAUCE FROM MAGIC MIX*

⅓ cup Magic Mix*
1 cup water
Cooked meat, cheese, or vegetables

Combine Magic Mix and water in saucepan. Stir over medium heat until it starts to bubble. Add cooked meat, cheese, or vegetables to the hot sauce. Continue cooking until ingredients are heated through. Season to taste. Serve.

MAGIC CREAM SOUPS FROM MAGIC MIX*

4 cups water
2 cups Magic Mix
1 bouillon cube

One of the following: 3 cooked carrots, mashed; 3 potatoes cooked and chopped with 1 tablespoon chopped onion; 1 package chopped cooked spinach; 1 package chopped cooked broccoli; 1 can cream-style corn and 1 tablespoon chopped onion

Combine Magic Mix* (see recipe), water, and bouillon cube in saucepan. Stir over medium heat until slightly thick. Add one of the above vegetable choices. Continue cooking until vegetables are heated through. Season to taste. Serve.

MAGIC PUDDING FROM MAGIC MIX*

½ cup sugar
2 cups Magic Mix*
2 cups water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine Magic Mix* (see recipe), sugar, and water in saucepan. Stir over medium heat until pudding bubbles. Add vanilla and stir. Cover and cool. Serve when cool.

For chocolate pudding, add 2 tablespoons cocoa to sugar and follow directions above.

CARROT, ORANGE, AND RAISIN SALAD

1½ cups carrots, cleaned and finely chopped or shredded
1½ cups oranges, sliced
½ cup raisins
½ cup low-fat vanilla yogurt

Toss carrots, oranges, and raisins together lightly with two forks. Mix in yogurt. Chill. Serve on lettuce or chopped cabbage (optional).

Ida's Notebook

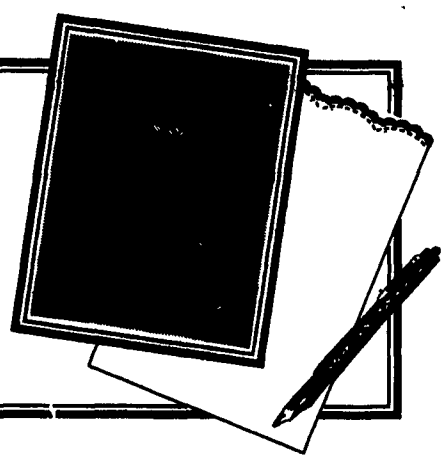
Ida Risser



When I take a few minutes to look at some dishes in a corner cupboard, I wish that my children were with me and I could share with them what little history I know behind each item. Most of these things came from our parents or some relatives, but others were bought at public auctions over the years.

Our children come to visit, and we talk and pay a lot of attention to the grandchildren and then they go to their own homes. A few stories of long ago are mentioned, but everybody is always going somewhere. During my childhood, we kept Sunday for church and visiting. It was not necessary to phone and let them know that you were planning to drop in. Now, people like advance notice of a visit.

We keep in touch with our scattered family by phone and it is a lot easier to do than it was 40 years ago. Our phone line on the farm was a party line and we heard five different rings although there were 10 folks on the line. Some of them lived two miles away from us in the village of Oregon.

I like to write letters but do not get very many in return. Some of my sisters still know how to write. A letter can be picked up and reread at your convenience. It is a record of life that lasts. I remember reading some letters that my grandfather wrote to my grandmother before their marriage in 1873. It seems that as we get older, history is more important to us. Writing things down is a good way to share. Maybe I should mark some of my dishes even as my husband's mother marked some for me.

School's Benefit Auction

The prototype is one of kind, which makes it even more valuable. Minor changes will be made to the limited edition models soon to be available.

Wimer declined to say how many trucks are being made for the company. He did say that letters will be mailed to select customers who have first chance at purchasing the models. The model cannot be purchased without a letter unless there are leftovers after a specified date.

This is the second edition of the company's Winross truck. The first edition, released in 1988, sold out before many people had heard about it.

The second edition is being prepared in honor of the company's 75th anniversary. The tractors are made by Ertl and the truck by Winross.

Wimer said his company is moving the Lancaster-based business to the Mount Joy area at the end of this year.

About 30 different Winross trucks and 20 toy tractors will be auctioned on Friday, May 12, at 6:45 p.m.

Other activities during the auction include an all-you-can-eat Southern-style pig roast and an ice cream sundae bar, beginning at 5 p.m. on Friday. Crafts will be available for purchase from 5-8 p.m.

Saturday events begin with a hearty country breakfast choice of omelets and home fries or pancakes and sausage.

View the countryside from a tethered hot air balloon. Rides will lift off from 8-10 a.m., weather permiting.

The auction begins at 9 a.m. and features a large variety of new merchandise donated by local businesses, hand-crafted items, fine art and collectibles, and bark mulch. At 1:30 p.m., more than 20 quilts, wall hangings, and braided rugs will go on the auction block.

Some unique items to be auctioned are a carousel "Wonder Horse," a lamb suede quilt entitled "Pine Tree" designed by Donna Albert, and several rare collector's prints.

The 18th annual Kraybill Mennonite School Benefit Auction will be held May 12-13 at 598 Kraybill Church Road, Mount Joy.

For more information, call the school at (717) 653-5236.

"My parents idea of gardening was to grow all they could and load it onto a truck and peddle it in town. My mother teaching me to can vegetables was another way to pass information from generation to generation. That really has been a victory in itself."

"The legacy of victory gardens is what we learned from those who gardened in the '40s. In our family, everyone looks to our grandparents and their vegetable patch as the gardeners to emulate. We are all victory gardeners if we follow the gardening practices of preceding generations."

Remembrances of gardens past include many planting tips. Here are a few victory garden tips you'll enjoy.

Remember the time of year that a vegetable grows best. Radishes grow best in the spring and fall and not in the heat of summer. They mature in 25-35 days. Beets can be planted as soon as the ground is workable up to mid-summer since most varieties mature in 60 days.

Vegetables maturing at the same time should be planted together. Get the soil ready as soon as the soil can be dug. Plant a quick maturing crop between ones that take a long time to mature. Use radish or lettuce for intercropping with peas. Plan to have your soil producing at all times (succession planting). Follow early peas with late turnips, beets, snap beans, or spinach.

Eat early onions first. They are not good keepers. White varieties are the quickest to spoil. Red varieties keep the best followed by yellow types.

The gardener who keeps hens should plant a few green rape or swiss chard to provide continuous feed. Small autumn cabbage supply a winter food along with red beets.

The scarlet runner bean is a first-class vegetable as well as a most colorful vine. Train it on a lattice or fence. It occupies little space and produces an amazing amount of food.

If your garden is level, work horse or cow manure into the garden in the early spring. Start your plants from seed rather then buying them. This conserves our scarce seed supply. Use the flat side of a hoe to tamp down seeds after planting to get rid of air pockets. Use a hoe or scuffle hoe to remove weeds while they are small.

When planting seeds such as carrots which take longer to sprout, plant a few radish seeds which sprout quickly, thus marking the rows and making weeding easier.

Using starter solutions of fertilizers at planting would be an interesting experiment to conduct. Make your own starter solution of 4-8-4 fertilizer with 5 gallons of water and using one cup of the mix per plant. Compare it to the standard manure tea made with a half barrel of dry manure mixed with 2 barrels of water.

Mulch the garden after planting with straw or grass clippings. Cover your transplants with wax paper, jars, baskets, newspaper cones for animal and frost protection. Grow a few flowers for fragrance-mignonette, heliotrope, nicotiana or sweet alyssum.

Lastly, mix fine soil or sand with small seeds before sowing to save thinning later.

For more information on victory gardening, ask for the "Vegetables for Victory" packet available at the Extension Office, call Sara at (717) 757-9657. Cost is $5.50 per copy and includes: Small (30 ft. x 50 ft.) victory garden plans, oral history/brief remembrances, victory gardens emergence through history and vegetable planting tips from the 1940s, companion planting guide, seed planting guide, heirloom seeds explained, vegetable growing fact sheets, York County farmer markets and locating a suitable plot for gardening.

GARDEN VEGETABLE STIR FRY

1 tablespoons salad oil
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
2 carrots, cleaned and sliced
2 ribs celery, cleant sliced
1 cup broccoli, washed, separated into flowerets with stems cut into thin slices
1 cup cabbage, cleaned and shredded
1 cup onions, sliced thin
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 teaspoons cornstarch
¼ cup water

Heat oil in skillet. Add carrots and onions. Stir-fry 3 to 4 minutes until partially cooked. Add cabbage and broccoli. Stir-fry 2 to 3 minutes or until vegetables are tender but still crisp. Mix cornstarch, water, garlic powder, and soy sauce. Add cornstarch mixture to vegetables slowly, stirring constantly. Continue cooking until bubbly.

Other vegetables may be substituted.

To make a full meal, add 1 cup cooked meat, a 16-ounce can of navy beans or 4-6-ounces tofu. Serve over cooked rice.

HAPPENINGS

4-H Horticulture Projects

The Bucks County 4-H will be offering Fun To Do Horticulture Projects for the spring and summer of 1995.

The Great Pumpkin Project affords Bucks County youth the opportunity to grow several different pumpkins from seed or transplants through maturity and harvest. Youth are given the seeds and plants to begin the project. They observe, nurture, and keep records on their pumpkins for the program.

In the fall, youth will harvest their prize pumpkins and participate in the Pumpkin Roundup held in conjunction with the Churchville Nature Center's Pumpkin Weigh-In and Pumpkin Festival.

The 4-H Red, White and Yellow Potato project lets youth grow several different varieties of potatoes. Seed potatoes are provided at a minimal fee and youth observe, keep records, harvest and display the fruits of their labor at the Middletown Grange Fair.

Both of these projects are open to any youth between the ages of 8-19.

Bucks County 4-H offers many opportunities for youth to participate in a wide variety of activities. To find out more about 4-H or to register for the Great Pumpkin or Potato Project, please call the Bucks County Cooperative Extension Office at (215) 345-3283.

Hunterdon Hoppers, 4-H Rabbit Club

The last meeting of the Hunterdon Hoppers 4-H Rabbit Club was at the Hunterdon County Extension Center, on March 20. The meeting started at 7:30 p.m. Everyone gave a report on their rabbits. Mrs. Seeley of High Bridge demonstrated how to clip rabbit's teeth. Betsie Friga of Asbury talked about "A Disease Called Pasturella." Darlene Soga of Asbury spoke on rabbit history.

Brillion
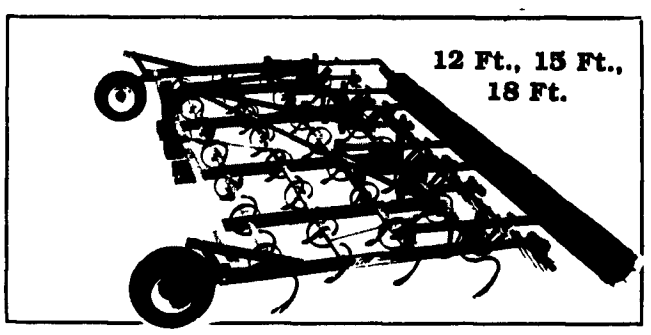
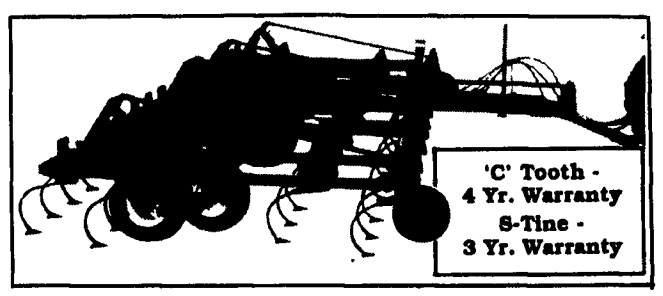
3 PT. BASKET HARROWS



Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable coil tine leveler bar. Gauge wheels are optional.
HFC FIELD CULTIVATORS
16½ Ft. to 31½ Ft.



The "heart" of any field cultivator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporates a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear. The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

Day Camp To Teach Kids Farm Safety

VILLAGE OF OREGON (Lancaster Co.) — The local chapter of Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, together with the Safe Kids Coalition, are presenting a special Farm Safety Day Camp for farm children ages 8-13 on Saturday, June 3, at the Oregon Dairy Farm on Oregon Pike.

The day camp is open to farm children to promote education of farm safety. The camp, which begins at 8 a.m., will provide a variety of farm safety demonstrations using tractors, grain flow wagons, PTOs, skid loaders, all-terrain vehicles, mowers, and electrical systems and will show children the dangers of handling animals, farm chemicals, and other equipment.

Oregon Dairy is providing free use of the farm for the day, and will provide food for the children.

As of presstime, 130 children were signed up, according to a spokesperson for the farm child safety groups. While registration is limited, a waiting list is available for those who still want to register. Call (800) 822-0769 for more information.

Consuming Thoughts

by

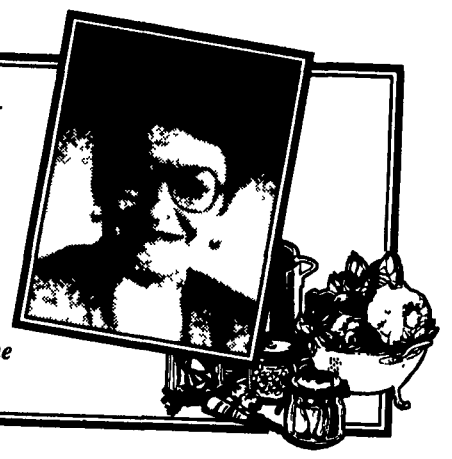
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Crunchy chocolate bars, lickable lollipops, and bubble gum are all part of the fun of being young. But too many sugary treats for children can cause problems.

Candy, soft drinks, cookies, cakes, and chips are frequent snacking choices. These foods are often high in sugar or fat, and contain little protein, vitamins, or minerals. Eating lots of high-calorie, low-nutrient snacks can contribute to tooth decay, obesity, and extra calories at the expense of other nutrient needs.

Choosing snacks with nutrional benefits is important for people of all ages, but it can be especially critical during the growing years.

If a child consumes about a quarter pound of sugar each day, that's 500 calories worth of sugar.

Suppose your ten year old needs 2,400 calories a day. This means that more than 20 percent of the child's calories are coming from sugar.

That much sugar may not be a problem for kids who eat a variety of nutrient-rich foods. But for the finicky eater, meeting nutritional requirements with the remaining 80 percent of his calorie intake could be very difficult.

Yesterday's caloric desserts frequently become tomorrow's snacks. Instead of having chocolate cake accessible to snackers, bake up a batch of muffins. Chopped apples, bananas, or pumpkin added to the batter give plain muffins flavor and nutritional variety.

Make snacking fun and let the kids have a piece of the action. With cookie cutters or paper patterns in place they can create animal, people, or other shapely creations from whole wheat bread. Top the bread with a fruit or vegetable spread such as grated carrots and raisins moistened with yogurt, crushed pineapple and cottage cheese, or grate cabbage combined with crushed pineapple. These spreads also make great dips for carrot sticks.

Quench your toddler's thirst with a fruit shake. Mix one cup milk with 1/4 cup grape juice or orange juice. Add one scoop vanilla ice cream, and shake or blend until smooth. This vitamin C, protein, and calcium combination can please the youngster as easily as a soft drink.

Eating between meals can be a good thing for growing children. A child's stomach is small and usually can't hold enough at one meal to last until the next meal. If you consider snacks as being mini-meals, then it may be easier to think nutritiously.

Calories, or food energy, is not all a growing youngster needs. Do the snacks you serve your child contribute protein, vitamins, or minerals to the diet? If not, then explore the many nutritious snacking options. You may quickly conclude that candy is really not so dandy.

If you're going to serve cookies to children, look for recipes with reduced sugar and/or recipes that have whole grains and fruit or vegetables as ingredients. Here's a recipe to get you started.

Oatmeal Peanut Butter Cookies

¼ cup shortening
1 cup grated carrot
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
1 cup flour
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup peanut butter
3 cups rolled oats, quick cooking
1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 375°F. Cream shortening and sugar. Blend in water, eggs, peanut butter, vanilla and carrot. Sift flour, soda, and salt together, and stir into other ingredients. Stir in oats until completely moistened. Roll dough into 1-inch diameter balls and place on greased baking sheet. Press balls flat with a fork. Bake 10-12 minutes. Makes 5 dozen. Calories: 59 per cookie.

Rhubarb Fest Celebration

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Each year, the third Saturday in May, the tiny village of Intercourse is filled with the sweet aroma of rhubarb jam and with people from around the world who come to experience one of America's most unusual festivals. It is a magical time when the tender shoots of rhubarb have reached rosy pink, to be picked at peak flavor as the first harvest of the spring season. To local folks, rhubarb is nature's annual harbinger of the area's rich agricultural heritage.

The 12th annual Rhubarb Festival is set for May 20 at the Kitchen Kettle Village, where the making of homemade jellies and jams began as a home business over 40 years ago. Today over 60 different varieties of seasonal jams, jellies, preserves and relishes—made from all-natural ingredients—are still produced in small batches in stainless steel kettles, in an open kitchen that attracts over one million visitors each year. And the Village has grown to include 32 food, furniture and artisans' shops that reflect a heritage of culinary creativity and craftsmanship.

Every inch of Kitchen Kettle Village will be tied into the Rhubarb celebration, from the World's Only Rhubarb Race Car Derby (yes the mini dragsters are made of rhubarb stalks and electronically timed for the fastest finish) to the "Best Rhubarb Pie in Lancaster County" Baking Contest, Rhubarb Pie Throw and Rhubarb Arcade of Games. It's a family affair that offers something to see, taste and do—as long as it involves Rhubarb.

At stands and shops throughout the village visitors can enjoy Strawberry and Plain Rhubarb Pie, Strawberry Rhubarb Cookies, an Almond Rhubarb Pastry as well as Rhubarb Pecan Muffins. New this year is a kettle-shaped Soft Pretzel served with a Rhubarb Dipping Sauce.

For breakfast there will be Strawberry Rhubarb French Toast and Berry Rhubarb Parfait, while lunch and dinner menus will spotlight Chilled Strawberry Rhubarb Soup, Spiced Rhubarb Ham, Rhubarb Pork Chop Casserole, Easy Spicy Hot Rhubarb Sauce, plus Rhubarb Glazed Chicken Kabobs and Ham Balls.

Another new item, at the Fresh & Simple Drink Stand, is "Bluebarb Delight"—a smooth concoction that just may topple Strawberry Rhubarb Frost as the fest's most popular beverage.

Although Helen "Grammy" Groff is now semi-retired from Kitchen Kettle Village, she still helps out at festival time. Anyone who's tasted her Strawberry Rhubarb Pie always comes back for more!"

Then there are the special events, where Village employees, friends and neighbors pitch in to help raise funds for charity. This year's beneficiary is the Four Diamonds Fund, which provides for the care and treatment of children with cancer at the Hershey Medical Center.

The Rhubarb Arcade will feature a Rhubarb Regatta, Rhubarb Bulls-eye Toss, Rhubarb Pick-up Sticks, a Rhubarb In-the-Jar Guessing Game, a "Which is the Real Rhubarb?" game, and the World's One & Only Rhubarb Tree. Fresh rhubarb plants will also be sold, along with a Rhubarb Recipes booklet that offers cooking tips and recipes. And who can resist getting their photo taken with the festival's costume characters, Yummie the Gingerbread Man and Rupert Rhubarb?

By the end of the day a quilting bee by local farmwomen will produce and sell a handmade crib quilt that will work in the Four Diamonds theme. The Retreads, an over-40s motorcycle club that annually visits Intercourse for a regional convention, have adopted the Rhubarb Pie Throw as their own event.

Entertainment will be provided by "Banjo Jimmy" and his Band, and master storyteller Alan Irvine, whose extraordinary characters will weave in local history along with folk tales from around the world.

The 12th Annual Rhubarb Festival will run from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., rain or shine, on Saturday, May 20. Finals for the Rhubarb Race Car Derby with prizes in speed and design categories, will be held at 11 a.m. and cars will be on display following the race. Judging for the Best Rhubarb Pie Contest begins at 10:15 a.m.

Kitchen Kettle Village is located on Rt. 340 in the Village of Intercourse, 10 miles east of Lancaster City. A free color brochure is available that outlines all activities and events scheduled throughout the year. Call or write: Kitchen Kettle Village, Rt. 340, Intercourse, PA 17534. Adams County Searches For Dairy Princess GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — "This could be the greatest opportunity of your life," Jayne Hess tells prospective county dairy princesses. "I know because my reign as dairy princess helped me network with industry leaders and get a jump-start on a career in dairy marketing."

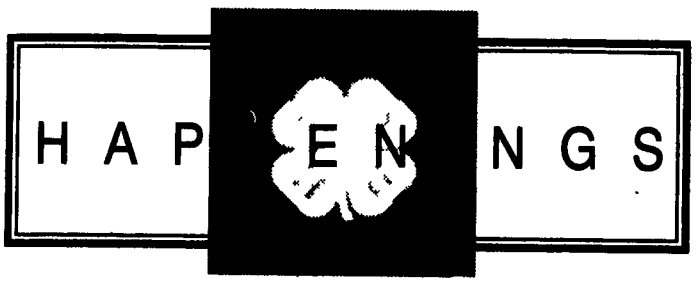
The Adams County dairy industry is looking for candidates to vie for the Adams County Dairy Princess position. A candidate is elgible if she is the daughter of a dairy producer or ag sales representative, or works at a farm store or a dairy farm, or has shown dairy cows in 4-H or FFA.

For more information on becoming a dairy princess, call Tom Piper at (717) 334-6271 or Bonnie Hess at (717) 334-8553.



4-H Center Rebuilding

The winter of '93 left the Northampton County 4-H Center without a pole barn at the site on Bushkill Center Rd., Nazareth.

Now the 4-H community has decided to rebuild this building. The pole barn was and will be rebuilt as a 45 foot x 90 foot, enclosed on two sides, structure. It houses many animal science events and acts as a pavilion during non-animal events.

The 4-H Center is used by the 4-H clubs and the local community for various events throughout the year. It is open for general public usage from April to October. Some of the past events held at the site are the 4-H round-up, usually in early August, horse shows, dog clinics, chicken barbecues, various club activities, and meetings and family gatherings.

Anyone wishing to donate or pledge funds is welcome to send a check to The Northampton County 4-H Center Improvement Fund, 423 McKeever Lane, Northampton, PA 18067. If a receipt is needed, please request one.

For more information, call (610) 837-7294 or (610) 261-2219. For 4-H information, call Phyllis Laufer, Northampton County 4-H Coordinator, weekdays, 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., at (610) 746-1970.

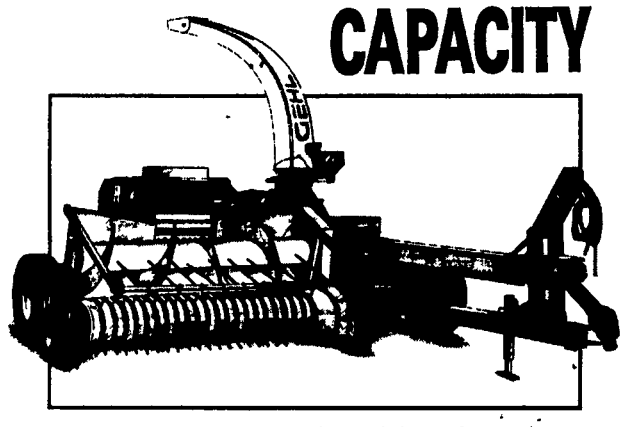
GEHL

UNMATCHED CAPACITY



Gehl forage harvesters get the job done faster with these performance features:

- Exclusive Auto-Max Load-Sensing System – Increase capacity by up to 20% Lets you operate at top capacity without the fear of downtime due to overloading.
- Metal-Stop Metal Detector – Prevents machine damage and hardware disease.
- In-head Hydraulic Knife Sharpener – Lets you sharpen knives in the field
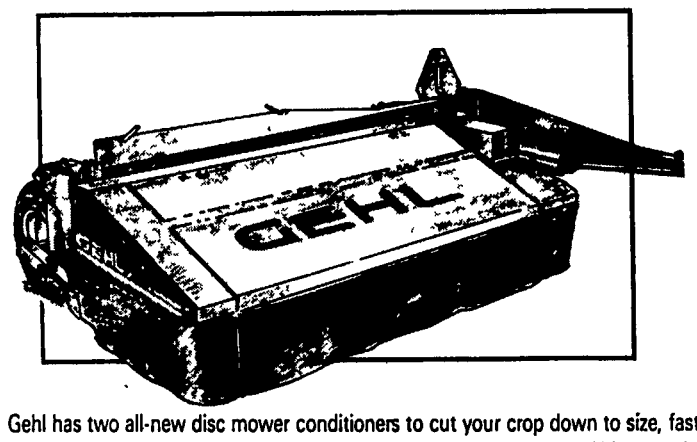
- Patented One-Sided Cutterbar Adjustment – Makes adjusting the cutterbar quick and easy.
- Three Models To Choose From – Including the largest capacity pull-type forage harvester on the market.

CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width.

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

WARNING!

DON'T THROW AWAY UP TO 45% OF YOUR HAY.

Losses occur when crops are stored--regardless of the storage method. Those losses are real--colorless, odorless and invisible--you can't see them, but they're there.

The air trapped within stored feed begins the fermentation process--and fermentation continues until all the air is consumed. The less air within the stored feed, the less loss.

Because bunker silos are not easily packed, losses in bunker silos range from 27% to 45%. If the feed is valued at $30 per ton, every 1000 tons stored in a bunker would suffer losses from $8,100 to $13,500. Tower silo losses range from 3% to 8%, or $900 to $2400 for every 1000 tons.

Those losses occur for every 1000 tons--every time feed is stored, year after year. Before investing in any storage method, consider the total costs--including fermentation loss.

Compare the various methods of feed storage. Contact the Crop Storage Institute for your free copy of "Methods of Crop Storage" and "Know the Facts."

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Linda Miller, Lancaster, would like to know what she can do to produce nice thick rhubarb stalks instead of pencil-thin ones.

QUESTION — Ruth Dundore would like the book with the following poems: Brier Rose, The Old Man Goes To School, The Station Agent's Store, and The Last Hymn. It was published about 1900.

QUESTION — Mrs. S. Carol, P.O. Box 344, Shiloh, N.J. 08353, would like some Amish penpals.

QUESTION — Mary Dengler, Middletown, Ohio, writes that both she and a friend need belts for their Singer treadle sewing machines. Does anyone know where the belts can be purchased?

QUESTION — Lovis Novatnak, 5 Russian Olive Dr., Etters, PA 17319 writes that his grandmother will soon have a 75th birthday. She used to can vegetables in jars called wax sealers. He would like to buy some to surprise her. Please call him at (717) 932-2616.

ANSWER — Mike Malinoski writes that his son has a collection of patches from the "Keep Pa. Beautiful," program that was started by the Dept. of Trans. in 1979. The patches were given to school children. Ryan needs four patches to complete his set. The patches he needs have the following wording on them: Department of Transportation, Beautification Conservation 1980 Award. Take Pride — Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful Day — Don't Litter; Beautification, Conservation Award. Please contact him at R.D.2, Box 194, Dillsburg, PA 17019. (717) 432-9086.

QUESTION — Maxine Tutton, Fort Royal, Va., would like the address for a mail order company that sells patterns for clothing that fits cement lawn geese that are so popular now.

QUESTION — Julia Rissler, Mohnton, would like Sue Barton books by Helen D. Boylston, especially Sue Barton, Superintendent of Nurses. Call (717) 484-0515, or write to Julia at 448 Orchard Rd., Mohnton, PA 19540.

QUESTION — Vickie Davidson, Shepherdstown, W.V., would like like a recipe to make homemade soap with fragrance oils and a source to purchase the oils.

QUESTION — Evan Weidman, Westfield, wants to know if there is a company that makes milk can coolers like those used before bulk tanks. Or, does someone have a used one for sale? Contact him at 174 Stevenson St., Westfield, PA 16950; (814) 267-2607.

QUESTION — Tiffany Marino, Ephrata, would like to know how to remove paint from clothing. Is it possible to remove if the fabric has been washed?

QUESTION — Florence Fisher, Etters, would like to know what to do to keep pigeons off a tin roof.

QUESTION — Anna Grace Moore, Cochranville, would like to know how to make crafts with Christmas or birthday cards.

QUESTION — Walter Lee, Elkton, would like to know where to purchase a hair clipper with metal guides or gauges. He writes that every time he uses the ones he has, the plastic grip that holds the guide on the razor breaks. It gets rather expensive to purchase sets of guides so often.

QUESTION — Carol Brown, Halifax, would like to know where to purchase patterns to make things out of safety pins and beads. She especially would like patterns for an angel and snowman about 10 inches high.

FFA HAPPENINGS

FFA Holds Banquet

On March 31, the Penns Valley FFA Chapter held its annual banquet.

Terry Styers presented the Senior Scholarship Award to Ted Clouser, and the Junior Scholarship Award to Justin Homan. High school principal Al D'Ambrosia presented the John W. Decker Award to Ted Clouser. The Special Citations Award from Ruth C. Rudy's office was presented to Jamie Burns, Ted Clouser, and Dan Musser.

Jim Smith, of Dunkle and Grieb, Inc., presented the Ag Mechanics Award to Tim Johnson. The Ag Mechanics Award is sponsored by Dunkle and Grieb, Inc., and the recipient receives a savings bond.

Brooks Way, of Way Fruit Farm, sponsored Nate Wolfe and presented him with a check for being high salesman of fruit baskets in the annual FFA citrus sale.

Ted Clouser presented a speach and the senior class presented Joy Leitch with the Honorary Member Award. Leitch was given a speech in her honor and was presented a plaque for her outstanding service to the Penns Valley FFA. Leitch's name will also be placed on the awards board and put into the permanent records of the Penns Valley FFA. Leitch is a secretary in the Penns Valley High School main office.

Randy Benner presented the Senior Leadership Award to Ted Clouser. The Senior Leadership award goes to the senior who shows the most leadership in school and the community. The award is sponsored by the Centre Hall Farm Store.

John V. Ishler presented the Outstanding Dairy Award to Ron Hough. The award is sponsored by Ideal Holsteins, Jacob and Sally Tanis, and presented to the FFA member who establishes the best dairy project.

Harry Ward presented a check from the Penns Valley FFA chapter to Ted Clouser for the Agricultural Communications Award, which goes to the ag student who shows the best speaking and English skills.

Dan Musser received the Star Agribusinessman Award and the Dekalb Award. The Agribusinessman Award goes to the student who had the best work experience project. The Dekalb Award is presented to the student who exhibited the best cooperation and skills in the FFA.

This year's keystone degree winners were Jamie Burns, Ted Clouser, and Dan Musser.

During the awards program Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees were presented. These degrees go to first-, second-, and third-year FFA members, respectively. Foundation awards were presented to students who conducted excellent projects and kept accurate records of all transactions.

The retiring officer awards were presented to all the retiring 1993-1994 officers. Seniors received a plaque and all underclassmen received a pin. Plaque award winners were Ted Clouser, retiring president; Dan Musser, retiring reporter; Tim Johnson, retiring sentinel; and Adam Weaver, retiring vice president. Pin award winners were Justin Homan, retiring treasurer; Nate Wolfe, retiring secretary; and Geoffrey Fredd, retiring chaplain.

Leadership Conference

Three members of Lancaste. Mennonite High school's Hans Herr FFA recently attended the State Legislative Leadership Conference held in Harrisburg.

The three juniors are Randy Brubaker, son of Robert and Lois Brubaker, Manheim; Kurt Hershey, son of Glenn and Velma Hershey, Kinzers; and Gary Landis, son of Earl and Evelyn Landis, Manheim. The students participated in the legislative simulation in which actual government bills were discussed, amended and acted on by the FFA members.

Conference highlights included a legislative breakfast where FFA members spent time socializing with their Pennsylvania state senators and house representatives. The visit also included a guided tour of the state capitol and visits to Milton Hershey School, Milton S. Hershey Founder's Hall, and The Hershey Zoo and Chocolate Factory.

QUESTION — Alverna Martin, Wellsboro, would like the book "All Around America," printed by Scott/Forseman Co. in 1956. Alverna's fourth grade teacher gave her a book to keep 29 years ago. The book has been so well-liked by her seven children that it is no longer whole. Please contact her at R.D. 6, Box 174, Wellsboro, PA 16901.

QUESTION — George Rousis, Bally, hopes to move to the Midwest or Montana in a few years. He'd like to know how to find out weather temperature highs and lows, rainfall, and snowfall for the individual states during the past 10 years.

QUESTION — Helen Mill, Navajo Rd., Box 270 Indian Orchard, Honesdale, PA 18431, would like to purchase the new or used book, "Rollin' Thunder."

QUESTION — Conny Riggliman, Warriors Mark, would like to know how to make feather trees from goose feathers.

QUESTION — A faithful New York reader wanted a wholesale source for goose feathers to use to make old-fashioned feather Christmas trees.

QUESTION — Jenny Palovitch of Lancaster County would like to purchase a wrought iron bench that wraps around a tree. It may be new or used.

QUESTION — Several years ago, Harold R. Stoudt of Hamburg purchased aluminum-clad electric fence wire by direct shipment from South Star Industries in Tenn. The dealer discontinued his business. Does anyone know of the company or one that sells similar high quality aluminum clad maleable steel wire? It did not recoil when unspooled and could be hand spliced.

QUESTION — A Lehighton reader would like to know the market price for goose and duck eggs.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., wants to know where to purchase flaked hominy. She writes that a company called Pleezing used to sell it. She has inquired about this product for years and hasn't been able to find out if it was removed from the market, and, if so, why?

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, is looking for a wire jig that can be used for making patterns in any shape and size by bending the wire.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like paper puzzles that were sometimes given away by the John Deere tractor franchises. The puzzles were made either out of thin cardboard or thick paper. The puzzle pieces were packaged inside a letter-sized envelope with instructions to solve the puzzle printed on the outside of the envelope.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like to know where to purchase gift boxes for jellies and breads. Candy boxes are too small.

QUESTION — Blanche Hertzler, Mt. Wolf, would like to purchase some old readers used in public school in the 1930s. She wants the third through sixth reader of the Baldwin and Bender series, copyrighted 1911 by American Book Company. She has the second reader. One of the readers has the poem "Taming the Colt," which she wants.

QUESTION — Edgar Jackson, Ligonier, would like to know how to puff wheat, rice, and corn for making cereal.

ANSWER — Karl Urban, Liberty, wanted to know where parts for Rayo and Aladdin lamps may be purchased. Thanks to John Los, who writes that he has parts to several models that he would like to get rid of. Contact him after dark, at (717) 741-0274. Thanks to Clay Noffsinger Jr., Thurmont, Md., who wrote that the parts are available from the Amish store Lehman's, 1 Lehman Circle, P.O. Box 41, Kidron, Ohio 44636-0041. Send $2 for the catalogue.

ANSWER — Dennis Hamm, Bernville, wanted to know where to buy smaller black iron kettles than what are commonly known as butcher kettles. Thanks to Clay Noffsinger Jr., Thurmont, Md., who wrote that the kettles are available from Lehman's, 1 Lehman Circle, P.O. Box 41, Kidron, Ohio 44636-0041. Send $2 for the catalogue.

ANSWER — Ron Kieffer, Hamburg, has a 1949 Ford 8-N Tractor that "vapor-locks," when it gets warm. He wanted to know how to prevent this from occurring? Thanks to George A. Love, Watsontown, for writing: Take a wooden clothes pin and snap it onto the gas line between the fuel pump and carburetor. Use more than one clothes pin if needed. George isn't sure how this works, but he thinks it draws the heat from the motor out of the line.

ANSWER — John Haritan, Branchville, N.J., wanted to know how to mix a liniment for sprains and bruises with these ingredients: Tr. arnica, witch hazel, alcohol, and wintergreen. Lisa Collura wrote that he should try emu oil. Call her at (717) 284-5249 for more information. If someone has the information he requested, please mail it.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted seeds for goose gourds, here are several people to contact who are willing to sell or give seed if you send them a self-addressed stamped envelope. Nellie Strite, 11337 Ashton Rd., Clear Spring, Md.; Roy Brandt, 949 Indian Marker Rd., Millersville, PA 17551. Janet Spangler, 7033 Carlisle Pike, York Springs, PA 17372.

ANSWER — Janice Oblen, Garfield, N.J., wanted the name of a supplier for bushel and peck baskets in various sizes to pack fruits and vegetables. Thanks to several readers who sent information directly to her.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know where to purchase extra strong flat webbing for lawn chairs. Thanks to a reader from East Belin, who writes that she used a product called Better Bottoms to reweave aluminum chairs several years ago and it is still as good as new. It holds her husband who weights more than 200 pounds. The product is available after May in K-Mart stores, or ask for it at hardware stores or order it from Phiefer Wire Products, P.O. Box 1700, Tuscaloosa, AL 35403.

ANSWER — Ann Musachio, Ridgely, Md., wanted to know where to obtain a dough hook for a 7-quart Blakeslee electric mixer. Thanks to a reader who writes that it is available from Elmer Schultz Services, Inc., 540 N. Third St., Philadelphia, PA 19123 or phone (215) 627-5400.

The power of choice. Match a 7200 or 7400 Tractor with one of four 700 Series Loaders to lighten your workload. Choose a 720, 725, 740 SL, or 740 STD Loader with lift capacities from 3,479 to 3,965 pounds.

power-sapping PTO work and heavy-draft conditions. So you avoid wasteful downshifting on hills with balers, and in heavy tillage work.

Choose from two transmissions for the speeds you need. The 12-speed SyncroPlus™ transmission (standard) gives you on-the-go shifting efficiency, and in-line shuttle-shifting to speed loader chores. The optional 16-speed PowrQuad™ features four powershift gears in each of four ranges, plus the ultimate bonus for your loader work – effortless, no-clutch shuttle-shifting forward to reverse.

See your John Deere dealer and experience all that you can do with a 7200 or 7400 Tractor.

Limousin Show, Congress Heads To Kansas

ENGLEWOOD, Colo.— Wichita, Kansas will be the place to be for Limousin excitement July 9-16 where the Limi Drive of '95 National Junior Limousin Show and Congress promises to be the premier Limousin event of the summer.

"This is the one week of the year when we bring together the young people of the breed with Limousin enthusiasts from across the nation," said George Hubbard, North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) director of marketing, shows, and junior activities.

In addition to the annual National Heifer Show, juniors have the opportunity to display their cattle in the bred and owned female and bull show and the Limousin steer show. For the second year, judges in the National Heifer Show and bred and owned show will be given expected progeny differences (EPDs) on the cattle being shown.

Steve Reimer, Chamberlain, S.D. will judge the National Heifer Show while Joel Cowley of College Station, Texas will serve as associate judge. Cowley will also judge the steer show. The official placings in the bred and owned show will be made by Neal Thompson of Springfield, Mo.

Outside the show ring, juniors will demonstrate their skills in cattle judging, public speaking, extemporaneous speaking, and sales talk competitions. Juniors will test their knowledge of the beef industry and Limousin when states join together for the quiz bowl competition. The excitement continues to sizzle when Limousin juniors and producers team up for the third annual Limousin Beef Cook-Off.

Juniors can get a feel for the rapidly changing beef industry by taking part in the first-ever Gate to Plate Industry Insights and Carcass Evaluation. The workshop presented by Dr. John Edwards, NALF executive vice president, will provide a unique opportunity for participants to evaluate carcasses and live cattle. The evaluation will be a catalyst for discussion about the various industry segments and their relationship to one another.

"The National Show gives juniors the opportunity to come together for educational events and to learn about industry issues," said Hubbard. "These young people are the future of the breed and the beef industry."

The event is sponsored by the North American Limousin Junior Association. For more information, contact Hubbard at the NALF office at (303) 220-1693.

Bay Program Tops Million Dollar Mark

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — At their April board of directors' meeting, the Adams County Conservation District approved Chesapeake Bay Contracts for three local farmers. With this approval, the amount of money allocated to Adams County farmers through the Chesapeake Bay Program has topped $1 million.

The Chesapeake Bay Program, which is administered locally by the Adams County Conservation District, is a state and federally funded program whose purpose is to assist farmers in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed both financially and technically in improving local water quality as well as that of the Chesapeake Bay.

At the local level, the conservation district and the Gettysburg field office of the USDA Natural Resources and Conservation Service work with Adams County farmers who voluntarily seek assistance on how to prevent the pollution of our local waterways by their operation. Best management practices (BMP) such as terraces, waterways, diversions, contour strips, barnyard runoff control and manure storages are all examples of things farmers do in order to prevent excess nutrients and sediment from entering creeks and streams.

However, quite often the costs for such practices outweigh the profits gained from increased production. Recognizing this fact, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources (DER) initiated the Chesapeake Bay Program to provide financial and technical assistance to the agricultural community to promote the implementation of these BMPs from which we all benefit. The program is open to all farmers located within the Chesapeake Bay Watershed which includes all of Adams County.

The Adams County Conservation District has been administering the program here since 1985. To date, 63 farmers in Adams County have taken part in the program with $1,027,967 allocated for the installation of BMPs.

The conservation district will continue to receive new allocations from DER twice per year. Any farmers in Adams County interested in the program can contact the Conservation District at (717) 334-0636 for more information.

DPI Fund Drive Successful

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the nonprofit trade association working for the continued progress of Delmarva's poultry industry, exceeded its 1995 Fund Drive goal with cash and pledges totaling $497,040.

That news was announced by Fund Drive Chairman Dr. Spangler Klopp at the April 25 Delmarva Poultry Booster Banquet in Salisbury, Md.

Klopp told the nearly 2,000 DPI supporters his job was made easy due to the dedicated team of fund drive volunteers, loyal members who have supported DPI over the years, and new members who recognize the important work done by DPI.

The annual fund drive is DPI's means of raising money to support its many services and programs. DPI's member ship consists of nearly 4,000 individuals and companies, including poultry growers, allied industry suppliers of products and services, Delmarva's seven poultry companies, poultry company employees, and hundreds of non-poultry businesses on Delmarva which recognize the economic importance of the industry to this area.

The booster banquet was also the occasion at which DPI presented awards to Delmarva's outstanding poultry growers and to three individuals who have made significant contributions to the poultry industry.

The DPI Medal of Achievement, awarded annually to a public servant of an agency or an organization for outstanding achievement and service on behalf of the poultry industry, was presented to Dr. Edward T. Mallinson, extension poultry veterinarian, Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, University of Maryland at College Park. During his long and distinguished career with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the University of Maryland, Mallinson has been the author of countless articles, books, chapters in books, and other university publications. He has spoken to scores of audiences about poultry health issues. He is one of the leaders in the United States in poultry disease prevention and biosecurity programs.

Delmarva's Distinguished Citizen Award, given in recognition of a person's work on behalf of DPI, the poultry industry, and the community, was presented to Donald J. Lynch of Selbyville, Del. Lynch, a long-time member of the DPI board of directors, served as DPI president in 1989. He is a member of DPI's Poultry Health Committee and has been an active fund drive volunteer. He has been involved with Delmarva's poultry industry all his working life and was the founder of a local vaccine manufacturing company. He is a former member of the Delaware General Assembly, Indian River Board of Education, and the Fenwick Island town council. He served as secretary of the Delaware Department of Agriculture in the 1980s. Lynch is a member of the University of Delaware board of trustees and the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Special recognition was awarded to the late Edgar M. Morris of Parsonsburg, Md., a long-time DPI director and grower committee member. Morris was honored for his leadership in representing growers on the DPI board of directors and DPI Grower Committee.

Other banquet honorees included 19 poultry growers selected by their companies as outstanding producers for 1995. They were presented silver Revere bowls by DPI President Douglas K. Marvil and Grower Committee chairman Kay R. Richardson. Receiving the awards were, from Delaware: B & D Egg Ranch, Seaford; Bruce & Pat Clark, Kenton; Paul & Diane Holston, Millsboro; Mike Hudson, Frankford; James & Doris Larimore, Harrington; R. Dale & Evelyn Short, Frankford; Ronald & Audrey Tyndall, Seaford; and William & Janice Vickers, Millsboro. From Maryland: Howard & Barbara Bishop, Berlin; Paul & Doris Brittingham, Parsonsburg; Maynard & Mary Hostetler, Snow Hill; Vivian C. & M. Forest Fire Season Heats Up

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—Forest fires riveted the attention of the nation last summer as wildfires ravaged huge sections of the western United States and killed 14 firefighters on Colorado's Storm King Mountain. For Pennsylvanians, however, the danger of fires is greatest in spring and fall, according to a Penn State forest fire expert.

"The conditions in the West are much drier in the summer, making it very easy to ignite the forest," said Todd Bowersox, professor of silviculture in the College of Agricultural Sciences. "In eastern forests, frequent rains and higher humidity keep the grass and trees from drying out."

Bowersox says that March, April, and May are the prime spring fire months, although the fire season varies across the state. "The southern part of the state will have an earlier fire season than the northern section," Bowersox said.

In spring, the days become longer and warmer, and as the snow melts, last fall's leaves and dead vegetation are revealed to the sun. The vegetation dries out as temperatures rise, usually aided by spring winds, which can be very strong and dry.

"Spring fires usually burn better and cover larger areas than fall fires," Bowersox said. "Under extreme drought conditions with high winds, we can get fires just as severe as those in the West."

The fall fire season is relatively short—from October to November—and Bowersox explains that fall fire risk is most severe after a very hot, dry summer. Following a wet summer, the forest leaves will not dry out enough to pose a severe threat.

"Most of the leaves drop from the trees by early November and the grass, ferns and other herbaceous plants usually will die after the first killing frost," Bowersox said. "As the fallen leaves and herbaceous vegetation dry out, the forest fills with a fuel that can burn."

For the most part, however, Pennsylvania fires primarily burn surface vegetation which results in flame heights of less than 10 feet. Such fires are easier to control and do not spread as easily.

Bowersox points out the key difference between Pennsylvania and western fires is that nine out of 10 Pennsylvania fires are started by people. Many western fires are started by lightning strikes. "Pennsylvania really has the opportunity to control the number of fires each year," he said. "You should be able to control people better than you can control lightning."

The majority of fires started by people are ignited by burning trash and debris or by arson, Bowersox says. Such fires frequently start in rural areas, spreading from the backyard, through dead grass and weeds, into bordering woodlands.

"There is something about burning that fascinates people," Bowersox said. "Even if an area has garbage collection service, people will be out burning. They just like to play with fire."

Because national fire-prevention ad campaigns are geared toward summer, most Pennsylvanians are not reminded about fire safety during peak fire seasons.

Early in the morning or late in the evening on cool, moist days are the best times to burn debris. Bowersox emphasizes that most forest fires can be prevented by burning debris in a safe container (such as a burning barrel) with a fire screen.

"People burning with safe containers are definitely in the minority," Bowersox said.

Emu Association Plans Zone Start-Up

MILLVILLE (Columbia Co.) — The Pennsylvania Emu Farmers' Association (PEFA) is proud to announce the start-up of two zones within the state.

Organizationally, the state has been divided into eight zones so that members may hold local meetings and work with local agricultural entities in educating the public regarding emu farming. Emu farming is one of the fastest-growing agricultural industries in the U.S.

Zone 2, which includes the counties of Tioga, Bradford, Lycoming, Sullivan, Columbia, Union, Montour, Snyder and Northumberland, held its first meeting April 8 at Skyline Acres Emu Farm, owned by Keith Solomon, near Millville. Preliminary plans were made regarding attending agricultural fairs, officers were elected, and future meetings scheduled. Zone 2's next meeting is scheduled for May 7 at Rolling Valley Emu, owned by Arlen Landis, Troy.

Zone 7, which includes the counties of Perry, Dauphin, Lebanon, Cumberland, Franklin, Adams, York and Lancaster, held its first meeting April 29 at College Fund Emu Farm, owned by Carol and Pete Heth, Columbia. Agricultural fair attendance was discussed, as well as regularly scheduled monthly meeting plans. Zone 7's next meeting is scheduled for June 7 at Country Creek Farms, Marysville.

In only four months, the Pennsylvania Emu Farmers' Association has grown to 71 members statewide, and continues to grow. For information regarding emu farming, write to PEFA, P.O. Box 479, Millville, PA 17846, (717) 437-9185.

Co-Op To Lease, Operate Processors Plant

AUSTIN, Texas — Emu Prime Processors, Inc. (EPP) of Austin and Emu Marketing Unlimited (E.M.U.) of Temple jointly announced an agreement in which E.M.U. will lease and operate EPP's 5,000-square-foot, processing and packaging plant in nearby Rosebud, effective May 1. Contract terms were not disclosed.

The Central Texas plant, 20 miles east of Temple, became the nation's first, full-service emu processing and marketing operation in February and is already supplying heart-healthy Emu Prime™ filets and ground meat to Rice Epicurean Markets in Houston and to Whole Foods Markets in Austin. It operates under state inspection regulations until the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture issues inspection standards.

"E.M.U. will assume all operational responsibility for the plant, but will continue to process EPP birds for a fee," said Jack Ledbetter, chief executive officer of EPP. "This will permit EPP to accelerate its efforts on marketing the products — meat, oil, leather, feathers — nationally and internationally. We are reviewing EPP's bird acquisition program (120-day voucher) to determine what changes, if any, will need to be made."

Bobby Ricks, treasurer of the two-year-old, 700-member national marketing cooperative association, said co-op members control about 12,000 breeding pairs of birds. A pair generally produces about 25 chicks a year. Ricks, who functions as CEO of E.M.U. and will act as plant manager, stated:

"In May, E.M.U. will relocate its headquarters to a new building at the plant site to expedite direct supervision. We expect to have 10 full-time employees within 60 days, retaining most of the current personnel.

"E.M.U. has contracts to humanely process up to 10,000 or more American emus by the end of the year, in addition to processing birds for EPP customers. By contrast to EPP, the co-op will target five-star restaurants in its initial efforts to market the low calorie, 97 percent fat-free red meat," Ricks said.

The emu, which is 95 percent consumable, has attracted such fans as Carl Walker, executive chef at Brennan's Restaurant, Houston, and is now available in about 45 restaurants nationwide, including the five-star Mansion on Turtle Creek and the Beau Nash Restaurant, both in Dallas.

International fashion designer Donna Karan uses emu oil in her skin care products. Trainers for all the National Basketball Association teams and many of the National Football Association teams treat players' stiffness, bruises and strains with the deep-penetrating, hypo-allergenic oil. High fashion garments and leather accessories are made with the supple, fully-quilled hides. Even the emu feathers are being bought for commercial and decorative uses.

"This is a dynamic development for the emu industry, which now totals an estimated 10,000 U.S. ranchers and one million-plus birds" (SMU Census, July, 1994)," Ledbetter said. "The first on-line processing plant will now be operated by the largest and most forward-thinking cooperative to accelerate the industry's entry into the commercial phase."

Emu Prime Processors will consolidate its offices in Austin.

ASA President Testifies On Farm Bill

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—John McClendon, president of the American Soybean Association (ASA) and farmer from Marianna, Ark., testified before the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry to present the views of the 28,000 member organization on issues pertaining to the 1995 Farm Bill.

McClendon explained that the U.S. soybean industry that prospered during the 1960s and 1970s has declined as a result of extensive government intervention in U.S. and international oilseed policy.

McClendon cited export embargoes, unfair trade practices, and unbalanced farm programs as factors that have taken a toll on soybean acreage and soybean farmer income. McClendon state emphatically that soybean farmers are not looking for a handout. Rather, ASA is asking Congress and the Administration to remove domestic as well as foreign barriers to enhance international competitiveness, and fully support export programs that allow U.S. producers to earn greater marketplace return.

"Soybean growers strongly support policies that will maintain and enhance the competitiveness of soybeans in domestic and world markets," McClendon told the committee. Growers in the United States raise approximately $12 billion of soybeans annually, with more than 40 percent of the soybeans produced being exported to foreign markets, ranking soybeans and soybean products first among agricultural commodities in terms of value contributed to our nation's balance of international trade. The domestic farm program provides no income support and little price support to U.S. soybean producers. "With only a market-clearing loan, soybean growers are more concerned about the impact which other farm programs can have on our competitiveness and profitability," McClendon said.

"One major concern is that the Normal Flex Acres (NFA) program established in the 1990 Farm Bill is disadvantaging soybean growers. The impact of soybean (flex) acres on soybean prices and soybean farmer income is significant. Based on analysis by the Food and Agriculture Policy Research Institute, ASA projects the cost to soybean growers of a 25 percent NFA program at between 33 and 51 cents per bushels," McClendon told the committee. Based on the size of last year's crop, this would reduce U.S. soybean farm income by $1 billion annually.

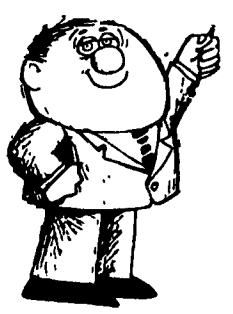
"ASA does not intend to oppose the Normal Flex Acres (NFA) program, but would propose that this kind of one-way flex be expanded by allowing producers to overplant program crops on historical soybean acres and other non-program cropland without penalty. Two-way planting flexibility would mitigate surges in soybean production and reduce the unfair impact of the current program on soybean producer income, McClendon told the Committee.

ASA favors terminating any set-aside requirements for a program crop when the program crop is harvested. In areas where double-cropping is feasible, this will allow producers to plant soybeans on former set-aside acres.

He also said that ASA supports increasing the soybean marketing loan rate to a level that is competitive with supports for program crops.

McClendon said, "ASA strongly opposes disproportionate cuts in agriculture spending in the Federal budget. ASA supports Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) extension to meet the principal goals of reducing soil erosion, improving water quality, and protecting wildlife habitat. ASA is not opposed to proposals to achieve environmental objectives through voluntary compliance."

Asgrow Seed Company Administration Moves



KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Asgrow Seed Company administrative personnel recently completed a move to new offices in Kalamazoo.

The move came about after the November 1994 sale of Asgrow from The Upjohn Company to Empresas La Moderna (ELM), a global agribusiness company based in Monterrey, Mexico.

"We moved offices, but it caused very little disturbance in our business operations," said Asgrow President Norm Braksick. "The main result of the move is that we're now physically separated from our previous corporate parent. Current Asgrow dealers, agents and customers should not be affected by this move."

The Asgrow worldwide research stations, distribution centers, and sales force remain in their same locations.

Personnel from Asgrow corporate administration and the worldwide agronomic and vegetable businesses are housed at the new office, located at 2605 E. Kilgore Road, Kalamazoo, MI 49002. The new phone number is (616) 384-5500 or (800) 465-0131.

Kurt Lindenbaum, Ciba Seeds soybean breeder, inspects a test location of Roundup Ready® soybeans. According to Lindenbaum, "Initial results from the Ciba Seeds Roundup program have shown excellent resistance to the herbicide without penalizing yields or overall performance."

Ciba Tests Roundup Ready Soybeans

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — Ciba Seeds announces its plans to market Roundup Ready® soybeans for the 1996 planting season, pending label approval by the EPA.

Ciba Seeds is in the third year of field testing soybean varieties with resistance to Roundup® herbicide. Testing is being conducted under an experimental use permit (EUP) from the Environmental Protection Agency.

"It is our understanding that Ciba Seeds is one of only three companies which have commercial agreements to actually market Roundup Ready® soybeans in 1996," said Gordon Johnson, Ciba Seeds product manager. "The extensive testing programs conducted prior to introducing new varieties to our customers is part of Ciba's commitment to assuring that we provide the right products with outstanding performance in all categories."

Herbicide resistance in soybeans is an important addition to the options available to farmers as tillage and soil conservation practices evolve, and help to allow growers to comply with more stringent water quality standards. Ciba, known worldwide as a leader in crop research and biotechnology, is testing five new soybean varieties with the Roundup Ready® gene, ranging from late Group 1 to mid Group 3. Additional varieties will be added in future years to expand options for growers

Restructuring Prompts Company-Wide Change

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Having recently restructured its feed manufacturing, pork production and ProGenetics divisions, White Oak Mills, Inc. has announced its three new pork production management team members.

White Oak Mills Veterinarian Monica Daniel of Lititz, now leads the company's pork production division. Responsible for the development and implementation of vaccination protocols, routine serologic profiles and regulatory blood work to monitor and maintain animal health, Daniel also completes diagnostic work-ups for various units in the company's in-house laboratory. In addition, she services the company's sow units and off-site nurseries, checking health status and analyzing productivity. Supervising all farm managers as well as developing effective farm manager production teams, she joined White Oak Mills in November 1994.

Daniel, having studied animal science at Virginia Tech for three years as an undergraduate and having earned a doctorate of veterinary medicine from Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) and American Association of Swine Practitioners (AASP).

Prior to joining White Oak Mills, she was employed as a mixed animal practitioner at Big Valley Animal Hospital in Reedsville.

With more than 15 years of pork production experience, Scott Hoffer of Newburg assumes responsibility for all sow production within the company's pork production division. Hoffer's new duties include regularly servicing the company's sow facilities to monitor and assist with production and to maintain efficiency. Furthermore, he manages White Oak Mills' 1,600-sow farrow-to-wean Genesis Swine Breeders unit, located in Carlisle. Supervising three personnel, implementing a weekly breeding program and sustaining herd health, Hoffer oversees all daily unit operations. He has been employed at White Oak Mills for the past five years.

Prior to joining White Oak Mills, Hoffer studied business management at Pennsylvania State University, the Fayette campus, for one year and co-owned a 200-sow farrowing unit and butcher shop. Until 1994, he served as a Lebanon County 4-H leader.

Swine Specialist Robert Mikesell of Port Royal directs the company's ProGenetics division. Responsible for integrating European, American and Canadian genetics and developing various genetic lines at the ProGenetics testing and nucleus facilities, Mikesell regularly tests the animals using an ultrasound machine, analyzes the data, and selects genetically superior, healthy, sound animals. In addition, he continues to service ProGenetics gilt barns and finishing facilities.

Mikesell earned a bachelor of science degree in animal production and a master of science degree in animal science at Pennsylvania State University. He serves as the director of the Penn State Stockmen's club and a member of the Pennsylvania Livestock and American Maine-Anjou associations.

Employed with Vigortone Ag Products as an area sales manager from 1988-1989, he joined White Oak Mills three years ago.

Agco To Acquire AgEquipment Group Assets

ATLANTA, Ga.—Agco Corporation (NYSE—AG) announced that it has agreed to acquire the assets of AgEquipment Group, a manufacturer and distributor of three major brands of agricultural implements, including no-till and minimum tillage products.

Under the agreement, which is subject to regulatory approval, Agco will acquire certain assets of AgEquipment Group, including accounts receivable, inventories, trademarks and tradenames, together with trade payables and certain accrued liabilities.

AgEquipment Group manufactures and sells a full line of grain drills and accessories under the Tye brand name. Tye is an industry leader in no-till and minimum tillage seeding practices, which are continuing to gain acceptance as conservation influences in the agricultural industry grow.

AgEquipment Group also manufactures and sells lines of grinder-mixers, mulchers, and loaders under the Farmhand brand name and a line of field cultivation products under the Glencoe brand name.

AgEquipment Group had net sales in its fiscal year ended August 31, 1994 of approximately $33.0 million. The acquisition will add approximately 1,200 new dealers to the Agco distribution network.

Northrup King To Evaluate Bt Corn Performance

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn.—Northrup King Co. has received and Experimental Use Permit (EUP) from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to conduct extensive research this season on corn developed through biotechnology to resist the European corn borer.

These advanced research trials represent the final steps in the Bt corn hybrid development process and set the stage for Northrup King to be among the first companies to bring Bt corn to the market.

The research will be conducted at up to 500 plots in cooperating farmers' fields and at company research locations throughout the U.S.

According to Kent Schulze, president/CEO of Northrup King, the magnitude of this year's trials will enable the company to evaluate Bt corn hybrids over a wide range of geographies and growing conditions.

"In recent years, Northrup King has made an unprecedented commitment to corn research and development," he said. "Our Bt corn hybrids are specifically developed to provide timely, effective, and economical control of European corn borers, in order to produce more grain at harvest for growers experiencing corn borer pressure."

This season's trials expand infield research initiated by Northrup King in 1992 to evaluate the performance of corn plants developed through biotechnology to resist the European corn borer. The plants contain a gene from Bacillus thruingiensis, commonly known as Bt, a naturally occuring soil bacterium. The gene causes the plant to produce a protein in its leaves which controls European corn borers, but is harmless to beneficial insects and other species, including humans.

In 1995, Northrup King is putting Bt corn hybrids through many of the same research trials that conventional experimental hyrbrids go through. In addition to evaluating resistance characterisitics, this year's Northrup King Bt corn trials will provide essential information about hybrid emergence, seed size and quality, yield, and other performance characteristics

Cyanamid Appoints Public Affairs Manager

WAYNE, N.J.—American Cyanamid has named Patricia A. Fiaschetti, manager, public affairs of the agricultural products group. In this position, she will have responsibility for agricultural products' worldwide public affairs activities.

Fiaschetti joined the company in 1992 as manager, public relations in the Lederle Laboratories division and most recently held the position of manager, public relations with the Lederle-Praxis biologicals division.

A graduate of the Newhouse School of Public Communications, Syracuse University, Fiaschetti holds a master's degree in public relations as well as a bachelor's degree in English from Siena College.

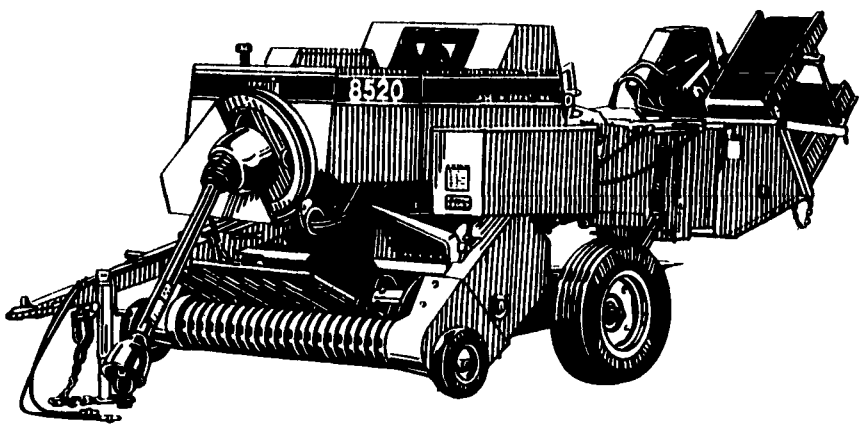
OUTSTANDING BALER PERFORMANCE MEANS GREATER NUTRITION AT AN ECONOMICAL PRICE



Case International 8520/8530 Rectangular Balers

These two balers both feature the Case IH center line design. Eliminates turning corners with the crop to get it into the bale chamber, as is common with conventional designs. This saves valuable protein-rich leaves. Also saves time because you don't have to change from field to road position for transport.

Other outstanding features are:

- Low-profile baler design provides excellent visibility to the rear of the baler.
- Low-profile pickup... reduces crop lifting height, saving nutritious leaves
- Hay goes straight into the unique prepacker chamber... regardless of windrow size... for uniform flake and bale density

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING STILL ESSENTIAL TO KEEP ODORS AND FLIES AWAY FROM POULTRY OPERATIONS

Jeannie Leggett
Project Associate
Ag. & Bio. Engr.

The influx of non-agricultural residents into rural areas can create nuisances.

Nuisance complaints concerning odors and flies are on the rise. Experts in the fields of odor and fly control addressed these issues at a recent conference held at the University of Florida.

Although they concluded that good housekeeping is still your best defense against odors and flies, they also suggested a few other strategies. Flies are attracted to odors and, in general, strategies to control odors will also control flies.

Sources of odor include the animal housing facility, manure storage and spreading, improper handling of mortalities, and decaying organic matter such as spilled feed.

Manure storage. Keeping manure dry is the most important step to control odors. In layer houses, check frequently for leaks in the drinking supply and from the outside into the pit. Good ventilation in the pit, possibly enhanced by circulation fans within the pit, will help keep manure dry. Using covered storage or plastic covers can help keep stored litter from floor houses dry.

Manure spreading. Spread manure thinly on a dry, windy day and incorporate soon after spreading. Clumps of manure will remain moist, increasing the chances for a fly hatch and odor production. Don't apply manure at times when your neighbors are likely to be outside.

Composting manure and mortalities. Composted material is a good soil conditioner, has an earthy smell, and will not be offensive when spread. However, improper composting by using the wrong "recipe," allowing the pile to get too wet, or not turning the pile will create odors. Add enough carbon (that is, sawdust) to composting carcasses to reduce ammonia loss and odor.

Mortality handling. Bird carcasses should be disposed of promptly and properly. When disposing of mortalities off the farm, arrange for daily pickup and use suitable storage methods to control odors when necessary.

Organic matter. Spilled feed that gets wet will decay, produce odors, and provide prime fly breeding sites. Clean up spilled feed regularly and pay attention to hard-to-reach areas. Even small leaks in feed augers or bins can result in large spills over time.

When handling manure as a liquid, some of the above steps won't apply. Beyond good housekeeping and daily removal of manure, few proven methods will control odor production in liquid manure systems. However, several odor control options are available.

Aerobic treatment. Supplying oxygen to liquid manure will inhibit odor production. Historically, this method has been prohibitively expensive because of equipment and energy costs.

Anaerobic treatment. Manure can be routed through an anaerobic digester to produce biogas and a low-odor effluent. The effluent can be spread with much less odor than stored, liquid manure. Biogas can be sold or used on the farm to offset the initial system cost, which is generally very expensive. Special handling must be used to remove grit prior to digestion.

Covered liquid manure storage. Manure storages can be sealed to prevent the transport of odors by wind. A pipe will be necessary to vent gases, but a smaller amount of gas will be emitted from a pipe than from the surface of a large storage tank.

A permeable cover which acts like a biofilter is under development at Oregon State University. It resembles a burlap tarp and is placed over the storage tank. Natural permeable covers such as a floating crust of manure or a layer of straw or hay will filter odors; however, flies love to breed in wet straw and crusted manure.

In addition to the above measures, there are many products on the market which claim to mask, neutralize, or chemically or biologically alter odors. Many of these products are expensive and require frequent dosages with variable effectiveness.

Research is under way at North Carolina State University to evaluate the effectiveness of various odor control additives. One additive, a yucca-plant extract, has been effective at reducing ammonia emissions from storage pits.

Treatment lagoons are often used to break down the solids in liquid manure and reduce odor. These work well in warm climates when they are properly designed and loaded. However, lagoon systems are generally ineffective in cooler climates such as Pennsylvania and an ineffective lagoon can produce obnoxious odors.

Good housekeeping, good common sense, and being a good neighbor are all essential in areas where poultry houses and residential houses are neighbors.

Case Reports Strong First Quarter

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation announced operating earnings for the first quarter of 1995 of $107 million, compared with $68 million in the first quarter of 1994. Case has now recorded 13 consecutive quarters of substantial year-over-year improvement in operating results.

The company's 1995 first-quarter net income, before accounting changes, was $70 million, or 96 cents per share, compared with $33 million, or 44 cents per share, in 1994.

Net sales in the first quarter were $1.14 billion, up 14 percent from the comparable period last year.

"We've continued the momentum that carried us to a record year in 1994," said Jean-Pierre Rosso, president and chief executive officer. "The European markets for agricultural and construction equipment are robust, while other markets, such as Australia and the Far East, are achieving year-over-year improvements."

Case worldwide equipment sales, which are comprised of wholesale (dealer) and Case-direct retail sales, were up 18 percent for the quarter. Case's performance was led by its European business, where company sales of both agricultural and construction equipment were up dramatically over the first quarter of 1994. The sharp rise is attributable to strong market conditions and the success of several new models of agricultural and construction equipment introduced in Europe in 1994.

In North America, company sales of agricultural and construction equipment increased from a strong 1994 first quarter. The improvement was paced by a growth in sales of construction equipment and an incremental boost in sales of agricultural equipment.

In Case's other markets around the world, company sales of agricultural and construction equipment increased by double-digits over the same period last year. The largest gain was in construction equipment in the Asia Pacific region, although significant improvement was reported in sales of both agricultural and construction equipment in Latin America.

In North America, industry retail unit sales of tractors with more than 100 horsepower and combines were up 2 percent from the first quarter of 1994, while Case retail unit sales were slightly higher than the industry. Case's performance was led by a 13-percent jump in combines, reflecting demand for the company's new 2100 Series Axial-Flow® models.

In North America, retail unit sales of Case construction equipment were down 15 percent overall, primarily due to the model changeover on the company's new L Series loader/backhoe line. In March, planned production rates were achieved, and retail unit sales exceeded any month since June 1994.

Case Credit Corporation, the retail financing subsidiary of Case Corporation, had net income for the first quarter of $21 million, down from $31 million in the first quarter of 1994. These results reflect the impact of Tenneco Inc.'s retention of certain retail receivables at the time of Case's initial public offering in June 1994, and the timing of asset-backed securitization transactions. Case Credit also reported increased acquisitions by 30 percent over the comparable period in 1994, to $121 million. Total gross receivables serviced by Case Credit at March 31, 1995 were $3.2 billion, up 12 percent from March 31, 1994.

EASTERN TENT CATERPILLARS ARE HATCHING

The eastern tent caterpillars have hatched or are in the process of hatching.

Eastern tent caterpillars are one of the first tree insect pests to hatch in the spring. After they hatch, the larva begin to feed on newly expanding leaves of a variety of ornamental trees.

They are most common on crab apples but they can also be found on some varieties of cherry and other members of the Rosaceae family. These insects begin to spin web-like tents that are found in branch crotches.

This is probably their most noticeable characteristic. When they are small it is difficult to distinguish other characteristics.

These insects can completely defoliate a tree in a relatively short time. The best way to control these insects is with a pesticide of one kind or another. They are relatively easy to control at this stage of their lives.

One type of pesticide that is effective is commonly known as "Bt". "Bt" is a biological pesticide that consists of a bacteria. The larva must eat the bacterial insecticide that has been sprayed on the leaves in order for it to be effective. It will not kill on contact. "Bt" is also somewhat specific as it will only kill members of the butterfly and moth family. "Bt" is commonly sold under the names Foray, Thuricide, Dipel, and Javelin. This pesticide should be sprayed over the entire tree.

Other registered pesticides for eastern tent caterpillar are carbaryl (Sevin and Sevimol), chlorpyrifos (Dursban and Pageant DF), malathion, and insecticidal soap. These are chemical insecticides and do kill on contact.

The best way to control eastern tent caterpillar using these pesticides is to spray on the "tent" in the early morning hours. At this time the larva congregate around and in the tent. If the tent is large it will help to open the tent with a knife and spray inside also.

These insecticides are less specific and will kill a wider variety of insects such as honey bees. Some of these chemicals can also cause blossoms to fall. Care should be taken when using these pesticides to limit the number of non-target insects that may be harmed.

Remember that when using these or any other pesticides, the label instructions must be followed exactly. To do otherwise is a violation of state and federal law. Remember to take appropriate safety precautions when using any pesticide.

PLANNING FOR 1995 FEED STORAGE... WILTED HAY...SILAGE...HI-MOISTURE GRAINS

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production - harvesting - storage - purchases - delivery to animals."

Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your forage from a poured concrete silo, equipped with a Big Jim Distributor/ Unloader.

Protect your valuable forages from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice and wind. Reduce the stress! Increase the efficiency of your feeds, labor, and livestock.

At SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. we know a lot about feed storage and handling... we've been in the business since 1908. If you are thinking about new or additional feed storage, give us a call. We'd like to contribute to your success.

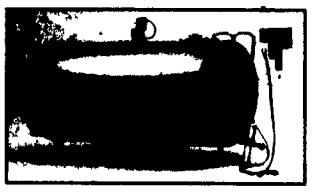
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of owning a milk cooler.

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

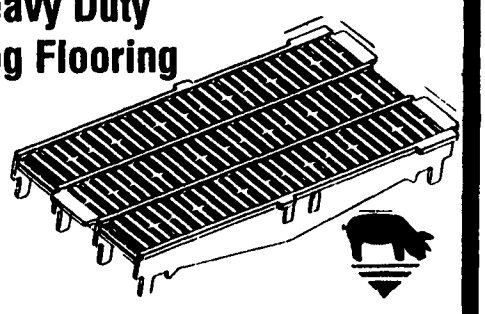
600 Sow Equip. for sale; 717-627-1623.

REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™
Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.
Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
◆ More piglets survive until weaning
◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

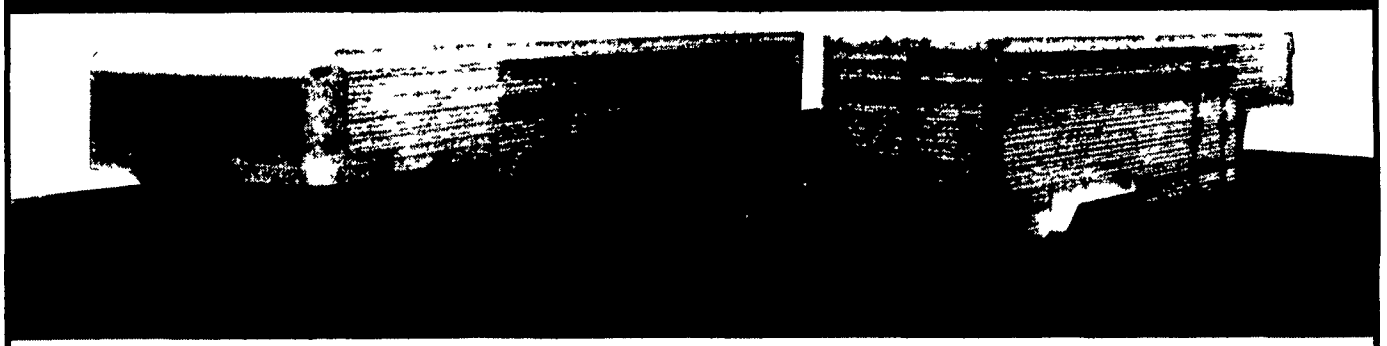
Anything Less Isn't Good Enough



If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:

- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axles, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Whatever kind of livestock you transport, you can rely on EBY products to do the job right.

Eby custom-builds bodies and trailers for all types of livestock, grain and farm commodities.

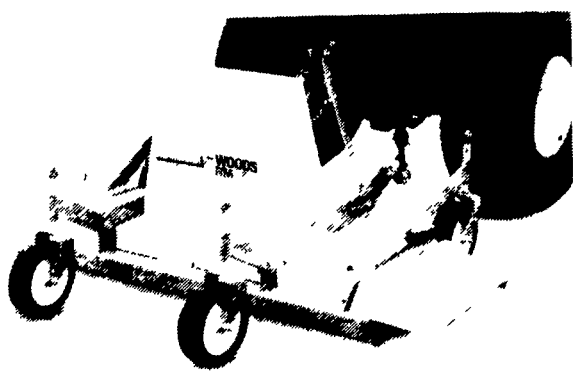
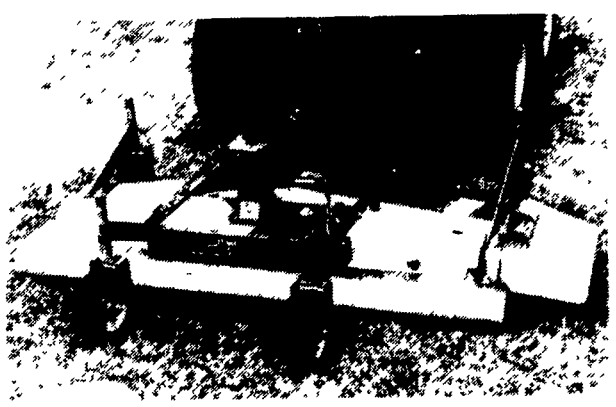
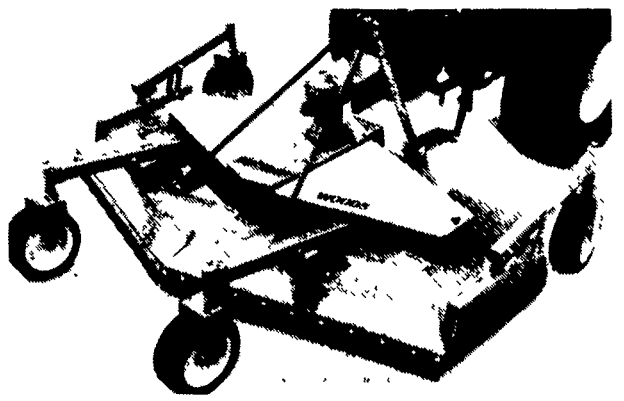
Woods generation of rearmount mowers

The standards for rearmount mowers were set in 1971 when Woods introduced them... Now we've redefined the cutting edge with our Woods rearmount grooming mowers







Woods reputation for trouble-free performance has been earned with features like...heavy-duty gearboxes, designed and manufactured by Woods...Single V-Belt drive with automatic belt tension take-up...industrial quality blade spindles with lubricated tapered roller bearings..high velocity side discharge deck design... "high-lift" blades.... easy-on, easy-off 3 -point hook-up. All these features and more guarantee that clean, even, well groomed look every time you mow so you spend more time enjoying your lawn and less time caring for it.

If your tractor is in the 16 to 50 horsepower range, there's a new Woods rearmount lawn mower for you. And like all Woods products, your Woods rearmount mower will be "worth more in the long run." We've been around since 1947 and during that time Woods has been keeping promises and making mowers that keep on working years after most others "can't cut it."

Choice of Models - Only Woods offers the choice of belt-driven or gear over belt drive models in 5 ft and 7 1/2 ft cutting widths.

Deep V and Deck design features a high-velocity air tunnel that moves cut material out fast and distributes it evenly. Woods RM mower decks are formed from 8 ga. steel plate. Tunnel and deck are one piece which adds strength by eliminating the need for high stress weld areas.

Farmland Approved For Preservation Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agricultural Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced the approval of easement purchases for 22 farms encompassing 2,553 acres of prime farmland.

"When finalized, this round of purchases will go a long way in our efforts to preserve valuable farmlands from development," said Brosius. The purchases were approved by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board, which is chaired by the agriculture department secretary.

"Protecting our farmlands is important," Brosius said. "Through this program, quality farmlands are guaranteed for future generations to use."

Initiated in 1989, the Farmland Protection Program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights—referred to as easements—to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

Individual landowners initially apply to county agricultural land preservation boards. If approved for purchase, the county boards may request state funding participation. Counties may participate jointly with the state in easement purchases or may purchase easements outright themselves.

With today's easement purchases, 530 farms in 30 counties will have joined the program or had easement purchases approved, protecting 66,519 acres of farmland. As of January 1, easement purchases have been approved for 5,778 acres on 46 farms in 18 counties.

Following are the properties approved, listed by county, owner, township, acreage and purchase cost:

- Adams—Clyde L. Mummert, Mt. Pleasant Township, 33 acres, $77,118
- Berks—Elmer H. and Lena K. Eyrich, Oley Township, 162 acres, $324,900
- Berks—Joel C. Habegger Farm #1, Bethel Township, 149 acres, $270,100
- Berks—Joel C. Habegger Farm #2, Bethel Township, 151 acres, $243,750
- Berks—Reiner W. and Marilyn J. Miller, North Heidelberg Township, 72 acres, $125,702
- Berks—Philip W. and Coreen Luckenbill, Upper Tulpehocken Township, 119 acres, $202,555
- Berks—Charles H. Schaeffer, Oley Township, 77 acres, $155,060
- Berks—Wayne H. and Linda J. Wanner, Richmond Township, 45 acres, $90,000
- Chester—Timothy K. and Ruth L. Kauffman, West Fallowfield Township, 123 acres, $405,966
- Lackawanna—Willard C., Karen F., and Andrew Keating, Jefferson Township, 19 acres, $34,970
- Lehigh—Raymond C. Christman, Heidelberg Township, 111 acres, $204,774
- Lehigh—David P. and Pamela A. Kerschner, Heidelberg Township, 49 acres, $86,693
- Lehigh—Arlan W. and Barbara D. Mantz, North Whitehall Township, 191 acres, $514,491
- Mercer—Michael and Andrea Rabold, Coolspring Township, 199 acres, $119,310

- Union—Carl C. and Ruth R. Cotner, Gregg Township, 142 acres, $127,431.

Fertilize The Whole Rotation

NORCROSS, Ga.—Successful farming comes from producing consistently high yields year in and year out. This is not an easy task, considering all the uncontrollable factors that affect plant growth. Seemingly each year brings a new set of problems. One year it's drought, the next year it may be a prolonged wet, cold spring...or a heat wave during pollination.

One thing we know for sure, there is plenty of risk in farming from uncontrollable factors. We don't need to add to that risk by neglecting those production factors that we can control...such as fertilizer.

Fertilizer is essential for the production of consistently high yielding and high quality crops. The value of building up soil fertility with phosphorus and potassium fertilizers has been demonstrated innumerable times over the years. And certainly most farmers recognize the value of both nutrients. A balanced nutrient management program that adequately meets crop needs not only produces more yield, but also produces crops that are better able to withstand insect and disease attack, utilize water more efficiently, and ripen more evenly at harvest.

This is true for all crops...not just the high cash value ones. But it is easy to forget and skimp on fertilization for some crops in rotation. It may appear that not fertilizing these low cash return crops is helping cash flow. And it may be...but only in the short term. Trouble is, this leads us to a "rob Peter to pay Paul" situation. By not fertilizing, or by not applying adequate amounts of nutrients, the fertility level of the soil will be drawn down by the hungry crops. Then when a high cash value crop is planted, the soil has previously been depleted and growth will be less than optimum. "Paul," the low cash value crop, has robbed from "Peter," the high cash value crop.

It may not be necessary to fertilize every crop every year, but the fertilizer program must satisfy the demands of the rotation or loss of soil fertility and productivity is inevitable. In a corn-soybean rotation, for example, soybeans benefit from fertilizer applied to the corn crop. But nutrients removed in the harvested crops plus that which may become unavailable by natural processes must be replaced to sustain profitable production.

Cotton growers in California have learned this lesson the hard way. When cotton is rotated with alfalfa, tremendous amounts of potassium are removed from the soil. Each 8-ton per acre crop of alfalfa removes the equivalent of nearly 500 pounds of potash. Although cotton is very sensitive to low available soil potassium, and both yield and quality of the lint seriously suffer when the potassium supply is insufficient, the lint itself does not remove much potassium from the field. Each bale of lint cotton removes about 20 pounds of potash. For decades growers have been underfertilizing the cotton-alfalfa rotation. They focused on the nutrient needs of cotton, essentially ignoring the large amounts of potassium being removed by alfalfa. Now, many cotton fields are chronically short of potassium and it will take years to build them back up to where potassium is no longer a limiting factor. In the meanwhile, yields and quality of cotton are suffering...and so are profits!

Animal Productivity Disorders: Because Of Pollution?

By Herbert C. Jordan
Retired Penn State
Poultry Specialist

When examining a performance problem in breeders, growing or laying birds, one avenue to pursue is to measure pollution or toxins or any damaging material in the air, water, bedding, grit, vaccine medicine or feed. Sample and measure accurately pollution of any kind.

Failure of any animal to maintain health or productivity in captivity can be due to pollution.

Example: Cup-type drinking waterers in a cage layer house were found to have E. Coli bacteria counts as high as 250,000 organisms per ml. of water when 2 to 10 organisms is plenty and zero (pure water) can occasionally be found. When the watering system was cleaned, birds with loose droppings returned to relatively normal droppings for a cage layer. Mortality was reduced and performance returned to relatively normal values. In cup or trough type waterers, beware of litter, manure, or feed from beaks of birds accumulating in the water prior to the bird drinking the polluted water. Test and/or clean any watering system as needed.

After several thousand pheasants died at 3 to 7 weeks of age, the feeder was found by a microscopist to have 11 percent of the material in the chain feeders to be litter material. E. Coli was found in dead birds—excessive fecal consumption was believed to be the cause. Feeders were raised to shoulder height of the birds and mortality returned to typical annual rate. Feeders set too low to the floor can have manure or litter kicked into the feed.

In a flock of single comb white leghorn breeders, the males at 40 weeks of age stopped attempting to mate (by human observation), and fertility dropped to near zero. This happened after ammonia gas fumes in the pen were measured at 20-40 parts per million, then 50-60 ppm. then 100+ ppm over a period of four weeks. Manure in the pit under sloping wire floors ranged from wet-solid to liquid from one month after housing on to 40 weeks of age. This situation was not reversed or remedied however the decrease in fertility occurred as ammonia fume intensity increased according to the flock supervisor. Toxic gas from manure can damage birds.

A flock of commercial table egg producing single comb white leghorns were not producing on the expected production curve at 30+ weeks of age. The shell and interior egg quality was normal but egg number was low. Birds taken to the lab showed no pathogenic lesion except pale combs and skin. Feathers were breaking and birds looked rough because feather loss was high. A sample of feed was tested and found to have 500 ppm copper and 2800 ppm aluminum. The birds were being fed extra copper sulfate. The aluminum was not traced but believed to becoming from flocculated fat from a processing plant where alum was used to float fat to the surface of a water tank for collection.

A turkey breeder flock was observed having no problems in individual breeder cages, except slightly low egg number. All health of bird and production parameters appeared normal. A sample of feed was tested to show mineral flow through a bird. The feed was found to have 15 ppm lead on a dry-weight basis in it. Lead by most people's standards should be 0 to 4 ppm or no higher than 10 ppm. Later human food samples were tested and found to have 4 to 6 ppm lead in some of them on a dry weight basis.

A flock of turkey poults were studied having been diagnosed as having E. Coli in the blood. On farm necropsy and laboratory diagnosis showed birds at 4 to 12 weeks of age to be eating litter found in the G.I. tract. This behavioral situation of birds eating litter instead of or in addition to feed is still a mystery to some people. If litter is reused, birds are overcrowded, litter is wet and full of undesirable microorganisms a bird eating litter can get sick and die. Pollution can come from any nearby source. Poultrymen or stockmen must search to discover pollution as a possible cause of health disorder in animals.

Opening unhatched eggs from many hatcheries shows contaminated yolk sac to lead all other abnormalities in embryos. Brown, dark yellow, or decomposed yolk material with an offensive odor prevents the yolk from being absorbed into the chick's abdomen and the failure of the yolk sac to be absorbed into the chick seems to prevent the chick from hatching. The shell membrane may fail to prevent transfer of undesirable microbes or dirty egg shells washed improperly may contaminate an embryo or ovarian transfer of microbes into the egg may cause or fail to halt this pollution. So, produce and set clean eggs.

Testing drinking water from several farm wells where animals were diarrhetic or having loose droppings shows high E. Coli counts in drinking water at the source. This has been remedied, corrected, or reduced by not spreading manure closer than 100 yards to a well head. Stopping the spread of manure on a water shed, around or above a spring or pond can reduce pollution as well. Feces, urates, litter, bedding, dead fowl, mice or insects must be incorporated in the soil at the proper depth before "sundown" the day it is removed from the pen. Local laws may require composting or incinerating of dead animals. This source of pollution can damage water, soil, crop yield or human or animal health. Apply droppings or manure at a maximum of 0-2 ton dry matter per acre annually.

Pollution disorders can be prevented but can rarely be corrected. Consider these:

- If something is clean or pure when purchased, keep it clean while in storage or during administration.
- If a breeder is unhealthy, place it in a hospital pen and keep it and its eggs separate. Allow actual symptoms of birds in hospital pen to confirm a health program.
- If an egg is not clean and sound sort it, clean it and treat all pollution immediately. Clean air, eggs, water or feed, or do not use them.
- Incubators and hatchers can spread health problems. Toxic gas chemicals may weaken membranes or resistance in the embryo so use them wisely or not at all.
- Adding a pollutant to clean up a pollutant seldom or never works, so clean up and prevent pollution.

Many animal farmers today invest in feed ingredients that will not last one year without rotting, but the same farmer invests thousands of dollars annually in toxic chemicals that last many, many years and can still kill an animal or human.

Think about pollution, act before pollution, but do not react to pollution in error.

Christmas Tree Growers To Gather

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Six hundred Christmas tree growers from across the commonwealth and from adjoining states will gather Aug. 9-11 for the 50th Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers' Association's Summer Membership Meeting.

The Days Inn, Allentown, is the convention headquarters with field trips planned to the Lee and Sandy Walker farm, Lehighton, and the Rodale Institute, Emmaus. A special western barbeque and 50th meeting celebration is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 11 at the Greg Umlauf farm, Emmaus.

"Agriculture Alternatives for the 21st Century Christmas Tree Grower" is the theme for the event, with speakers presenting new methods of plantation tree growing using soil and plant fertilization innovations along with conventional and biorational insect and disease controls.

Featured speakers include Leonard Ridzon, Waterford, Ohio, founder of "Nutricarb," the process of using soft coal for soil nutrition; Dr. Akhatar Khwaja, soil scientist and agronomist, Oshkosh, Wis., speaking on nutritional management for Christmas trees; and Dr. Dan Skow, Fairmont, Minn., author of "Mainline Farming for Century 21" and president of Ag Labs, Inc., speaking on balancing soil nutrients.

Rayanne Lehman, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture entomologist, will speak on biology and control of the White Pine Weevil. She will be joined by Dr. Paul Heller, Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences entomologist, presenting conventional and biorational controls to manage Cooley Spruce Gall Adelgid.

Tree growers will visit the Rodale Institute on Thursday, Aug. 10 and view the institute's farming system trials, compost utilization trials, farm scale composting unit, and view a presentation on using compost in Christmas tree nursery beds.

A trade show, presenting up-to-date Christmas tree equipment and services, is scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 9 from 5-10 p.m. and on Thursday, Aug. 10, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Days Inn, Allentown. Field demonstrations of equipment will follow on Friday, Aug. 11 at the Lee Walker farm, Lehighton.

Tree growers, landscapers, garden center owners and other industry related individuals are encouraged to attend the convention and trade show. Additional information and meeting registrations can be obtained by calling the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers' Association at (717) 362-3705 from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday or by writing to the PCTGA Office, 44 Cessna Drive, Halifax, PA 17032. The deadline for registering for the meeting is July 15.

Farms Pose Hazards For Young Workers

NEWARK, Del.—The next time you pass a farm and see a tractor in operation, look a little closer. The operator may be a lot younger than you think.

It's a tradition, even a necessity, in many farm families for children—both boys and girls—to begin helping with planting and harvest. Operating heavy machinery and working around animals and agricultural chemicals can be dangerous.

Studies show that almost 15 percent of victims of farm accidents are children under 10 years old. Also farm children from 5 to 14 years old are three times more likely to be injured than other children their age. In fact, more than 23,000 children will be injured on farms in the United States this year.

"This really should come as no surprise," said Ron Jester, cooperative extension farm safety specialist at the University of Delaware. "Considering that farming is one of the most hazardous occupations according to the National Safety Council's latest statistics."

The same hazards that injure adults can also injure children—heavy equipment, grain augers, use of all-terrain vehicles and lung hazards from dust and sprays.

"Children are our most precious resource," said Jester. "I urge everybody—especially those in rural communities—to strengthen their support for rural safety programs directed to farm and rural children."

The safety specialist offers the following tips for making your farm a safer place for children:

• Take time to discuss farm safety with your children. Take a tour of your farm and explain the hazards and how to protect against them.

• Make sure that your children's play area is physically separated from the work area.

• Don't ask children to do chores that are beyond the capability of their age or maturity. (Extension offers a fact sheet on age-appropriate farm tasks.)

• Store chemicals under lock and key.

• Be careful how you dispose of empty chemical containers. Follow label directions or call the Delaware Solid Waste Authority.

• Ponds and lagoons should be inaccessible and strictly off limits for young children.

• Children must be 14 and older to operate heavy equipment. Make sure that their training is thorough and adequate.

• Don't allow children to work long hours—they need more frequent breaks than adults. Accidents often happen when an individual becomes too tired to be attentive.

Welsh To Lead Ag Sciences Graduation

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—Scott W. Welsh, a Penn State senior majoring in agriculture science, has been named the student marshal for the College of Agricultural Sciences spring commencement. He is the son of William and Ann Welsh of Lebanon County.

Welsh will lead the procession of approximately 285 graduating seniors at the ceremony, which takes place on Saturday, May 13, at 9 a.m. in the Eisenhower Auditorium on Penn State's University Park Campus. Accompanying Welsh at commencement will be his academic adviser, Dr. Thomas Bruening, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education.

Student marshals are chosen in recognition of outstanding academic performance. Since coming to Penn State, Welsh has been on the Dean's List and the College of Agricultural Sciences honor roll. He participated in the University Scholars Program during his junior year and received the Morrell Smith Scholarship and the Alan Nutt Memorial Award in his senior year.

Welsh also received the Senior Student Award from Gamma Sigma Delta, given annually by the agricultural honor society to students in the college with the highest grade-point average. After graduation, Welsh and his wife, Margaret, will manage a Chester County sweet corn and vegetable farm.

Pond Management Workshop Set

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Pond management and practices to increase the usefulness of your pond will be the focus of an upcoming program sponsored by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with Maryland Sea Grant.

Whether your pond is utilized for recreational use, wildlife and fishing, or aquaculture production, this workshop will provide up-to-date information to participants on improving the various aspects of pond usage.

At the Pond Management Workshop, basic pond ecology and nutrient cycles will be discussed. Other important aspects that will be covered are proper stocking, pond fertilization, design, liming, and aeration. Water testing procedures and analysis of the results will be demonstrated. Recommendations for management of bass, bluegill, trout and hybrid bass populations will also be examined.

Many problems such as the overgrowth of aquatic weeds and algae overproduction can hinder the quality of plant and animal life of the pond. This workshop will offer solutions to these and many other pond issues.

The program will be held at the Carroll County Cooperative Extension Service office, Carroll County Agriculture Center, 700 Agriculture Center, Westminster, MD 21157, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday evening, May 22. The $5 registration fee will cover the cost of handouts and break beverages.

For registration or additional information, contact the Carroll County Extension (410) 848-4611.

Protect Chicks From Damaging Affliction

Herbert C. Jordan
Retired Penn State Poultry Specialist

Birds in captivity rely totally on the caretaker. Caretakers who neglect birds cost the poultry industry millions of dollars annually or many thousand dollars per farm per year.

The Bible teaches we can afflict ourselves with a fast to improve ourselves or our situations. Chicks frequently are afflicted by a caretaker intentionally or unintentionally. (Seldom are there accidents, most events are caused.) The following are cases of affliction resulting in damage or fatal reaction of a baby poult, chick, or other animal. Adult animals can also be damaged by caretakers.

Fasting two hours off water caused chicks to get hungry and eat more when fed. This may help or hurt chicks. Six hours off water caused chicks to become nervous and eat litter. Productivity fell and some chicks died. Twenty-eight hours off water caused the weaker chicks to dehydrate at 80°F in the brooder, become listless, and fail to eat or drink later. Some chicks fell behind in growth rate, some died. Fifty hours off water with air temperature at 70°F caused many chicks to dehydrate, become weak and die before the water fast was over.

Two hours off feed caused chicks to get hungry and eat more when fed. This can be a valuable tool to clean up old feed. Eight hours off feed caused chicks to eat litter, get sick and some died.

Twelve to sixteen hours off feed on a wire floor caused capon bound cockerels to lose intestine size so surgery was a success at nine days old. Water, then feed was provided in the recovery pen.

Thirty hours off feed caused commercial layers to reduce egg number so low a $30,000 loss was incurred.

A light-time clock change caused breeders to be reduced in day length which resulted in a loss of egg number, increased neck molt and an unknown loss in fertility of eggs laid by the breeders.

Feeding no granite grit to replacement pullets for a commercial laying house caused them to get small gizzards ostensibly resulting in poor egg production later. Mortality was higher and feed consumption was too low for normal egg production. To diagnose small gizzard disease, open every bird that dies naturally and size the gizzard.

Feeding no oyster shell or calcite grit apparently caused layers to have poor egg shells before a molt, before being slaughtered and when everything else was normal on three different flocks respectively. So feed extra calcium grit in the feed to keep egg shells normal.

Typically, all broilers or turkeys eat some litter. When many flocks of birds were raised on the same litter, growth rate became variable, mortality became higher, gut infection was diagnosed more and mysterious illness was more prevalent.

Do not afflict baby birds with contaminated litter, old litter, wet litter, or fecal contamination as a major part of litter. Use clean, fresh bedding with each bird. Bedding materials should be selected to improve fertilizer value of litter when applied to land.

Young turkeys were mistakenly fed three percent red rock salt in a ration instead of 0.3 percent. They drank more water, fell behind in growth rate and died at a much higher rate than normal.

Pheasant breeders apparently eating rat tracking powder fell behind in egg number, eggs showed lower fertility and lower hatchability of eggs laid.

Baby broilers kept at 60 to 70°F the first three weeks of age instead of 75 to 85°F had nearly twice as much ascites. These birds showed fluid in the abdomen when slaughtered and did not grow well.

Deep water in waterers allowed chicks that fell in to get too wet for too long, so they died of hypothermia. So put pebbles or something in waterer to allow a chick to fall in and walk out.

Broiler mothers with overeating disorder were fed a ration too high in nutrient density, they ate too much feed, became obese and failed to lay adequate egg numbers and had lower fertility in eggs laid. Overeating may cause medicine in feed to be eaten at a toxic level.

All species of bird debeaked too severely fail to eat, fail to grow or reproduce and typically die more readily. Debeaking is surgery and must be done well and successfully.

Detoeing surgery on turkeys appears to encourage more infected feet and legs with ascending infection in the foot and leg. Any surgery on bird must be done properly or not at all. My observation shows too little significant research done on surgery on individual birds.

Feed crumbs or pellets too large for chicks to eat appeared to cause uneven chick growth and more mortality.

Mycotoxins in moldy grain apparently killed baby chicks, poults and bunnies on three different farms and on three different occasions.

Young turkeys eat wood splinters from litter. The splinter punctures the duodenal loop in the small intestine and the turkey dies.

The thermostat or time clock over-ride sticks and the fans blow the brooder house cold. The chicks chill, get sick, slow in growth rate and many die.

A waterer runs over about 1,000 gallons on a litter floor before it is stopped. Chicks drink contaminated water, wet litter produces odor and toxic gas, chicks slow in growth rate, and many die. Because of the moisture, disease increases.

A weasel, mink, skunk, raccoon, or other predator enters a brooder house and kills many chicks. A 10-hour electrical power failure kills chicks.

Mice, rats, insects in a poultry house may carry disease or parasites to poultry.

Summary - Some reasons given for caretakers afflicting permanent damage on birds are, "I did not know," "I didn't see it," "forgot," "was trying to help," "came on duty late," "had car trouble," "I hate this job," "ammonia fumes made me sick," "dust covered the thermometer," "I was told two different directives by two different people," "I did not have time," "no one told me!"

Prevent costly affliction.

Soybean Board Funds Research

NEWARK, Del.—The 1995 Delaware Soybean Board research grants to the College of Agriculture Sciences at the University of Delaware totaled more than $53,000.

The funds support research to improve soybean production in Delaware. The check was presented to Dr. John Nye, dean of the college, by Doug Corey, president of the Delaware Soybean Board, and treasurer Olin Gooden.

The soybean projects funded for this year are:

- An analysis of hedging as a soybean marketing alternative
- Continuing grower-Extension research communication
- Effect of poultry manure on the efficiency of soybean herbicides
- Initiation of egg essays to determine soybean cyst nematode (SCN) population densities
- Lower-cost weed control and weed management programs for Delaware soybean production
- Management schemes for soybean severe stunt virus (SSSV) in Delaware soybeans
- Soybean proteins: prediction of functionality in value-added food application
- Soybean variety evaluation for site and cropping system adaption and cyst nematode resistance.

Delaware soybean farmers fund these projects through a per-bushel soybean checkoff. This grower-supported research will be conducted by Agricultural Experiment Station scientists, cooperative extension specialists, and researchers in the departments of food and resource economics, plant and soil sciences, and food sciences.

Program Helps Farmers Test, Share Innovations

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Program has awarded $97,398 to 39 producers to test alternate farming practices.

Through these grants, SARE is helping producers conduct their own farm-based experiments to answer their own production and marketing questions. Many of the projects involve several producers who are working cooperatively to solve common problems.

The goal is to develop systems and practices that promote stewardship of natural resources, prevent agricultural pollution and improve farm profitability.

The 39 projects that were selected for funding aim at diversifying farms, developing direct and alternate markets for producers, reducing purchased inputs; building, adapting and testing innovative equipment; and using beneficial biology to control pest problems.

The Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program is a USDA competitive grants program. Its mission is to develop farming practices and systems that are environmentally sound, economically viable and that contribute to the quality of life of farmers and society as a whole. The Northeast region includes Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia and Washington, D.C.

The following list provides a brief description of each project. For more information about any of these projects, please contact SARE at (802) 656-0471.

Connecticut

• Peter Jacquier of East Canaan will work with four other farmers to organize a cooperative, multi-farm manure storage, solid separation, composting and digester system. The goal is to help these farms improve manure management and disposal practices, and adapt new technologies to the size of their farming operations. Grant: $6,000.

Maine

• Gloria and Gregg Varney of Turner will research, document and evaluate the production and economic feasibility of once daily milking on a certified herd used for a raw milk bottling operaion. The Varneys, who operate a small, diversified farm, will examine how once daily milking, in combination with rotational grazing affects labor, overhead, feed production, herd health and overall farm profitability. Grant: $4,990.

• George James of Easton will demonstrate that a virtual waste material which is a burden to a local vegetable processing plant, can be a value added product, by dehydrating the waste and incorporating it into feed used for horses. In addition, he will develop and expand markets for alternative crops of carrots, oat hay, alfalfa and timothy. Grant: $4,350.

• Michael Macfarlane of Ellsworth will attempt to establish a commercially viable, organic cranberry bog, focusing on ways to promote maximum rooting, runner and upright growth with mulches, innovative planting methods and use of liquid seaweed as a rooting agent. Grant: $2,080.

Maryland

• Eric Rice of Middletown and Bill Hastings, organic growers in different climates in Maryland, will investigate the feasibility of growing annual organic strawberries and organic fall vegetables using sustainable practices. The project builds on a 1994 annual strawberry production demonstration at the University of Maryland's Wye Research and Education Center, and work being done by ARS. Grant: $3,150.

Massachusetts

• Peter Konjoian of Andover will test the use of ethylene, a naturally occurring plant hormone to stimulate branching and control flowering of floricultural greenhouse crops. The project seeks to find alternatives to synthetic chemical growth regulators and to reduce labor costs. Grant: $3,700.

• Tim Coppinger of Montague plans to compost waste from a local supermarket with horse manure and sawdust. His project includes experimentation with composting techniques and chemical analysis to determine if there are pesticide residues in the compost, and evaluate whether there are any environmental and safety issues to be addressed during the composting process. Grant: $1,169.

• Clifford Hatch of Gill, along with another strawberry grower, will demonstrate alternative planting systems designed to reduce herbicide use, mechanical cultivation, hand hoeing and weeding. The two-year project is geared to respond to consumer and neighbor pressure to reduce pesticide use in Connecticut Valley operations, and will compare the systems effectiveness at weed control, total expense and yields. Grant: $6,215.

• Susan Minnich of Washington will evaluate a woodland system for growing New England wildflowers and medicinal plants such as goldenseal, blue cohosh, maidenhair fern, solomon's seal, trillium and trout lilies. The project attempts to respond to growing demand for these plants, and to develop a sustainable production system. Grant: $1,850.

• David Stanley of Belchertown will rear, release two naturally occurring caterpillar predators of major sweet corn pests, and examine their effectiveness at controlling European corn borer, fall army worm and corn ear worm in organic corn. He also will attempt to collect a third predator, a Coccinellid beetle that masses in late season tasseling corn, store it over the winter and use it the next season against Colorado potato beetles and European corn borers. Grant: $3,525.

New Hampshire

• Klee Dugan of Hillsboro will test whether recirculating tank systems with solar domes can extend and prolong the growing season for New Hampshire fish farmer. Grant: $3,936.

• David Trumble of Francestown will examine the most economically feasible way to grow greens, lettuce, spinach, flowers and herbs during the early spring and late fall. The purpose of the project is to explore long-term solutions to the issue of season extension. Grant: $1,570.

New Jersey

• Kay Magilavy of Union City, together with nine other farmers in New York, will establish a farmer-to-farmer mentoring program to assist farmers in the start-up of an organic operation. The advisory service will provide assistance to new (and transitioning) farmers as they create a farm plan and during the first growing season. Grant: $5,400.

• Ed Lidzbarski of Jamesburg, working with other farmers, Rutgers University personnel, and a local wholesaler, will develop an organic tomato production and marketing manual. This project builds on a previous New Jersey Agriculture Department and NOFA New Jersey initiative that successfully developed a uniform packaging system and established a market for organic tomatoes. Grant: $4,935.

New York

• George and Heidi Kollias of Freeville will test the feasibility of using predator scents to control deer damage to Christmas trees. The predator scents will be compared to conventional chemical repellents and soap sprays. For small-scale Christmas tree growers, deer damage can be significant, and the cost of conventional controls is high. Grant: $960.

• Robert Schultz of Jamestown will use chopped newspaper as a mulch in tomato production systems. The project aims to recycle waste and reduce the use of pesticides and plastic mulches. Grant: $612.

• Klaas and Mary-Howell Martens of Penn Yan will use soil conserving, organic production methods to establish trellised plantings of hardy kiwi, a smaller-fruited, fuzzless relative to the kiwi fruit. Grant: $1,078.

• Marion Kise of Clyde will pasture raise chickens and build a small on-farm poultry processing plant. Grant $1,862.

• Carole Corcoran of Westhampton will build and test modular row-cover structures aimed at extending the growing season and reducing flea beetle damage to arugula and other leafy greens. Grant: $633.

• R. Peter Childs of Humphrey, experiment with harvest and marketing methods to expand and develop a cottage industry for Chinese chestnuts. Grant: $2,400.

• James P. Barney of Sherman will examine the economics of growing and feeding grass-based forage crops as an alternative to alfalfa/corn rotations for dairy farmers in the southern tier of western New York. Barney's two-year project will track yields, feed quality and costs. Grant: $3,050.

• Jeanne L. Giambrone of Little Valley will explore ways to extend the growing season for vegetable crops grown for sale at farmers' markets. The project, aimed at increasing income for producers who sell at farmers markets, will examine early and late protection methods, choice of varieties, timing, and pest management considerations using IPM methods. Grant: $1,200.

• Jim Lucey of Belmont, will build and assess a "cover crop undercutter" for use in three small vegetable crops. The undercutter will be based on a design developed at Ohio State University but not being commercially manufactured. Grant: $1,150.

• Craig Kawasaki of E. Moriches will test a predatory mite for control of two-spotted spider mites in his greenhouse. His project is designed to help greenhouse growers of ornamental plants learn about using beneficial biology to control pests. Grant: $500.

• Aaron Gabriel of Schaghticoke will test two alternate methods for controlling flea beetle damage to spring broccoli. He will use nematodes which are commercially available and labeled for controlling flea beetle larvae in the soil, and Chinese cabbage as a trap crop for controlling adult flea beetles. Grant: $850.

• Elizabeth and Peter Ryan of Staatsburg will evaluate an alternative method for controlling leaf hoppers in apple production systems. They will test the use of a single thinning application of carbaryl shortly after petal fall. Preliminary trials at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station suggest this strategy can significantly reduce egg laying adults and second generation nymphs, thus reducing the need for additional pesticide applications later in the season. Grant: $2,275.

• Sue Smith-Heavenrich of Candor will evaluate methods for encouraging spiders through the use of mulch in potatoes and other crops. This project continues a 1994 study which suggested that mulch does influence spider populations, which in turn may control leafhopper populations. Grant: $938.

Pennsylvania

• Harry Karl Zimmerman of Kintnersville will evaluate the economic feasibility of producing greenhouse strawberries for the local (southeastern Pennsylvania) market. This project continues a 1994 SARE-funded project. Grant: $1,075.

• Edgar H. Rits of Honey Grove will expand direct sales of sustainably produced beef in the Harrisburg area, and offer customers the opportunity to visit the farm on which their food was produced. Grant: $1,304.

• Jim Weaver of Wellsboro will develop and test a quick, inexpensive method for determining protein content of pastures used for rotationally grazing cows. The goal is to provide graziers with information on pasture quality to make timely management decisions that will enhance grazing performance. Grant: $2,610.

Vermont

• John Williamson of N. Bennington will evaluate the production and marketing feasibility of growing sweet sorghum in southern Vermont and processing it into syrup using maple sugaring equipment. The goal is to determine whether sorghum syrup could be an additional cash crop for maple producers. Grant: $1,750.

• Todd Pinkham of Johnson will build and test a facility integrating an existing heifer barn and modern greenhouse, with the aim of using heat from the heifer barn to warm the greenhouse. The project seeks to demonstrate energy and nutrient-savings as a result of the integration and diversification. Grant: $779.

• Rob Litch of New Haven will assist other poultry growers with economically viable methods to transport birds to a regional processing plant. The project is aimed at providing small-scale growers with improved access to processing plants, reducing damage, disease and mortality, and enhancing profitability for poultry producers. Grant: $3,025.

• Joseph Klein of Plainfield will test the use of pastured chickens to control Colorado potato beetles. Grant: $821.

• Jonathan Blumberg of East Thetford will develop an environmentally benign and cost-effective method of hop production through a soil improvement and fertilization program, use of legume cover crops and secondary intercrops, and efficient hop cultural techniques. Grant: $5,970.

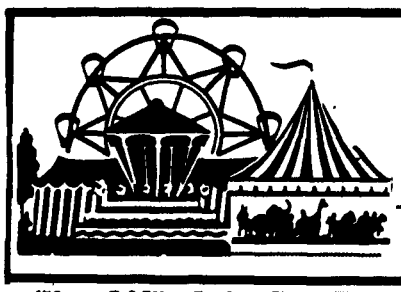
• Chuck Armstrong of Brownsville will evaluate two bacterial biofungicide seed treatments in vegetable crops, comparing them to chemical fungicide and no treatment. The project aims to explore an alterantive to chemical fungicide treatments, particularly for crops that are susceptible to poor performance in cool spring soils. Grants: $1,250.

• Judith Hall of Belmont will evaluate low-maintenance turfgrass and various mulches as alternatives to cultivation in cut flower production systems. Grant: $2,482.

• Jack Lazor of Westfield will develop low-cost machinery to overseed clovers and other green manure crops into existing plant stands. His goal is to provide practical, economical methods for farmers to maintain and build soil health and productivity. Grant: $4,348.

West Virginia

• Pam Talley of Caldwell will evaluate a living mulch system for cut flower production. Talley's goal is to explore alternative weed control methods that reduce chemical herbicide use and contribute to soil quality and conservation. Grant: $1,605.



Fair Happenings

'Year Of The Dairy Cow' To Be Celebrated

Increased premiums, butter sculpting, milking demonstrations, and educational exhibits highlighting the dairy industry will be some of the many activities planned for the 1995 Montgomery County Agricultural Fair —Aug. 18-25— when the Year of the Dairy Cow is celebrated.

The annual Gaithersburg, Md., event, which draws more than 400,000 spectators, recognizes an animal species each year as the Animal of the Year.

"There are so many dairy-related activities and educational programs that we are able to offer to our visitors," said Fair President Robert Pack. "We hope that the dairy exhibitors will also see this year's fair as a special opportunity to compete with other top-notch breeders. The increase in the premiums offered for our dairy shows will hopefully draw those who don't normally exhibit at our fair."

Activities to be included at the 1995 fair are a butter sculptor, a milking parlor, calf judging and milking contests.

A one-ton replica of a Holstein cow will greet fair visitors at the Perry Parkway entrance to the fair courtesy of Turkey Hill Dairy of Conestoga, Pa., while a cluster of cows grazing atop a platform will highlight the fair's circle display at Chestnut Street.

Complete rules and regulations for exhibiting at the Montgomery County Agricultural Fair can be obtained by calling the fair office at (301) 926-3100.

Bee Disease Could Cost Local Growers

NEWARK, Del.—As in any business, farming relies on dependable workers, and every spring and summer farmers look to honey bees to pollinate their crops.

In Delaware, fruit crops and many vegetable crops require the pollination help of those industrious worker bees.

During the growing season, beekeepers move their bee hives from farm to farm and orchard to orchard. Farmers hire the pollination services their crops require and beekeepers harvest the honey.

But this year, a disease pathogen that affects honey bees has caused bee losses of up to 50 percent in Delaware, resulting in devastating reductions to populations.

"We're not sure what's causing this disease condition. Probably, it is a virus," said Dr. Dewey Caron, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension entomologist and bee specialist. "The only common variable so far is Varroa mites, which may be leaving the bees open to a virus that's killing them. Bees can tolerate some mites, but the mites make the bees more susceptible to a pathogen."

About a third of the food Americans eat comes directly from the pollination honey bees perform, Caron said, so the direct value to U.S. farmers and to consumers is significant. In fact, the agricultural function of the honey bee is more economically significant than the honey.

According to Caron, the value of California's annual almond crop produced with the help of honey bees is more than twice the value of all the honey produced in the United States in any given year. In Delaware, apple, blueberry, watermelon, cantaloupe, and cucumber crops depend on bee pollination.

A loss of 10 to 15 percent of bee colonies each winter to cold weather, food deprivation, and disease is not uncommon, but losing half of the bee population could be catastrophic to growers in the entire Delmarva region. Some documented losses have reached 50 percent on the Delmarva peninsula, though the average in Delaware is 35 percent. Both managed hives and wild bees are affected.

"It's a crisis situation," said Caron. "The devastating loss of bee colonies has an economic impact on agricultural production. Producers must have the bees, so they pay more for bee services from farther away. That's if they can find them. This is an expense the consumer will eventually see in food prices at roadside stands and supermarkets."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is investigating the cause of the virus at their laboratory in Beltsville, Md. But regardless of their findings, this season local growers are being forced to look farther afield for a supply of bee pollinators. Caron notes that he knows of two large vegetable producers who are still trying to contract bee colonies all along the Eastern Seaboard.

"It takes one colony to pollinate an acre of cucumbers, a major vegetable crop in this state," Caron said. "Fewer colonies means economic hardship for growers. It's a major agricultural consideration in a state where bees are responsible for $10 million in vegetable production annually."

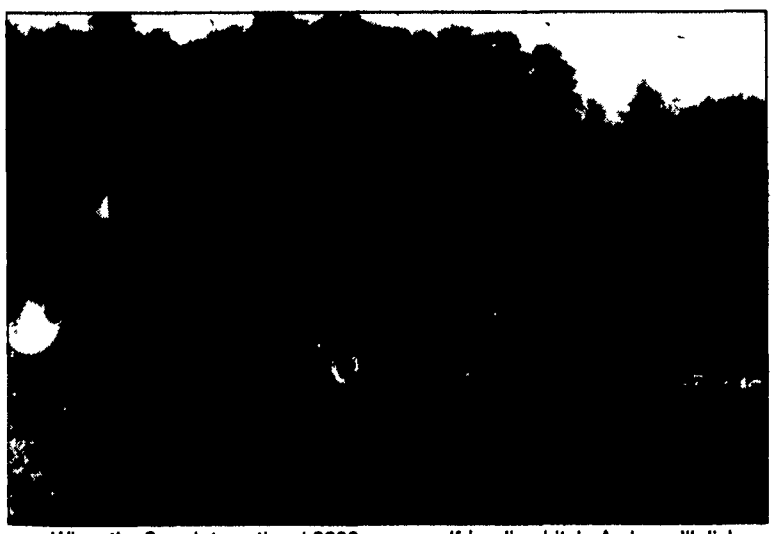
NEW TOUGHNESS OLD-FASHIONED DURABILITY



When the Case International 3800 Tandem Disk Harrow was introduced, it combined real improvements with the quality features of the 350, 370 and 475.

For instance, a 1½ inch round arbor bolt at the heart of every gang assembly. Or consider the spring-cushion, self-leveling hitch. And, you'll disk confidently all day long using the mechanical depth control.

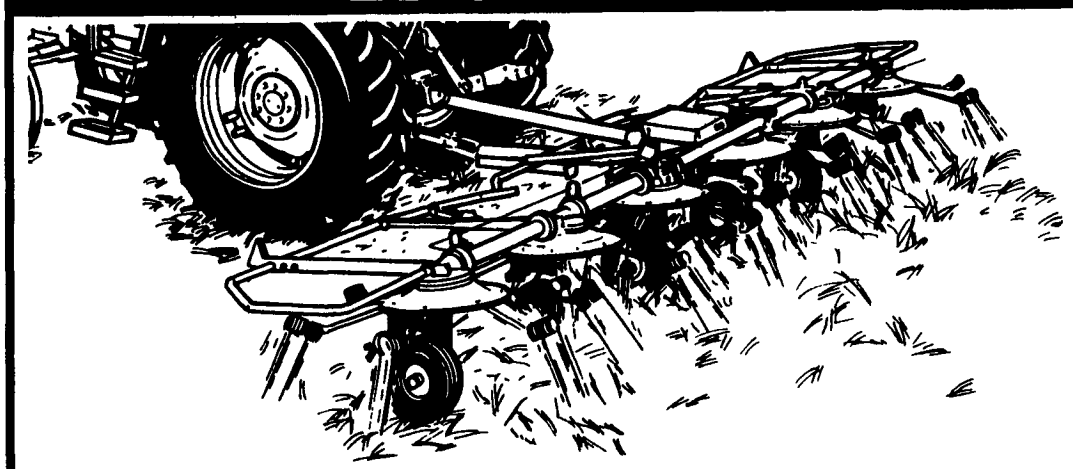
22'8" WIDE



FLUFF 3 WINDROWS IN ONE PASS

You'll cover acres fast, and bale or chop sooner with the Model 169 tedder. It uses six rotors to ted a wide 22'8" area. That's wide enough to fluff three windrows from a 9' mower-conditioner. Yet transport width is a narrow 9'8" for easy maneuvering. The frame of the "169" is fully articulated, so it hugs the ground to fluff all of your crop for fast drying.

Beat the weather with the Model 169. Stop by for details.

46 HP, 3320 Tractor
59 Hp, 4340 Tractor, MFWD, w/shuttle Reverse Transmission & H.D. Loader
70 HP, 6340 Tractor, MFWD

Don Macmillan, the author of John Deere Tractors & Equipment wrote about Hans Becherer, the Deere company chairman who announced, in late 1993, an agreement with ZETOR the Czech Republic tractor manufacturer to market eight models as a low price line for emerging markets, particularly in Asia, Australia and Central and South America. Most of these tractors ZETOR builds for these countries are painted green and have yellow wheels with John Deere on the hoods. ZETOR tractors must be good!

ZETOR Tractors & Parts are warehoused in the Harrisburg area for quick access.

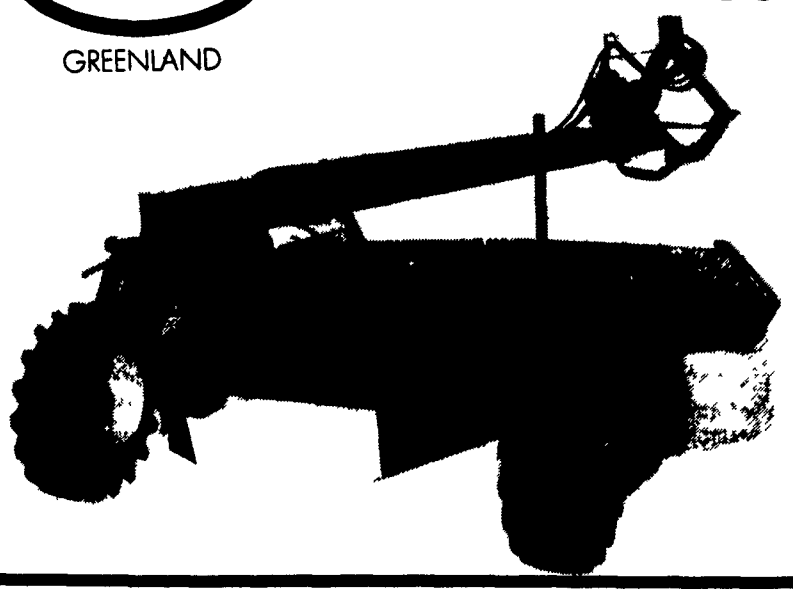
Vicon
GREENLAND

VICON GMR 2400/2800/3200 MOWER-CONDITIONERS



Forage harvesting with a GMR Mower-Conditioner means:
* rapid crop drying as a result of roller conditioning and adjustable swath shape
* preservation of nutritional value
* high harvesting capacity
* greater efficiency of next stage machines (tedder, swath rake, self-loading wagon, baler, etc).

The GMR Mower-Conditioner has a long service life, is simple to operate and easy to maintain.

Sweeps and Shovels... Truckload Savings for John Deere and Other Brands

Tru-Width™

Superior scouring and penetration.

PURINA PROFILE

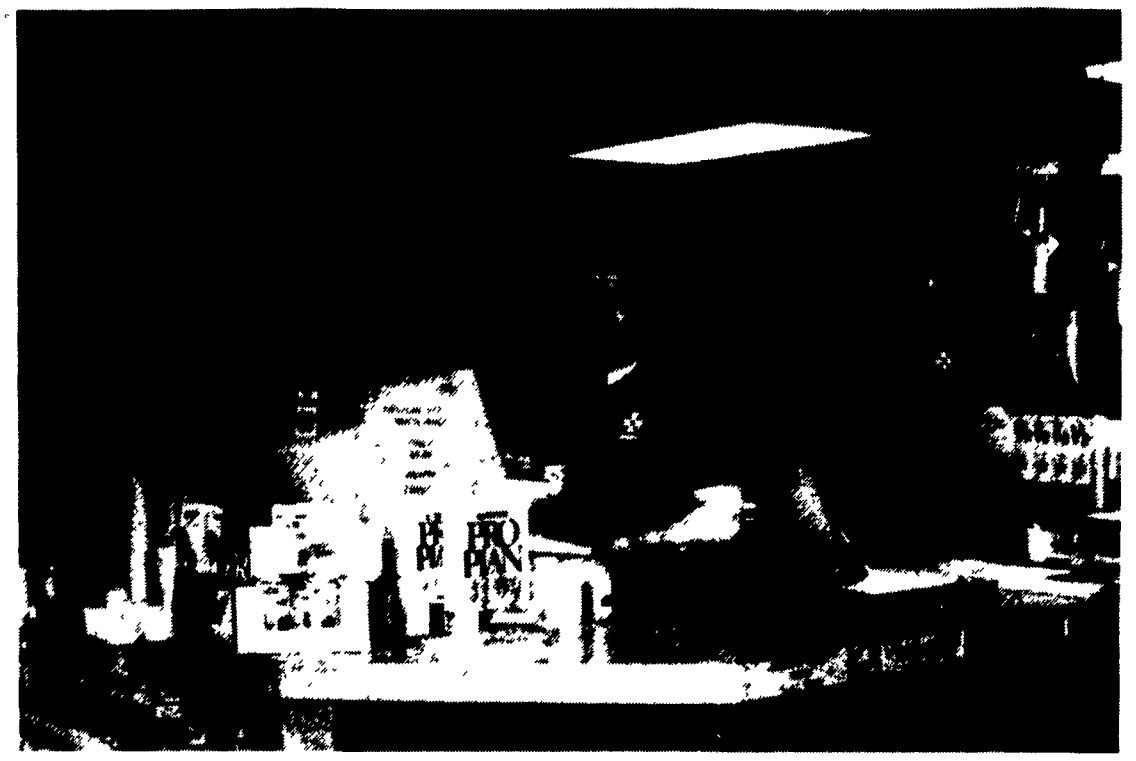
WILLIAM GOWER & SON

Since 1902, William Gower and Son, Inc., has been serving residents and farmers in Williamsport, Md., with quality products and services.

Now owned by Marvin and Judy Gower and their two children Michael, 8, and Amanda, 5, this fourth-generation family continues the traditions started by great-grandfather William when the business was started as a combination mill and freight station for the Cumberland Valley and the Pennsylvania Railroad. Mr. Gower was both the mill manager and the station manager.

Up until the late 1960s, coal was a big part of the business. But when the mill burned down in 1963, it enabled the Gowers to rebuild the mill to become the progressive business it is today.

Situated on three acres, the mill has a capacity to store 67,000 bushels of grain and 300 tons of ingredients. Complete feed rations can be made from 11 different ingredient bins and delivered on a departmentalized truck. Custom formulated dairy rations using Purina high performance concentrates are a specialty.



Keith Morgan, left and Marvin Gower take many orders for dairy feed by phone in their sales/show room. They also have a large "door trade" business.

Marvin Gower has a large storage area for bagged feeds.

The service area includes Washington County, Maryland, and Berkeley and Jefferson counties in West Virginia. A second store, located in Ranson, W. Va., services the Charles Town Race Track, adding to the total volume of business.

Along with dairy feeds, the Gowers service the area with water softener salts, store mixes for small acreage farmers, and many types of pet foods and supplies. All this adds to the business volume with what they like to call "door trade."

"Our business philosophy centers on service," Marvin said. "You need to give good service at fair prices. We now serve second and third generation farmers, and we do that with grain storage, custom-blend feeds, and service.

"We are here for the long haul. Purina gives us many products to sell that allows us to service the needs of many different types of producers."
